Easter Seal Children Selected by Society

Betty Gillen, Faribault, and Charles Johnson, Proctor, have been chosen the 1962 Minnesota Easter Seal Children.

Representing thousands of crippled children throughout Minnesota who need and receive Easter Seal services, Betty and Church will symbolize these needs and the services of Easter Seals in the 1962 Easter Seal Appeal which began March 15 and ends Easter Sunday, April 22.

Betty is the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Gillen, rt. 5, Faribault. Around the farm on which her family lives, Betty has her chores to do each day, attends school Dist. 1804 in Rice county and is in the fourth grade.

Chuck is the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Johnson, 9162 Vinland Street, Proctor. He is active in the Cub Scouts and has a coin and stamp collection on which he spends much time.

Both Chuck and Betty have been polio victims since they were one, and last year they were among the 506 crippled children and young adults who attended Camp Courage. Minnesota's only camp for crippled children which was established and is operated by the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.

At Camp Courage they gained an appreciation of Easter Seal services which also includes rehabilitation services at six facilities in the state, an equipment loan program, sheltered employment and job training, research and education.

Betty and Chuck are grateful to all who made their attendance at Camp Courage possible and they are already looking forward to returning this summer.

Fair Reorganization

The drive for members in the new or- nization that is being formed to take over e county fair operation deserves support. ie forming of a new organization is de- reable for two reasons. First, it will dis- ve the old stock company which, unfor- nately, was organized as a private com- ny and acutally was owned by a compar- ively few shareholders. Second, it will pro- de a new organization on a life-membership sis to manage the annual exposition.

It would not be proper to encourage any the shareholders in the old corporation the hope that their stock certificates ight have some value. The fairground operty in its present condition certainly is doubtful value, and our guess is that the lue is more than offset by the liabilities. ssolving the old corporation should be no oblem because it is already insolvent. If a iyer should appear who would be willing pay something extra for the property, be- les assuming the liabilities, the balance ould not be distributed to the remaining areholders. While they might have a legal ght to a share in the distribution they ould have no moral right to such a partici- ition.

The county fair has never been a profit- le operation, nor was it intended to be. At ie time it was out of debt and in a strong nancial condition, but it has survived only cause of the contributions it has received, iblic and private, but mostly public. The xpayers have put more than a hundred ousand dollars into the venture and if any oup deserves top priority in the distribu- on of any balance that might develop it ould be the taxpayers.

Actually the fair grounds should be pub- property, and we hope the new organ- tion will find a way to make it public operty. It should be developed as a park d recreation center, and only as public operty could it be developed to serve such rposes. It is located on what will develop one of the main entrances to our city and is very much in need of some face lifting. is could very well be the No. 2 assign- ent for the community planning commis- on.

But a county fair organization still is eded. An annual exposition is a necessity, pecially for 4-H activities. A large fair in e immediate future is not likely, mainly cause the present facilities are not ade- iate for a large fair, and adequate facili- s would cost a lot of dollars. And there nothing wrong about remaining small for while, if remaining small is essential to re- aining solvent.

The new fair organization deserves sup- rt and cooperation.

Motoring Manners

Clifton Fadman thinks England's super- r motoring manners are not a sign of sup- ior breeding. He attributes them to good ense, and insists the English are more pa- ent "because it does not occur to them to infuse energy with friction" and he con- udes that

"the Englishman has discovered that civility, indoctrinated from early childhood, is simply the most inexpensive and efficient reducer of friction."

Traffic signs reflect the British temper- nent, Fadman maintains. He recalls signs iat read, "Busy Streets. Please be Patient nd Helpful." Another "Heavy Vehicles: ow Gear Advised," suggesting that the river is a man of good judgment. Another, Please Have the Courtesy Not To Park lere Unless You Are Calling At These remises," which Fadman preferred to our No Parking" as "a communication from one ioughtful individual to another thoughtful ıdividual."

We like the English, although there are imes when they do seem to be a little ueer. But there probably are quite a few iings that we do that seem to them to be tupid.

Five Billion Dollars

President Kennedy has asked for five illion dollars for foreign aid for the year tarting next July 1. He said this much is eeded and declared that the passage of the ill is "vital to the interests of the United itates." As he sees it,

"All of our armies and atoms combined will be of little avail if these nations fail, unable to meet the needs of their own people and unable to stave off within their borders the rise of forces that threaten our security."

The President's appeal leaves us very inenthused for several reasons. In the irst place we have little confidence in the lreamers who will direct the spending of hese billions. In the second place we are atisfied that the nations the President re- ers to are doomed to many failures before hey emerge as self-supporting self-reliant governments regardless of how many bil- ions we toss their way; and, finally, under he delusion that we are saving the world, ve are sapping our own strength by wasting ur resources; assuming obligations that vill destroy our own economy.

We share the President's concern for the future of our nation, but we are not alarmed about the same enemy. If our form of government is destroyed it will be because we no longer deserve the freedom which we inherited. It will be because we failed to keep ourselves strong, and through our own mismanagment, degenerated into a second-rate power.

The Profit Motive

Considering the nature of the admissions made by Premier Khrushchev in his discussion of Russia's food problem before the Central Committee of the Communist Party, we may assume that the situation is critical. He told the committee that the farm slump had placed the current Seven Year Plan "in serious danger." Meat and milk deliveries were 25 percent short of plan goals. "The fact is," he said, "that there is simply not enough meat in the Soviet Union."

It is interesting to note that his No. 1 recommendation to improve this condition was to offer farmers new material incentives. In other words he would induce the farmers to put forth greater effort by the profit motive. In view of the fact that this would be a departure from Communist theory, and an approach to basic capitalism, this recommendation is significant.

East Berlin Schools

The World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession made a report on the problems of being a teacher in East Berlin. The conditions that prevail in that area probably are typical of conditions in all Communist occupied areas and raise a few reasonable doubts as to the long range effectiveness of the Communist system of education.

From the St. Paul Pioneer Press we get the following observations:

"The study, based on interviews with refugee teachers and students in West Berlin and on letters from teachers still in the East zone, concludes that recent events in East Germany have had a "catastrophic effect" on teachers, children and students.

"Students and teachers may spy on each other. There is the terrible misery of having to speak falsely to your students, as one teacher put it; teachers who used to work in West Berlin can no longer practice their profession—they are "unreliable"; retired teachers who live in the East sector but formally taught in the West cannot even cash their West pension checks.

"The ideological commitment of teachers must be complete: they must recruit for the Young Pioneers, a communist semi-miiltary group; they must abandon religion and sign pledges to resist "western aggression."

"Freedom of the mind and the spirit do not exist in East Germany education and it is well that this fact is pointed up by the world teaching profession. It's study should get the broadest possible circulation as evidence of how communism operates to stifle the search for knowledge and truth."

It doesn't seem reasonable that such controls would be tolerated indefinitely. The Russians and East Germans are intelligent people, subject to the same mental processes that we are, and there must be differences of opinion among them as there are among us. Eventually, surely, the suppressed people will emerge from their slavery.

Knowing what the present conditions are in East Berlin should make us more appreciative of the conditions under which we live and encourage extra effort in retaining the liberties we enjoy.

Expert Opinion

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

One of the commonest fallacies today is the assumption that because a man is an expert in one field, his opinions necessarily have authority in every field, however far removed from his specialty. An illustration of this kind of thinking was provided here last week by Dr. Brock Chisholm. Speaking on the dangers of war, he declared that in the opinion of some nuclear physicists, the human race has only a limited probability of surviving the next 10 years; some put its chances as low as two out of five.

Nuclear physicists presumably understand the workings of the hydrogen bomb, and some of them doubtless know how to put one together. On the subject of international politics and military strategy, however, they have no claim to special knowledge. Their opinion as to whether and when the bombs will be dropped carry no more authority than those of anyone else. Citing their iews on the probability of war is as pointless as calling on an expert gunsmith to predict whether a citizen who owns a revolver will shoot his wife with it in the next 10 years.

This year, why not do all you can to protect your equipment when you're working in the fields. Keep equipment clear of chaff and husks, at all times, take extra precautions when filling the gas tank, and then if fire does start, have a fire extinguisher handy at all times.

THE ANDERSEN LETTER

from Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

The other day a group of Russian students who were visiting and touring the United States came up to the Capitol and called at my office. I had an opportunity to speak to them.

I thought a good deal about what I should say to these young people from a country that, we believe, is opposed to our way of life. What would you say in such a circumstance? What would you try to communicate to these young people that they might take home with them?

What I told them was this: Our country is based on the ideal that every individual is important and that because of our belief we strive to give each person an opportunity, including the opportunity for education through the great school system that has been built up in this country — a system designed to give everyone the opportunity to develop his full skill.

I also brought out the fact that from the very beginning we have believed in freedom of initiative and opportunity for people. We have held to the conviction that a person should have the opportunity to a job, and to keep what he earns and use it to improve himself and his family.

The interpreter then translated my words, and as I looked at them I could see that some of the students were recognizing what we were trying to do here. One fellow who I singled out as probably the real leader of the group was getting restless because evidently some of the students were being reached with an ideal and dream that they don't hear much about back home.

After the interpretation I continued the little talk. I brought out the fact that from the very beginning our country was based on faith in God. I said that this to me leavens and balances the conception of free enterprise. If we had free enterprise without regard to anyone's rights, then we have a "dog eat dog" system that isn't what we want and isn't what America is. While we try to improve our own economic lot in life, we're always ready to help out the person who isn't getting along so well.

When I finished, one of the leaders said through the interpreter that they had ideals in Russia, too. He wondered what I thought about mutual understanding particularly if it would be based on a free press so they could fully know over there what we're doing—just as we could have the right to report completely the proceedings of their government and activities. I added that the mutual understanding could be enhanced if based on a system of free elections in Russia, so that just as we express what we want to have, they would have the same opportunity over there.

After the group left I had the feeling that perhaps I had sent some people home to Russia with a glimmer of a new idea as to the real dream that America is—as well as the dream they could have in Russia if they could put a representative form of government at work for the people in their land.

School Di.. Finance Outlined for Rotary

Fiscal Representative Speaks on Effects of $1,595,000 Bond Issue

Financial situation of the Thief River Falls school district and how the proposed $1,595,000 bond issue would affect it was outlined by Donald Swenson, representative of the C. T. Evensen and Company firm, at the noon meeting of the local Rotary club Monday. The Evensen company, Minneapolis, has been retained by the school board for financial consultation.

Lloyd Bennes presented the report of the nominating committee which included the following nominations: J. M. Roche, president; Al Bacon, vice president; Marvin Lundin, secretary-treasurer; and Richard Edlund, Wallace Tunberg and Gordon Dow, directors.

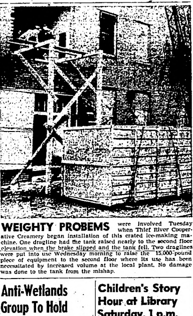
Milton Schlechter, president of the organization, reported that the local club was fifth in percentage of attendance in the district during February with attendance of 93.06 per cent. Waiters named for the month of April were George Mostue, Vernon Nelson, Roy Oen, Donald L. Olson, Kenneth Onken and E. O. Peterson.

Swenson noted that the legal limit to which a school district may issue bonds is 7½ per cent of the full and true value. This value is determined by the Equalization Aid Review Committee, a state organization, and is different from the full and true value carried on tax rolls. The committee compares the selling price of parcels of land throughout the district with the full and true value listed on the tax rolls and then determines the EARC value.

Total full and true value as determined by the committee for the Thief River Falls district is $39,271,569, Swenson said, with the 7½ per cent ratio giving a bonding limit of $2,945,370. Present outstanding debt of $1,235,000 would reduce the additional debt limit to $1,710,370.

The financial representative then discussed the method for repayment, noting that short-term payment reduces interest but penalizes present citizens. Longer payment periods, up to 30 years, are based on the idea of "let the user be the buyer". The local board has considered a 28-year payment period, Swenson added.

He also stated that total taxes paid in Thief River Falls last year for all government operations amounted to 274.55 mills. An increase of 23.7 mills is estimated for the bond payment—equivalent to an additional $8.63 on each $100 of real estate and personal property taxes paid last year. Rural areas would not have the same figures due to different mill rates.



WEIGHTY PROBEMS were involved Tuesday when Thief River Cooperative Creamery began installation of this crated ice-making machine. One dragline had the tank raised nearly to the second floor elevation when the brake slipped and the tank fell. Two draglines were put into use Wednesday morning to raise the 15,000-pound piece of equipment to the second floor where its use has been necessitated by increased volume at the local plant. No damage was done to the tank from the mishap.

Police and Safety Council Warn of Thin Ice Danger

Parents Urged To Warn Children As Warmer Weather Creates Danger

Danger that exists from thin ice on the rivers in Thief River Falls has again been called to the attention of parents in the city by the local police department. The comment has been echoed by the water safety section of the Minnesota Safety Council.

Although winter still has its icy grip on the state, the time is fast approaching when sudden thaws can be expected with resultant danger to youngsters and adults alike who may venture out on the thin ice, the local department warns.

Carl Moen, director of the water safety section of the Minnesota Safety Council, pointed out in St. Paul that weather is very unpredictable this time of the year. "Sudden rapid thaws can change firm, thick ice into a dangerously thin shell in a very short time," he said.

"It is time we started warning our children now about the dangers of thin ice so that when the spring break-up comes, the kids will be on their guard."

Generally warm weather in this area recently indicates that the ice should no longer be considered safe, stated Elton Cummings, chief of the local police department.

School Needs Listed At Open PTA Meeting

Projected Enrollment Shown; Plans for New Buildings Presented

Designed to provide information in regard to educational needs in Thief River Falls and the method planned to fill these needs, an open meeting of the Lincoln high school Parent-Teacher association was held Monday evening at the school auditorium. Attendance at the meeting was estimated at not more than 175 persons.

Malcolm Magnusson, PTA president, introduced Lloyd Howick, chairman of the local board of education. Howick introduced Supt. M. R. Hankerson who outlined in detail the present enrollment, number of rooms available, predicted enrollment according to statistics on the school census and what possible solutions might be reached.

Since both a new elementary school and junior high school are proposed in the $1,595,000 bond issue which will be voted on April 23, both were given consideration at the Monday meeting. Elementary facilities were reviewed by George Stockman, director of elementary education, and junior high school problems were outlined by Francis Hamerlinck, junior high school principal.

With the apprent needs thoroughly presented, part of the program time was devoted to the architects and fiscal agent who are handling design of the new buildings and giving advice on Financing construction of the structures.

Alternatives Listed

Supt. Hankerson offered a number of alternatives which the district could take to meet the crisis of too many children in too few rooms. Among these were the elimination of kindergarten; elimination of libraries at Washington and Northrop schools to use the areas for classrooms; rental of additional space in other buildings; running a double session of school from 7 a. m. to noon and 12:30 to 5:30; or constructing additional facilities to provide for increased enrollment.

"By comparing the number of classrooms recommended for practical utilization to the present use they are being given, we find that our classroom usage is about 111 per cent," Hankerson said. "Using a seven-hour class day and still allowing a home base for the teacher and an opportunity to prepare the room for maximum use in teaching, we find that our present utilization is 92 per cent."

Better Vegetables for 1962

Looking over seed catalogs each spring is always an enjoyable activity for the gardener. Every year new varieties and hybrids are described that are sure to tempt you. Some new introductions are worth trying, but others are merely novelities or show little improvement over older standard varieties.

Tendercrop snap bean is still one of the best of the newer varieties. It has disease resistance and high productivity. Pods are round, straight and stringless. Kinghorn wax, a round yellow-podded bean with white seeds, is especially well suited for freezing.

Some of the most dependable root vegetables include Red Boy radish, Ruby Queen beet and Nantes carrot. All are well suited to Minnesota gardens.

A new early maturing hybrid sweet corn with large ears is Earliking. Another dependable corn is Golden Beauty which matures later but still in time to be useful in most of our gardens in the state.

Badger Market cabbage continues to be an excellent choice for the garden. It is disease resistant and heads split less readily than other varieties.

A new cucumber is Spartan Dawn, a hybrid that produces female blossoms at every node but no male blossoms. It has to be grown next to another variety for pollination. Other good slicing cucumbers are Challenger and Saticoy. Burpee Hybrid is still one of the most dependable.

Leading the list of tomatoes is the hybrid Big Boy. It produces large, thick-walled meaty fruits from midseason to frost. Though not early enough for northern Minnesota gardens, it is highly recommended for the southern part of the state. For the north, try Hybrid EE or Fireball. Another good tomato is Moreton Hybrid for dependable crops of high quality, medium-sized fruits.

Buttercup squash is one of the best varieties for the garden. For summer squash, a good choice is either Hybrid Zucchini or Seneca Prolific Hybrid.

INCOME TAX ADVICE

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

Income From Small Businesses

(This is the sixteenth and last in a series of articles on income taxes made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association, Public Relations Committee.)

Income from your small unincorporated business or partnership will be reported on your individual income tax return in the form of total receipts of income. From this amount, you will be entitled to deduct all costs properly attributable to the income such as the cost of goods sold, wages and employment taxes paid, rent and utilities and all other business expenses incurred to earn the income reported. In a partnership, the partner reports on his tax return, generally, his proportionate share of the income and expenses.

Where you own shares of stock in a corporation, you will normally report the dividends received on the stock as income. Prior to your receipt of the dividends, however, the corporation will have paid income taxes on its income. Under certain circumstances, this double taxation on corporation earnings can be avoided. Where a corporation has no more than 10 shareholders and all of these shareholders consent to have the income of the corporation taxed to them, the income of the corporation is taxed directly to the stockholders as though it had been distributed to them at the end of the corporation's taxable year. The election must be made in the first month of a corporation's taxable year, or in the last month of the previous taxable year. Once the election is made, it continues until terminated and, once terminated, a corporation may not again elect to be taxed under this provision for five years. As in the case of a partnership tax return, the income to the stockholders retains the character that it had for the same character that it had for the corporation. For example, where the corporation sells capital assets at a profit, the individual shareholder would report his proportionate share of this profit as a capital gain on his tax return. The foregoing rules apply only where all stockholders are individuals or estates and where the corporation has only one class of stock.

Under some situations, you may also be entitled to deduct from your gross income 100 per cent of the loss you sustained from the sale, exchange or worthlessness of common stock which you hold in a "small business corporation". These losses are treated as attributable to a trade or business of the taxpayer up to the limit of $25,000 on a separate return and $50,000 on a joint return of husband and wife. This provision allows you to take the entire deduction in the year of loss without considering the maximum loss allowable on capital asset transactions and without being required to lose the tax benefit arising from the existence of net long-term capital gains.

This section provides added incentive for the investment of risk capital in small business corporations because the investor may reap a capital gain if the business is successful and receive an ordinary loss deduction if the business fails.

Only individual taxpayers who receive their stock directly from the issuing corporation in exchange for money or other property will be entitled to this special ordinary loss deduction. The stock must have been received by the individual under a plan in writing adopted by the corporation after June 30, 1958. Other technical limitations on the applicability of these laws to your situation also exist, and you should consult an experienced tax attorney to determine your right to benefit under these laws.

School Situation Reviewed at LHS PTA Monday Night

officials have is in the projected enrollment figures. These reflect the number of children already born and listed on the school census who, barring unforeseen movement away from the city, will be attending school within the next several years. By the 1965-66 school term, total enrollment in grades seven through 12 will be 1,259 — an increase of 135 from the present figure of 1,124.

Elementary enrollment by the 1965-66 school term is expected to rise from the present figure of 1,265 to 1,444, Hankerson pointed out. The three elementary schools in the city provide 40 permanent classrooms. At present 47 rooms are being used, including three temporary rooms in other school facilities, two at the armory and two at Trinity Lutheran church.

Plans Reviewed

Architects reviewed tentative plans for the new elementary and junior high school buildings. They noted that one-story construction is generally preferred since it can be built for an estimated $30,000 less than two-story construction. Long-term interest on that amount would cost more than additional heat required for a one-story building.

The architects also pointed out how utilization of common facilities such as library, gymnasium, cafeteria and heating plant by both the junior high school and elementary school would reduce total costs. It was also noted that equipment for the new buildings and the possible tearing down of old Washington school were costs included in the $1,595,000 bond figure.

Fact sheets listing enrollment projections, facilities included in the proposed construction and a diagrammatic sketch of plans which are serving as a guide for planning were distributed at the meeting.

Heavy Snowfall Misses Times Area

Roads Blocked North of Hallock by Stalled Semis

Light snowfall early this morning following rain mixed with snow yesterday and last night has made streets in the city slippery and nearly covered snowless areas which appeared the past several days. Temperatures are expected to drop slightly today after a low of 27 degrees last night.

Areas north and west of Thief River Falls received the brunt of snowfall, according to the state highway patrol. It was reported that nine semi-trailer trucks were stalled north of Hallock, making traffic on highway 75 impossible. No travel in that area on any roads is advised. Roads to Grand Forks via Crookston are good with the exception of a three-mile section immediately east of East Grand Forks.

High and low temperatures respectively the past several days include 38 and 31 Monday, 42 and 30 Tuesday, 40 and 30 Wednesday and last night's low of 27 degrees. Considerable cloudiness with light snow is predicted for today with temperatures in the mid 30's. Lows tonight will be 20 to 26 under cloudy skies with little change expected tomorrow.

State Taxpayers Assn. Counsel Tells Lions of Sales Tax

Charles P. Stone Urges Support for Sales Tax as a Replacement Levy

Charles P. Stone, general counsel for the Minnesota Taxpayers association was the guest speaker at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday noon. He discussed what he termed the present unwise tax policies in the state which, he said have served to restrain business development, thus reducing the number of available jobs.

Stone said taxation policies have followed the line of least resistance, thus creating a haphazard tax structure. To remedy the situation, he proposed a replacement sales tax, which at the rate of three per cent would net the state approximately $121 million, enough to wipe out the $73 million personal property tax bill, $5 million in income surtaxes and certain other present levies, and leaving $25 million a year for other purposes.

To prevent any extra burden on families with small incomes, Stone said, exemptions could be made of sales taxes on food, rent, services and medical bills; or the same result could be obtained by allowing a $10 credit on the state income tax for each family member. He estimated that a family of five with a $5,000 income would pay a net sales tax of about $40.

Stone said 37 of the 50 states now have a sales tax in some form, and he predicted that the Minnesota legislature would adopt the plan at its 1963 session.

How to Conduct Business Meeting Is Institute Topic

Second Session Friday To Be Led by Ted Hellie; All Interested Invited

Parliamentary procedure and how to conduct a business meeting will be explained and reviewed at the Institute for Organization Leadership second session to be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the Lincoln high school cafeteria. Ted Hellie, English instructor at the school, will serve as instructor for the educational program.

Final session of the three-program institute will be held Tuesday, April 3, since Friday night store openings will begin on April 6. The final program will be on how to be a good toastmaster with the instructor being Marvin Campbell, Crookston, district governor of Toastmasters International.

Any and all interested persons are encouraged to attend the final two sessions, even if they missed the first meeting last Friday. All persons who attend all three sessions will receive certificates of achievement at the final meeting.

Arnold Engelstad at Potato Hearing

Reports Most Growers Oppose Marketing Order

Arnold Engelstad attended the hearing on the proposed national potato marketing order in Minneapolis Thursday, Friday and Saturday and reports that the delegations representing growers from Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and North Dakota were very much opposed to the plan offered by the department of agriculture.

The Saturday session was set aside for the purpose of hearing suggestions for improving the plan, he said, but following a few short statements to the effect that no plan controlled at the national level would be acceptable, practically all of the growers walked out of the meeting.

Mr. Engelstad told the Times that growers in the four states favor controls on the area basis as they are in the Red River Valley, managed by the growers themselves. Sentiment was nearly unanimous that the program proposed by the department was unfair, unworkable, unnecessary, expensive and restrictive to the progress of the industry.

WINONA MANSION HOME FOR ELDERLY

Some "Victorian mansions" are still in use as family homes, some are schools and museums, many have been demolished to make way for super markets, shopping centers, and parking lots. At least one of Minnesota's great pioneer mansions is today making more people comfortable and happy than its nineteenth century builder probably ever dreamed: the historic and picturesque Paul Watkins manor house in Winona has been converted and expanded, under the inspired direction of a retired Methodist minister, the Reverend Horace A. Graubner, into a convenient and commodious home for elderly folk who prefer relaxation to housekeeping and lawn tending. Elegant to the point of luxury in appointments: controlled ventilation, pipe organ, library, game rooms, hobby area, inter-coms—the Paul Watkins Methodist Memorial Home provides for every need and comfort of its 30 or more guests, at, by today's standards, amazingly moderate cost, and offers inviting haven to half a hundred more.

COUNTIES GROW IN NUMBERS AND COST

Minnesota's first county law in 1849 provided for a board of three commissioners in each of nine counties, along with probate judge, register of deeds, coroner, treasurer, sheriff, and three assessors, all elective. In 1851 attorney and surveyor were added to the elective list, clerk of court appointive; seven years later county auditor was made an appointive officer, and in '64 superintendent of schools In 1877 and following legislative sessions, the offices of superintendent, auditor, and clerk were made elective. Many appointive offices have been added. Today Minnesota's 87 counties get an average of 60 per cent of their revenue from property tax, 38 per cent in grants from the state, 2 per cent miscellaneous. Welfare takes 36 per cent of their expenditures, highways 29 per cent, schools 19 per cent, administration 10.4 per cent; safety, conservation, buildings, etc., 5.6 per cent. The ever-growing tax burden gives rise to more and more talk of curtailing the number and scope of our many governmental units and agencies.

U. S. NEEDS MORE ELECTRIC POWER

Demand for electric power in the U. S. in 1980 will be more than three times the amount used today, predicts the Federal Power Commission. The commission estimates that over the next 20 years power requirements will rise to 3 trillion kilowatt-hours annually, compared with 849 billion used in 1960.

What makes a new soldier gripe? Poor food, hard training, lack of sleep? None of these, suggests Prof. Alvin F. Zander, director of the University of Michigan Research Center for Group Dynamics. The true reason, Zander says, is that the newly uniformed man doesn't like other soldiers. The usual rigors of military life are difficult to bear, says Zander, but adjustment to various personalities encountered is toughest of all. A step in the right direction, he adds, would be to place together recruits with similar backgrounds and intelligence.

Jorgenson Cited for Ice Sport at Harvard

Editor's Note—Harvard University's sports department has some good words for Gerry Jorgenson, Lincoln high school graduate and former Prowler hockey star. The following story was sent to the Times by the office of sports information at the college located in Cambridge, Mass.

Some good hockey players come in small packages, and one of them, Thief River's Gerry Jorgenson, just closed out a successful season with the Harvard Univresity hockey team. Jorgenson, a 5'6", 145-pound mighty mite, played "an important part in the team's 22-5 record," according to Coach Cooney Weiland.

Jorgenson began the season centering Harvard's high scoring line, with Tim Taylor and sophomore standout Gene Kinasewich on the wings. When Weiland moved Kinasewich to center, Jorgenson took right over on the wing and played just as well as ever.

He likes to move in and dig the puck out of the corners, a tactic crucial to the Harvard attack. His size doesn't bother him a bit, and he's willing to fight for the puck with heftier opponents.

Because of his love for activity in the corners, Jorgenson has never been a top goal getter. In his sophomore year, he tallied 4 goals and 11 assists, while during this season, he only managed 2 goals and 13 assists

"Sure, getting the goal is important," Weiland says, "But somebody has to get that puck to the man in the best scoring position. Jorgenson has done this magnificiently."

One of his best games was the last one of the season in the Eastern College tourney. Harvard faced off against Colby in the consolation final, and although Jorgenson didn't score a point, he harassed his opponents at every turn with hard forechecking. Time after time, he broke up Colby's attempts to set up play patterns coming from its own zone This fits right in with Weiland's defensive style of play. Harvard won that game, picking up two goals in the third period and shutting out the Maine team.

In winning more games than in any past season, the Crimson outscored its opponents over 2 to 1, tallying 130 goals to 56. With goaltenders Bob Bland and Godfrey Wood holding percentages of .899 and .925 respectfully, the Harvard defense allowed only 2.1 goals per game. For the second consecutive year, Harvard retained the Ivy League title, earning a 9-1 record in League competition.

The outlook for next year is bright, with help forthcoming from an adequate freshman unit and an outstanding Junior Varsity team. The three high scorers, Gene Kinasewich, captain-elect Tim Taylor, and Ike Ikauniks (Crookston), who totaled 100 points among them, will be back along with Jorgenson and the entire defensive squad.

"Jorgenson did a fine job for us this year," concludes Weiland, "And I certainly look forward to his play next season." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jorgenson of 2020 S. Tindolph in Thief River Falls.

State Officials Speak on Wildlife Preservation and Public Hunting Area

Thirty-five persons from eight northeastern Minnesota counties attended a meeting of the Northwestern Minnesota Association of Conservation clubs held Monday evening at the American Legion club rooms in Thief River Falls. Gay Warnecke of this city, president of the northwestern group, presided at the meeting.

Guests of the association were Keith Brodin, executive board member of the Minnesota Conservation Federation; James Kimball, director of game and fish for the state conservation department; and Dave Vesall, supervisor of game for the department.

Others attending were Herb Dill, manager, and Ralph Towne, assistant manager, Agassiz National Wildlife refuge; Robert Farmes, area game manager; and Carl Sundstrom, local game warden.

Discussion centered around methods of preserving wildlife and public hunting area. A conservation area tour was given consideration for sometime later this spring. Sportsmen attended from Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, East Grand Forks, Crookston, Alvarado, Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls and Holt.

Former TRF Man Designs Boat of Corrugated Board

Richard Kruse Builds Pontoon Houseboat To Test Waterproof Board

Richard Kruse, former Thief River Falls resident who majored in architecture at the University of Minnesota and now is employed as an administrative assistant to Congressman Odin Langen in Washington, D. C., has assisted in construction of a houseboat which shows waterproof qualities of a manufacturer's corrugated board.

The houseboat is moored on the Potomac river near the nation's capitol to show the insulating features of the oil-impregnated cardboard. A. R. (Pat)Patterson of Arlington, Va., vice president of a firm which manufactures the board, believes in extremes to prove the worth of a product.

In 1959 he built a cardboard "runabout" and moved it down the Intercoastal Waterway with a 10-hp. outboard motor. This year he built the houseboat with which Kruse assisted.

The latter boat has a plywood frame resting on two pontoons. It is replete with electrical outlets for dockside hookup, remote steering and throttle controls that operate two 18-hp. outboard motors. The men believe mass-production possibilities of the board boat are slim, so Patterson is thinking of marketing the cabin portion as a children's playhouse.

An All-Time Record

The high-average Elaine's bowling team bettered the existing single game record for the Family Bowl lanes on Tuesday night when they chalked up a 1058-pin total.

Bowling in Business league competiton against Gunder's Bums, the Elaine's, who had dropped the first game of the three-game series, won the odd game when they cracked the pins for their record-breaking total in the final game of the series.

In this record-making game, pilot horty Perkins rolled a 211; second Gary Vettelson scored a 200; Stan Cockrell came up with a 174; Wally DuChamp rolled a 206; and anchor Jesse DuChamp bowled a 267. The Elaine's had a three-game total of 2930 pins, setting a season's three-game mark.

And the match between the Elaine's and the Bums was made a bit more interesting by the personal duel between Jesse DuChamp the anchor man of the Elaine's, and lefty Freddy Jensen, the anchor man of the Bums. Freddy had games of 237-181-121, for a splendid 639 series; but he had to yield individual honors to Jesse, who came up with games of 200-205-267, for a high 672 series. Jesse is the league's high-average bowler, having, prior to Tuesday night's session, a 189-pin average. This 672 total should provide Jesse with some "insurance" in his high-average race with the Len's Tire Service Carl Onkka, who had been bowling at a 188-pin clip.

Making a Change

Doug Tegtmeier, the popular sportscaster of KNOX-TV and radio in Grand Forks, will be leaving the Grand Forks station shortly. It is reported that Doug, who was a long-time sportscaster for station KTRF here, and who made a host of friends in this area, will be joining Tom Cochrane in a farm supply business in Crookston. Tom, too, is a former Thief River Falls resident.

Tom established a liquid fertilizer business in Crookston some years ago, and has had marked success. I'm sure that Doug will prove to be an asset to the business.

No Interviews

Raynold (Red) Thyren, apparently following the custom of the New York Yankees' Roger Maris, is refusing to give an interview with regard to his, Red's, bowling performance in Detroit Lakes on Sunday.

From reliable eye-witnesses I have learned that Red, bowling in a handicap singles tournament at Detroit Lakes, reached the final frame of his third and final game needing but a six-pin tally to win first place money. Red had a 700-pin total on the score-board, and having spared the tenth frame, he needed but six pins to better the top mark of 705. But what did Red do? He was off stride on his delivery, and as he approached the foul line he forced the ball, with the result that the ball went into the gutter!

That's unquestionably the most costly gutter ball that Red has ever thrown. About thirty-five dollars worth.

Explains Meaning of Property Insurance

Following is the first of a series of three articles by the Insurance Information Institute on the subject, "Understanding Your Insurance":

(first in a series)

Insurance is occasionally described as a gamble. Actually, it is anything but that. There is a risk in gambling, but insurance is designed to eliminate risks. Insurance spreads the financial losses of a few people among many. Thus the insured person accepts a small certain loss — the premium — in order to escape the risk of having a large uncertain loss.

One type of insurance is that of property coverage. As with almost every business, the insurance industry has its share of terms and expressions which have definite meaning to insurance men but which may be confusing to the layman. In regard to property insurance, four of the most frequently heard expressions are: Extended coverage, homeowner's policy, all-risk insurance and co-insurance.

Extended coverage may be added to the standard fire policy and takes care of loss caused by explosions, windstorms, hail, smoke, falling aircraft, vehicles, riots and civil commotion. Most loss payments arise from storm damage—winds, tornadoes and hail.

A homeowner's policy combines under one contract a number of insurance coverages, such as fire, extended coverage, burglary and personal liability. By purchasing this package policy, the insured obtains a lower premium rate, made possible by reduced administrative costs.

The all-risk type of insurance protects you against all perils, except those specifically excluded by the policy. Ordinary policies name the specific risks covered.

Co-insurance is an optional provision in a policy requiring the property owner to carry insurance that amounts to at least a stated percentage of the value of the property. This done in consideration of a reduced premium rate.

Although fire insurance policies originally protected you only against fire, property insurance today may include not only fire but also lightning, windstorm, hail, explosion, rupture or bursting of steam or hot water systems, riot, civil commotion, smoke, falling aircraft, motor vehicle damage, sprinkler leakage, earthquake, vandalism, malicious mischief, glass breakage, fall of trees and building collapse.

Property damage can often cause loss of earnings—particularly in the case of commercial property. Therefore, the insurance industry offers policies which cover loss of earnings, profits, commissions, tuition fees and rental values. This type of coverage is generally termed "time element" insurance.

Property owners should inspect their policies to learn exactly what they are protected against. Your independent insurance agent can advise you on proper coverage.

Policyholders expect prompt and fair adjustment of their claims when they suffer a loss. To provide this service to insureds, capital stock insurance companies formed adjustment organizations having offices in all parts of the country.

Although many companies have their own adjusters, these adjustment bureaus handle a large proportion of loss claims, especially in times of catastrophes. When a disaster, such as a tornado, stikes an area, the bureaus can rush large forces of adjusters into the stricken area, set up an emergency storm office and expedite insurance payments to policy-holders.

Fire insurance rates are much lower today than they were in the last century. In those days, the making of premium rates was not very scientific.

Today, it is very much so. Inspection and rating bureaus are constantly collecting data, enabling them to set the lowest possible rates to protect policyholders. At the same time, the rates keep the companies solvent and usually enable them to make a fair return to their stockholders.

Carl Paulsons Attend Meet of Salvation Army

Envoy and Mrs. Carl Paulson of the Thief River Falls Salvation Army unit were among more than 250 Salvation Army officers attending the Salvation Army officer's councils held recently in Minneapolis. The local unit serves Pennington, Marshall, Roseau and Kittson counties.

Among many work items discussed was a disaster program for Minnesota and North Dakota. Considerable emphasis was placed on the Red River flood control area in which the Army is expected to be active this spring.

Commissioner Clause E. Bates was honored for 50 years of service to the Salvation Army at a farewell party held during the council. Upon his retirement the new territorial leaders in the central territory will be Commissioner and Mrs. Samuel Hepunn. Central territory offices are located in Chicago.

Safety Honors to Be Awarded State Highway Workers

Bemidji District Came Thru 1961 with Record of No Lost-time Injuries

At a series of annual district safety meetings to be held during the following five weeks, safety awards will be presented to nearly 3,500 Minnesota highway department employees for their safe driving and working records during 1961.

The first of the 18 all-day meetings will be held in Mankato on Tuesday, April 3. At this time, maintenance and construction workers of the 7th district will receive safe driving awards from the National Safety Council and safe worker awards from the department.

Included in the 2,200 employees to be honored are 122 veteran workers who will receive also a "Governor's Award for Safety." This special recognition will be made for work in shops or other areas, and for the driving of motorized equipment and vehicles for 30 years without accident or time lost due to injury. Half of these recipients will have completed 31 years at the time of the award.

In addition to individual awards, twelve plaques will be presented to district headquarters for over-all records. Four construction districts with headquarters in Bemidji, Willmar, Mankato and Golden Valley, completed the year with 0.0 for lost time injuries. The St. Cloud maintenance district will be honored for its low rate: .88 per 100,000 hours.

In the motor vehicle safety contests, three maintenance areas with headquarters in Willmar, Mankato and Marshall, and three construction districts, headquartered in Bemidji, Golden Valley and Willmar, completed 1961 without a motor vehicle accident. This is the thirteenth year that Marshall has finished without an accident to state-owned vehicles.

The safety meetings will include instruction in tractor safety and flagging operations was well as a first-aid refresher course for all employees.

State Publishes New Wildlife Book

Written by John Moyle of Conservation Dept.

The Minnesota conservation department has announced the publication of "Fish and Wildlife in Minnesota", a booklet aimed at promoting a better understanding of game and fish species found in the state and the conservation principles on which their management is based.

Written by John B. Moyle, supervisor of research and planning, the booklet is designed to bring together information scattered thru hundreds of books, articles and reports into a condensed form suitable for use by teachers, students, hunters, fishermen and others interested in a study of the natural world in which they live.

Use of the booklet in the public school systems of Minnesota has been endorsed by the Minnesota department of education. The Minnesota Education association is serving as a distributing agency for the manual.

The new booklet is the third in a conservation series being distributed by the Association. The other two are titled "Conservation and You" and "Forestry for Minnesota Schools".

Inquiries and orders may be addressed to the Minnesota Education Association, 41 Sherburne Ave., St. Paul 3. Retail and school prices are $1.25 per copy or $1.00 per copy when 10 or more copies are ordered.

Studies Show Rise in State Highway Usage

Motorists in Minnesota traveled an estimated 13,710,702 miles on 10,172 miles of rural trunk highways on an average day in 1960, according to a report on "Minnesota Rural Trunk Highways and Local Rural Road Travel" issued by the planning research section of the Minnesota highway department. This travel was found to be three per cent greater than travel performed on an average day in 1959.

Annual studies of this kind have been made by the Department's Research section since 1936. The means used for making them are fourfold:

1. The Minnesota highway department maintains 28 automatic traffic recorder locations on rural trunk highways. The recorders provide data on yearly, seasonal, daily and hourly traffic figures.

2. Traffic volume counts of 48-hour duration are made annually. A group of seasonal adjustment factors, calculated from the hourly traffic recordings, are applied to short term volume counts in order to obtain average annual daily traffic volumes for use in making up traffic flow maps.

3. Motor vehicles are classified manually to obtain information on the use of rural trunk highways by passenger cars and commercial vehicles having various axle arrangements.

4. Commercial vehicles passing 16 weighing stations located on rural trunk highways and local rural roads are weighed and measured and the drivers interviewed for additional information.

Other facts derived from this study of interest to highway users are:

Travel on rural trunk highways in four of the metropolitan area counties — Anoka, Dakota, Hennepin and Ramsey — increased 5.8 per cent while travel on rural trunk highways in the remaining 83 counties increased only 2.9 per cent.

Travel during the summer months was 125.5 per cent of the average daily traffic, fall traffic was 105.2 per cent, winter traffic was only 77.2 per cent and spring traffic was 92.1 per cent. These percentages show that 32 per cent of the total annual travel is performed during the summer months and 20 per cent during the winter months.

The greatest daily volumes of traffic on rural trunk highways occur on Sundays and holidays.

About 73 per cent of all travel on rural trunk highways occurs during daylight hours which is computed from ½ hour before sunrise to ½ hour after sunset.

Between the hours of 6 a. m. and 10 p. m., about 88 per cent of all travel takes place on rural trunk highways.

The least traffic may be found on these highways between 3 and 4 a. m., while the greatest hourly volumes occur between 4 and 5 p. m.

Passenger cars accounted for 83.4 per cent of the traffic on rural trunk highways. Single-unit trucks accounted for 10 per cent; tractor-semitrailers, 5.8 per cent, and trucks pulling trailers and buses, .8 per cent.

Firearm Training Is Given to 97,000

Program Makes Marked Progress In Minnesota

Over 97,000 young Minnesotans have completed a course in firearms safety training under the program administered by the Conservation department's warden service, it was announced today.

Game warden Don Murray, program supervisor, said firearms safety training has materially reduced the number of shooting casualties in the younger age groups. In view of the relatively small percentage of trained youngsters subsequently involved in accidental shootings, he believes that such acidents can be virtually eliminated in time.

Courses in firearms safety are taught by 4,500 volunteer instructors who serve without pay. Advising them are local game wardens who provide written material, films and other teaching aids and in many cases conduct a firearms safety class of their own.

Murray said that nation-wide over 1,250,000 young people have received formal training in firearms safety.

Tax Equalization

The Iron Range is taking steps to adjust tax assessments in that area to a more realistic base a little closer to the state average. Commissioners, assessors, attorneys and auditors of St. Louis and Itasca counties have received their instructions from the state tax commissioner. There apparently has been much discrimination and little uniformity in the taxing procedures in those counties. According to the Grand Rapids Herald-Review, "It has been a common practice to assess commercial and industrial properties at a considerably higher figure than residential properties, in proportion to market values."

The state tax commissioner has ordered the revisions, stating:

> "The first step in an equalization program will be to bring those classes of property and those areas of the state that are assessed low into line with the average level in the state. The assessors of the state are directed to take notice of this program and to act accordingly in making their 1962 assessment."

In some instances this will mean doubling the taxes, according to the Herald-Review, and the commissioner is permitting the adjustments to be made gradually.

Taxes will never be popular for those who must pay them, but they must be paid. Equalization is the all-important factor in spreading assessments if taxation is to be fair. As the Herald-Review points out, "If local and county officials don't do the job, the state will be forced to step in."

Our Japanese Islands

Our country is still occupying the Ryukyu Islands in the Pacific, Japanese Islands which we seized during the war and upon which we have maintained important military bases. The Japanese, of course, would like to have the islands returned to them, and a situation of this kind could add to the difficulty of maintaining a lasting friendship.

President Kennedy referred to this problem recently and made this statement:

> "I recognize the Ryukyus to be a part of the Japanese homeland and look forward to the day when the security interests of the free world will permit their restoration to full Japanese sovereignty.
> "In the meantime we have a situation which must be met in a spirit of forbearance and mutual understanding by all concerned."

The President then announced a number of changes that will be made to give the islanders more self-government, and wages that will compare favorably with those in Japan. In the economic development of the islands America will work closely with the Japanese government.

Mr. Kennedy is to be commended for setting forth so frankly the position of our government in this manner, and his promises should be helpful in overcoming any misunderstadings as to our intent. His statement is another proof of the falsehood of Communist charges that we are motivated by imperialistic designs.

United Nations and Peace

The argument about whether our government should buy those United Nations bonds is developing some interesting angles, and before our government is authorized to make the purchase the world peace organization is going to get a thorough re-examination. Which will be for the good of that organization.

Democratic Senator Jackson of Washington State, made the following intersting observation recently:

> "The truth is, though we have not often spoken it in recent years, that the best hope for peace with justice does not lie in the United Nations. Indeed, the truth is almost exactly the reverse. The best hope for the United Nations lies in the maintenance of peace. In our deeply divided world, peace depends on the power and unity of the Atlantic Community and on the skill of our direct diplomacy."

According to the Wall Street Journal, these are not the words of an extremist "bent on destroying the UN" but come from one who is much concerned about "how American policy is made." Referring to Senator Jackson's statement, the Journal observes:

> "Their assessment is clear. From the beginning the U. S. Government has placed an exaggerated emphasis on the effectiveness of the UN and its significance for the United States. Government officials have told us repeatedly that the UN is both the last best hope for peace and the cornerstone of U. S. foreign policy.
> "Yet such a view has never rested on fact. The UN's potential effectiveness was gravely diminished in its very structure and initial assumptions—the notion that our Soviet enemies would cooperate with us in the UN. More recently we have seen its membership growing out of bounds, and thus posing the very real danger that the U. S. may be led into ill-considered enterprises. Meantime, the U. S. Government, by virtue of its military strength and alliances, has been the actual keeper of the peace.
> "So a dispassionate new look at the UN is as needed as it is welcome. It is at last beginning to be recognized that, for our own safety, we must take the true measure of the UN.
> "For we cannot be secure so long as we think, in Senator Jackson's words, that we can somehow "subcontract to the UN responsibility for national decision-making." That responsibility, as long ago contracted with the U. S. people, belongs in one place only."

Assistance that Assists

Charles L. Davis, an American poultry specialist, is getting excellent results revolutionizing poultry raising in Nigeria. A Negro, he has a background of teaching experience in that country.

In Nigeria, as in most other undeveloped countries, the lack of food is one of the big problems. The food supply for ordinary people is skimpy and badly assorted.

Joseph R. L. Sterne, writing from that country, attributes the food shortage not to a lack of land but rather to ignorance, "ignorance of the principles of good husbandry, plus bad seed for planting and scrubby blood lines in farm animals. He reports:

> "What Mr. Davis is doing is to correct that in Nigeria so far as poultry is concerned—Mr. Davis is showing the Nigerians how to raise Rhode Island Reds, and the results of his demonstration are spreading in concentric circles.
> "In a land where eggs and broilers are often a drug on the market, this may seem a small thing. In Nigeria, it is a big thing. It adds protein to an unbalanced diet greatly in need of it. It starts a new cash crop. It takes peasant farming a step beyond the struggle for mere subsistence. It starts minds working and disarms suspicion and hostility."

Which observations prompted the Baltimore Sun to the following sensible conclusions:

> "There is glamour in the plans for equipping countries like Nigeria with steel mills, great dams and aluminum plants. But their appeal is more to the ruling elite in these new countries than to the humble. There is glamour, too, in the arrival of shiploads of food labeled "Aid from U.S.A." But for the hungry and ignorant chained to a life of bare subsistence on the land there is greater glamour still in the elementary revelations of men like Mr. Davis. This is the kind of aid that brings fast results at minimum cost."

Mr. Davis has been in Nigeria two years, his work being sponsored by the American Agency for International Development. This is one organization that apparantly has its feet on the ground. This kind of a program makes sense and should be given more publicity.

How NATO Views Cuba

(Financial Post, Toronto)

Canadians should take note that this country is by no means alone in resisting Washington's invitation to join in an embargo on Cuban trade.

Little attention was paid here to one purpose of a recent European trip by Dr. Walt W. Rostow, economic adviser to President Kennedy. Representing the U. S. at a NATO conference, he was given the assignment of persuading the European members of the alliance to break all commercial relations with the Castro regime.

His proposal got a frigid reception and was speedily dropped. The countries of Western Europe do little business with Cuba and had no powerful economic motive for turning down the Rostow plan. They took the view that the ban on Cuban trade was none of their business and, anyway, would not serve a useful purpose.

In London both the Times and the Daily Telegraph editorially opposed the embargo. The Telegraph, a right-wing Conservative paper, said that "siege tactics", instead of bringing Castro to his knees, would be much more likely "to heighten the zeal of the Cuban revolutionaries and consolidate their attachment to Moscow".

That is how it looks in Canada.

"Our great need is not more classrooms, but better, more intelligent use of the classrooms we have. Why should school-buildings which cost many thousands, often millions, of dollars lie fallow three months out of the year?

"Ditto, teachers. Should such talents be wasted three months of the year, when we need to speed up education in this time of crisis?"

Butter Cookie Event Set to Start April 9

It's butter cookie contest time again in the Northwest.

Dates and rules of the tenth annual butter cookie championships were announced Wednesday by the co-sponsoring Minnesota Dairy Industry committee and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association.

Adult and junior cookie makers of Minnesota and neighboring states are invited to enter sample batches of their favorite cookies. Everyone entering receives a prize.

Traditionally, however, the biggest winners are the crippled children and shut-in patients of various institutions who will receive the cookies as a pre-Easter treat.

Competition is open in three divisions—plain, fancy and junior. A separate contest also is held for wives of dairy industry personnel.

Entries will be accepted during the week of April 9 with the final deadline set at noon, Saturday, April 14. Entries may either be mailed to Butter Cookie Contest, St. Paul 8, Minn., or delivered personally to the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee office at 2239 Carter Ave., St. Paul.

Judging will be April 17 and winners will be announced on Easter Sunday, April 22.

First through third prizes in the adult plain and fancy divisions will be electric mixers, card table and chair sets and electric can openers. Junior division prizes will be a four-speed phonograph, a transistor radio and a flash camera kit.

A special "Princess Kay of the Milky Way" award, determined by a drawing from names of all contestants, will be a set of stainless steel cookware.

Judges of the 1962 contest will be Mrs. Nancy Anderson and Mrs. Arlene Stansfield, both Minneapolis home economists, and Mrs. Walter Hedlund of Reynolds, Minn., last year's Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' Association contest champion.

Rules are similar to previous years. Entries must be clearly marked for "plain" or "fancy" competition among adults and junior class contestants (14 years and under) should include their ages.

All entries must be accompanied by the recipe used.

Each entry must include a minimum of 18 cookies.

Any recipe which uses butter as a primary ingredient may be used and recipes need not be original.

These points will govern the 1962 contest:

Appearance — 20 points. Appearances will be judged on uniformity of size, thickness and color.

Package — 20 points. Package will be graded on condition of cookies uponarrival. Fancy or unusual packing or wrapping is not desired.

Texture — 20 points. Cookies should be tender and either crisp or soft, depending on type. They should not be hard, tough or crumbly.

Flavor — 40 points. Cookies should have a mild, pleasing flavor or well-blended flavors. They should not be flat, too sweet or too pronounced in some ingredients.

More than 1,000 entries are expected again this year.

Patrol District at Detroit Lakes Wins Safety Event

District Headed by Capt. Thomas P. Scanlon Winner of State Fleet Contest

Minnesota Highway Patrol District 2600, headquartered at Detroit Lakes, was named winner of the in-service fleet safety contest conducted by the state traffic agency. The award was made by Commissioner of Highways James C. Marshall in the office of Patrol Chief Leo M. Smith.

Headed by Capt. Thomas P. Scanlon, the 34 officers and supervisors in that district drove 1,049,427 miles during 1961 with only one accident during that time. Scanlon reported the one accident as a minor fender-bender resulting in only $10 property damage to the patrol vehicle and none to the other.

The district was awarded a first place traveling plaque to be kept on display at its headquarters for the year.

District 2600 consists of ten counties in the west central part of the state extending from Glenwood to Walker.

In second position was district 2800, headed by Capt. Harlan L. Fredeen, with headquarters at Thief River Falls. The 25 officers and men reported only one accident in 1,021,399 miles which had been driven during the year.

Within the state-wide patrol operations for 1961, officers drove a total of 10,303,834 miles and reported 41 accidents involving Highway Patrol vehicles. This gave the state a rate of one traffic accident for each total of 251,313 miles driven on official state duty.

Gordon Nohre Is Given Promotion

Former TRF Man Named to New Post in St. Paul

Gordon H. Nohre of Moorhead, veterans employment representative in the Moorhead office of the Minnesota department of employment security since 1956, has been promoted to St. Paul.

Nohre took over position of state supervisor of youth services in the state office of the department March 21.

Nohre came to Moorhead from Thief River Falls, where he was associated with the employment office. A native of Litchville, N. D. he grew to manhood in northern Minnesota, and after service in World War II, he was graduated from Moorhead State College and did post graduate work in the University of Minnesota.

A past commander of the Thief River Falls post of the American Legion, he has been active in Legion work in Moorhead, holding post offices and being commander of the Clay-Becker Council of the Legion.

COURAGEOUS COMPETITOR Steven de Malignon is going to enter the tenth annual Northwest Butter Cookie baking contest. The 12-year-old Minneapolis lad, who was the only male entrant last year, says he's gunning for the Junior division (14 and under) championship. He placed second last year. His practice batches of "Tangy Orange Drops" and "Cracked Sugar Cookies" drew obviously admiring glances here from Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Diane Kramer of Worthington, and Mrs. Walter Hedlund of Reynolds, Minn. Mrs. Hedlund, a 1961 champion, will be one of three judges this year. The contest runs April 9-14. Cookies go to crippled children and shut-in patients of various institutions as a pre-Easter treat. Mailing address is BUTTER COOKIE CONTEST, ST. PAUL 8. Co-sponsors are the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee and Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' Association.

Langen Proposes Way to Cut Debt

Would Apply Reclamation Project Profits on Debt

Congressman Odin Langen has submitted a bill in the House of Representatives to put those profits of Reclamation power projects incidental to irrigation projects, back into the general treasury and earmark the money as a reduction on the staggering national debt.

Langen said the profits from such projects were originally intended to have been put back into the treasury, but that certain recent practices in our reclamation program have diverted these funds for other purposes. "My bill would direct our thinking to those original principles and would go an additional step in earmarking such profits to a reduction of the national debt."

Langen noted that he's seen irrigation project after irrigation project paraded before the Interior Committee, "each in the questionable interest of developing new acres of land for the very same crops that established farmers have been asked to take out of production." The Congressman explained that the taxpayer has to support these irrigation projects, since the farms affected aren't capable of paying back even this tax-free money.

"In order to hoodwink the public into believing these irrigation projects don't cost money," added Langen, "so-called surplus revenues from neaby Reclamation projects are earmarked to balance the books; the same revenues that were supposed to be returned to the treasury." Langen declared that this is a direct subsidy in its boldest form and that it's time the taxpayers were told about it. "In fact," said Langen, "it's time the taxpayer starts to reap this windfall of profits. And he will reap the profits if the Congress adopts my bill to apply these moneys to our national debt."

BUT NOT DIFFERENT

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Here and there America is building modernistic churches.

No one's quite sure where the trend will lead . . . or whether it yet should be called a trend.

But the thousands who have worshipped in these contemporary sanctuaries seem certain of this: The new architecture hasn't changed the age-old faith.

Christianity has known many forms of worship, many terms of expression.

But there has always been Unity underlying diversity. Christians worship the same God and Lord; they revere the same Cross; they search the same Scriptures.

Through human architects who express their devotion in different forms, The Divine Architect is pointing all men to the spire of Faith.

TRACTOR FIRE!

So many tractor, combine and other farm implement fires occur each year that they hardly make news any more. However, the loss in dollars to state farmers is staggering.

This year, why not do all you can to protect your equipment when you're working in the fields. Keep equipment clear of chaff and husks, at all times, take extra precautions when filing the gas tank, and then if fire does start, have a fire extinguisher handy at all times.

46 Attend Turkey Growers Institute

Specialists Discuss Breeder Hens, Disease and Marketing Order

Forty-six turkey farmers from Northwestern Minnesota attended an Institute on Turkey Production and Marketing held in Thief River Falls Friday. The program was opened at 10 a. m. by Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agent, who pointed out the importance of the turkey industry in the area and need for improving various aspects of marketing and production in light of the difficulties the industry has experienced.

The morning program covered production problems related to breeder hens. Dr. Robert Berg, extension poultry specialist at the University of Minnesota, discussed the topic "More Profit With Breeder Hens". He emphasized the need for preventing broodness. "Light, and preventing warmth of the breast, can be controlled and will stimulate the hens into greater production", Berg stated.

Dr. B. S. Pomeroy, head of Veterinary Bacteriology and Public Health at the University, discussed the problems and measures leading to the reduction of airsacculitis. Dr. Milo H. Swanson, from the University discussed "Care of Hatching Eggs." He expressed the need for clean egg production by gathering every hour, washing with proper solutions and at correct temperatures, and also the new egg dipping process which may kill disease organisms which get inside the egg and in reality give a sick bird at hatching time.

Afternoon Program

The afternoon program was chaired by a representative of the turkey industry, Bill Thompson, of Thief River Falls. The program centered on "Growing Turkeys."

Dr. Pomeroy discussed control of common turkey diseases. He was followed by Dr. Swanson who went over the inspection and grading processes as they are used in processing plants. 'Grades of turkeys,'" he said, "are based on conformation, finish, fleshing, pin feathers, bruises, cuts, etc., and discoloration.

Roy C. Munson, executive secretary of the Minnesota Turkey Growers Association, pointed out the work being done by the association, its achievements and

Signup Period for Wheat, Feed Grain Extended to Apr. 13

ASC Office Announces Majority of Producers Already Have Signed up

Patrick W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office said today that word had been received from the State ASCS office Friday, March 30, authorizing an extension of the sign-up period for both the 1962 Feed Grain and Wheat Stabilization programs through April 13.

He said that the extension had been approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on the grounds that a considerable number of producers had not been able to contact their county ASCS offices and sign up due to adverse weather conditions which prevailed in certain localities the past several weeks.

Culkins said that as of the close of business Wednesday, March 28, 74 per cent of the wheat producers and 65 per cent of the barley producers in the county had signed intentions to participate in the programs, and added that the ASCS office in the courthouse would be open from 8:00 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. Monday through Friday through April 13 to accommodate any wheat or barley producers in the county who had been unable to sign up previously.

Signup Period on Grain Is Extended

The Marshall county ASCS office has been notified that an extension has been granted on the Wheat Stabilization and 1962 Feed Grain Programs. The extension of the signup period has been extended through April 13, because of adverse weather conditions. Anyone who has not signed up is urged to do so by this time.

First Robin Seen At Jacobson Yard Thursday Morning

First robin of the spring season was reported to the Times Thursday by Mrs. Werner Jacobson of 910 Knight av. N. Mrs. Jacobson said she saw the bird while it was hungrily helping itself to food at a feeder in her yard Thursday morning.

If birds aren't completely mistaken, spring must be around the corner. Crows are becoming increasingly abundant and meadowlarks have also been seen in the rural areas. Arrival of the robin is a welcome sight to those who hope the long spell of winter has been broken.

Dairy Price Support Cut to Legal Minimum

The Kennedy administration cut dairy price supports to the legal minimum Friday as a House subcommittee continued to seek a compromise formula for a new dairy program.

Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman announced the support cut which will lower props from $3.40 to $3.11 per hundredweight of milk saying there was "no alternative."

He estimated that the action, which drops support from 83 per cent of parity to 75 per cent, will cost dairy farmers some $250-million in income in the coming marketing year unless new legislation is adopted quickly.

He also warned that projected production and consumption trends for dairy products "make it dramatically clear that there must be a supply management program in dairying if the dairy farmer's income is to be protected and we're not going to break the bank."

Even with the lower props, he said, government outlays for dairy price-support purchases in the marketing year that begins Sunday will reach almost $425 million.

Correction Made of Times Error In Picture Story

A correction in a Times picture caption Thursday has been called to our attention by Harry Dahl of Dahl Construction company. The caption accompanied the picture of a sweetwater tank which was to be installed at Thief River Cooperative Creamery.

The item stated that the brake slipped and the tank fell, which is apparently as it appeared to the observer who watched the proceedings and provided the Times with information. Dahl reported that although he was unable to raise the tank to second floor level because of the angle of the crane's boom, the brake held. He was forced to let the tank down fast the last couple feet to prevent it from hitting the crane.

The Times regrets the error and any unnecessary embarrassment it may have caused to Dahl.

Mrs. Anna Olson left Friday for Sepulveda, Calif. after spending a month here with her daughter, Geraldine Olson and family. She also visited two weeks in Minneapolis with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dora Ringestrand. During that time she went to Rochester for a checkup at the Mayo Clinic.

DIRECTORS of the Newfolden Central Telephone company got together Sunday at an open house held in the company office to observe the end of manual telephone service. Two of the old telephones which were on display for the more than 200 guests who attended are shown here. Seated left to right are Olger Rokke, president; Conrad H. Engelsrud, director; and H. C. Haugen, secretary-treasurer and manager. Standing are Otto Haarstad, vice president, and Gust Bring, director. Olger Rokke's father, Adolph, was president of the firm in 1908 and Otto Haarstad's father, Elias, was vice president 50 years ago. In 1960 the Newfolden company handled 5,405 out-going long distance calls exclusive of collect and canceled.

If You're Prone to Phone . . .

Direct Dialing Begins to Three Area Villages

Direct dialing without long-distance toll charges may now be made from Thief River Falls to Holt, Viking and Newfolden telephone subscribers, according to James O. Koller, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company office in this city. The change became effective Saturday and will also permit subscribers of the three exchanges to dial Thief River Falls numbers without toll charge.

The new calling arrangement will enlarge Thief River Falls local calling range by more than 500 telephones, Koller said. In addition to the approximately 2,800 phones in the Thief River Falls exchange, local residents will be able to dial any of the 113 phones at Viking, 263 phones at Newfolden and 133 phones at Holt.

Extended area service has been brought about through a cooperative agreement between Northwestern Bell and Wikstrom Telephone company of Karlstad which owns the Holt, Viking and Newfolden exchanges. There will be no increase in Thief River Falls phone rates under the new calling plan in spite of the increased service.

Complete seven-digit numbers must be used on calls between the communities, Koller said. The new Thief River Falls telephone directory to be issued this fall will contain complete listings of numbers for subscribers in the other three communities.

"Until then," Koller said, "we will be glad to provide Thief River Falls customers with numbers in the other communities if they will stop by our business office with a list of persons in those communities whom they frequently call. If customers wish, they may mail this list of names to us and we will provide the same service."

Subscribers at Holt, Viking and Newfolden exchanges must use the 681 prefix when dialing numbers in Thief River Falls. Prefix numbers to be used by Thief River Falls subscribers will be 523 at Viking, 874 at Newfolden and 499 at Holt.

Newfolden Makes Change To Dial Phone Service

Manual Operation Is Past History; Begin Extended Area Service

Another step in the march of progress was taken this weekend when the Newfolden Central Telephone company passed into history and dial telephone service came to the Newfolden area. It was especially significant since the change to dial also marked the beginning of extended area service, permitting telephone subscribers at Newfolden, Holt, Viking and Thief River Falls exchanges to dial one another directly without toll charge.

As part of the observance of the change-over, an afternoon open house was held Sunday at the company office in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Bakke. Mrs. Bakke has served as operator for the company for 33 years while her husband has served as lineman for the firm.

It was on July 11, 1908, that a meeting was held at the Ellerth school west of Newfolden for the purpose of organizing the Newfolden Central Telephone company. Abel Anderson called the meeting to order and it was announced that 32 individuals had subscribed shares for the proposed company at $10 per share. Adolph S. Rokke was elected president and Ole Hjelle was named secretary.

Signing the articles of incorporation which were dated Feb. 17, 1913, were O. L. Brekkestran, Alfred Johnson, August O. Rokke, Adolph S. Rokke, Tonnes Nelson, John L. Johnson, Anders Korstad and E. A. Haarstad.

At a meeting of the telephone board on Oct. 29, 1908, arrangements were made for building a toll line from Ellerth to connect with the Warren exchange. It was also decided to have a fixed rate of 15 cents between Ellerth and Newfolden. B. J. Bakke, son of D. B. Bakke of Thief River Falls, offered to furnish switching service at Newfolden and charge five cents on each call.

TRF WENT country style Saturday evening, March 31 at the 8th annual square dance festival held in the city auditorium. Shown here are four couples of the record-breaking crowd from 17 towns in the Upper Midwest who were on hand to enjoy the expert calling of Lee Newton of Fergus Falls.

Record Crowd at Eighth Square Dance Festival

A love affair bloomed Saturday between the Upper Midwest's square dancers and Thief River Falls as 250 do-si-doers assembled for the 8th sqaure dance festival Saturday evening, March 31. The city auditorium sparkled invitingly with gleaming floor, spring-like stage decorations and cheerful welcomes for the local club. A record attendance from 17 towns in the area marked the festival.

Women wore full skirted dresses of every color of the rainbow, trimmed with silver and gold braid. Men were dressed in western style trousers and shirts with string or gaudy flowing ties. Everyone was wearing shoes not the type seen for an evening stroll.

Dancing got underway at a quarter of 8 with Lee Newton of Fergus Falls calling the sets to order. Dancing feet kept the halls alive until 12:15 with entertainment enjoyed by the spectators who filled the balcony seats. Excellent calling gave every dancer the fine time he expected, and once again Lee was prevailed upon to arrange a return date for the following year. A tentative date was set for the fifth Saturday in March. Door prize was given by George Mostue to the winner, Mr. Zutz of Radium.

The Library Corner

by Eleanor Olson

All of a sudden it dawned on me that Lent was half over. Before long Easter will be here and I had made no plans for an Easter outfit for our four-year old. Clothes to me are far from being the important thing about this wonderful season, but I also realize that none of her warm weather clothes would fit this year and the actual arrival of Spring means that she must have new clothes.

The buttons on her in-between coat have already been moved over twice and there is no more hem to be let down in the sleeves. So I began to plan clothes and pick fabrics that would make up a new wardrobe to serve through spring into summer.

As I shopped I became convinced that in this day of inflated prices I could get more for my money in fine fabrics than anywhere else. This is particularly true when making children's clothes since the amount of material involved is so small.

Quality materials for a fully lined coat and matching dress cost four dollars; a comparable ready-made outfit would cost between $10 and $14 dollars. How, I wonder, could I better stretch the family pay check. Now and again some one will say that when you can buy children's jeans or blouses for less than a dollar that it doesn't pay to sew, but I cannot agree. The added washability and wear gained in a carefully home-constructed garment are tremendous.

And my own sense of satisfaction in creating a worthwhile item far outweighs the other uses I might make of these work hours.

Despite the years of practical experience I have to my credit, I decided to see what books I might find at the library that would give me a new slant on sewing techniques. Old dogs are quick to learn new tricks when they turn out a better product more quickly. (How differently a zipper is installed now than it was when I took sewing in high school home economics.)

A section in Mary Johnson's "Sew for Your Children" of particular interest was the one on remaking adult clothing for children. It is an art which I have practiced often in the last four years, using my own outmoded "career" clothes or rummage items that kind friends have given me.

There is a special advantage in reusing wools since they can be washed before they are recut, making the new garment hand washable and eliminating later dry cleaning. Miss Johnson also has a good section in her book on making clothes that grow with the child, an excellent help if you must sew for several children. Her directions for making bound buttonholes or inserted pockets, both frightening procedures to beginners, are clear and precise.

Another excellent book for both beginners and old hands is the "Singer Sewing Book" compiled by Mary Brooks, although it puts quite heavy stress upon the things that a more complex sewing machine can do to add to the finished product rather than the things the seamstress can contrive herself.

The "Bishop Method of Clothing Construction" by Edna Bishop and Marjorie Arch, on the other hand, has a fascinating chapter on trimmings which can make garments unusual and professional looking with little effort. They also list the point system for the well-dressed woman that I have heard expounded in home extension classes. Illustrated with photographs of marvelous clarity, this book covers elementary procedures thoroughly, especially in putting in full linings and interfacings which are considered difficult techniques.

Fire Fri. Levels Lutheran Church in Strathcona

Damage Estimated at $25,000; "Nothing Left," Pastor Reports To Times

Fire of undetermined origin leveled the Gustav Adolph Lutheran church in Strathcona shortly afternoon Friday, with total damage estimated in excess of $25,000. Remodeling of the interior of the church proper was just in the final stages of completion prior to the blaze.

Rev. James Hanson, Middle River, pastor of the 137-member congregation, told the Times today that insurance of $15,500 was carried on the structure. First persons on the scene were unable to enter the building because of smoke and intense heat and Greenbush and middle River fire departments could do nothing to curb the flames.

Due to a merger with Calvary Lutheran church, Augustana synod, about five years ago, the Calvary church building was moved to the Gustav Adolph site and annexed to the church, forming a parish hall with another small building. Some remodeling was done when the move was accomplished about two years ago.

Members of the congregation attended services Sunday at First Lutheran church in Middle River. The church board will meet Wednesday evening to discuss what will be done by the congregation in the future.

Newfolden Phone Co. Switches To Dial Service

nual meeting of the company in June of 1909 to move the switchboard from Ellerth to Newfolden. Eddie Grimstad and B. J. Bakke built the line from Ellerth to the village of Newfolden and the switchboard was installed above the B. J. Bakke confectionery store by Alfred Johnson. There was a telephone line from Thief River Falls to Newfolden but it was not connected to the switchboard.

A unique plan was devised at the 1910 annual meeting when it was decided that any subscribers and their families would have a right to use the system at any place on the line and visitors in a family from outside the immediate neighborhood should also be allowed the free use of the system. Persons living within the range of the company who were not subscribers would pay at the rate of 10 cents per message—five cents going to the company and five cents to the party owning the phone where the call was made.

West Valley subscribers had telephone service but at first did not have a regular telephone line. Messages were transmitted over a fence wire to that community.

Other Lines Added

Spruce Valley Telephone company was given connections to the Newfolden firm in 1911 at a rate of one dollar per year for each one and the Spruce Valley company to pay its own operating expenses. In 1912 the Mortrud-Engstrom line was connected at a rate of 60 cents per year and operating expense for each phone.

First directories were published and distributed in 1914. In 1917 the rental fee per year was six dollars for a business telephone and five dollars for residence and farm phones.

In 1915 the operator's fee was raised to three dollars for each phone with the operator to furnish room and necessary fixtures and provide service from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Alfred Johnson's offer to operate the central office in the village of Newfolden in 1919 was accepted by the board. He was to furnish a competent operator, an office, fuel and light and receive $3.50 for each phone from the Newfolden and connecting lines.

In 1922 the company purchased an exchange building, John Dyrud was hired as manager and lineman and in 1928 he was succeeded by Carl Brekkestran. Mr. and Mrs. Bakke took over duties of the exchange in 1929 and have operated the exchange since.

List Past Officers

Serving as presidents of the company over the years have been O. L. Brekkestran, Abel Anderson, S. A. Dahl, A. S. Rokke and Olger Rokke. Anderson headed the company for 36 years. Serving as secretary were Alfred Johnson, Ole E. Hjelle, Ole Kleepe, H. Algaard, Abel Anderson and H. C. Haugen. Haugen has served for 33 years and was secretary when the firm ceased operations.

Present officers are Olger Rokke, president; Otto Haarstad, vice president; H. C. Haugen, secretary; Gust Bring and Conrad H. Engelsrud, directors.

helps them to work out plans to follow the medical recommendations of the physicians. A medical social worker assists the parents with any emotional, social or financial problems that must be solved.

In case a child needs follow-up care, hospitalization or vocational counseling, the Crippled Children services works with the patient's parents and the family physician to make the necessary arrangements.

Groups sponsoring the clinic program are the Gillette State hospital, state department of health, state division of vocational rehabilitation, state Christmas Seal organization, Minnesota-Dakota Manitoba Orthopedic society, Minnesota State Medical association, Northwestern Pediatric society, local medical societies, public health nurses and county welfare agencies.

Appointments should be made with Mrs. Harold Buck, 235 N. Kendall, Thief River Falls, phone MU 1-2652. "If this is the patient's first clinic visit, he is advised to bring his physician's written referral," said Mrs. Buck.

Local clinic arrangements are being made by Mrs. Gunder Legvold. Assisting are Mrs. Ames Pederson, and the Thief River Falls Woman's club.

Turkey Growers Hear Solutions To Problems Fri.

needs. Many research projects as well as promotional and selling ideas are used by the association in aiding turkey farmers with their industry. The improvement in marketing and production is facilitated through an organization of this kind Munson stated. A film on various ways of preparing turkeys was shown.

New Marketing Order

Dr. Francis J. Smith, extension market economist, discussed the new turkey marketing order. He pointed out that the provisions of the new order established quotas on turkey production. These quotas would be calculated on pounds of turkeys sold by producers, or other agencies, in arrangements with producers. The quotas would be figured on the basis of market needs and the base period would be 1959, 1960 and 1961.

Smith stated that this would have a tendency to freeze the production with present producers at levels close to the base period. The only way new producers could enter into turkey production would be to secure quotas from present producers who were leaving the industry or if the market was expanding and new production was needed.

The old marketing order provisions provided under the old order for "set aside" of over production are also part of the new order. The quota basis is not much different from the sugar beet arrangement where specified production takes place. Whether the new order will reach the voting stage this year depends on the interest in it by turkey producers.

A dinner was served to all turkey producers thru the courtesy of the industry. Firms co-operating were Land O'Lakes, Osborne-McMillan, Shetlers and Peterson-Biddick. The institute was the last of five held in the state last week.

54 Years Proof . . .

Simon Olson Shows Faith in Barbering

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

Simon Olson shoots a good game of pool. In fact, he does three things well - shoot pool, cut hair and talk. Of course, he has considerable experience in all three fields.

He has been talking nearly all of his 82 active years. He has played pool for not quite as many. And as for his barbering profession, that has been his livelihood for 54 years, the past four years in Thief River Falls.

It was way back in 1908 that Simon decided to learn the barber trade after trimming hair for the neighbors at his family's farm home near Fertile for a number of years. For a year and a half he learned the ropes and plied his trade at Torvald Haugen's barber shop in Fosston.

A bashful farm boy not accustomed to the ways of the big city, Simon recalls the comments of Fosston residents who came into Haugen's shop. "Do you think you can make a barber out of that guy?" they used to ask. "As far as hair cutting goes, he's a barber right now," his teacher would reply. "All he needs is a little training on giving shaves and sharpening tools."

He couldn't have been too bad a beginner, for he recalls trimming the locks of one John A. Johnson, while learning the trade in 1908. Johnson was the governor of Minnesota at the time.

Emigrates from Norway

Born in Norway in 1879, Simon came with his parents to the United States when he was six years old. The John Olson family arrived at Crookston and then homesteaded eight miles north of Fertile. Simon finished fifth grade in a rural school and then decided it was time to get out and make a living. For four years he worked as a carpenter before making the decision to try the barber trade.

When Fred Bro at Ada decided to leave his shop for a month and take an extended honeymoon, he called on Simon to run the shop in his absence. At the completion of the month's work, an apprentice in the Bro shop told Simon, "I've learned more from you in a month tha I learned from Fred Bro in two years." Now retired, Bro is still living. "At least he was the last I seen him," Simon quipped.

One of the Roving Kind

With the going prices of 25 cents for a haircut and 15 cents for a shave, Simon wasn't one to settle down in any one community. He barbered in Fertile for a month, moved to Lancaster and cut hair there for four years. He rented out his shop at Lancaster and purchased another in Crookston. After two years he moved to Argyle and barbered for five years, later selling the shop to his brother Ole to whom he had taught the trade.

From Argyle he moved to Hallock and in later years barbered in North Dakota towns of Neche, Devils Lake, Cavalier, Walhalla, Hamilton, Pembina, Park River and Grand Forks. Red Lake Falls was also his home for a short time.

Changes Noted

It was in Warren that his roots finally started to grown. He opened shop there in 1912 and continued in business until moving to this city four years ago. His son Forrest currently operates the shop in Warren.

Changes over the years since Simon began his career in 1908 have been mainly influenced by mechanical advances. It wasn't until 1926 that he switched from a hand clipper to an electric model. Shaves at the shop were common until the advent of the safety razor and later the electric models. Each businessman used to have his own shaving mug in the barber shop for his morning face-lifting.

As spry at 82 as many men are at 50, Simon has never been hospitalized. "Never been there for service but I've been there to give service," he said. Cutting hair of residents in nursing homes and hospitals was one of his regular practices. And he also taught the barbering trade to Olaf and Ole, two of his brothers, and two Proulx brothers at Argyle.

His leisure time for many years was spent at bowling, fishing and playing pool. He has given up bowling lately but still remembers his high game of 269 and a three game series of 672 which included a 234, 232 and 206.

Fishing still gets its share of summer attention since his son Forrest has a house trailer and boat at Springsteel Island near Warroad. Cool and calculating with the cue, he loses few games at the pool table and has lost little coordination between the hand and the eye. Ask Don Grabanski, his present assistant in the shop.

That takes care of the hair cutting and pool playing. As for the third attribute, a barber's necessity, Simon is an avid talker. How else would a writer get a story?

54 YEARS in the barbering trade doesn't seem very long to Simon Olson who has cut hair in Thief River Falls for four years. At 82 he is 17 years past retirement age but too content with his work to quit. Above he trims the curly locks of Mitchell Newton of Goodridge. Simon has plied his trade in 21 towns in northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota.

Best control for Dutch Elm disease is to clean up and burn all dead and dying elms, dead elm branches, firewood, and logs before spring, Herbert G. Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota, says the elm bark beetle spreads the disease. Getting rid of the dead and dying elms in which the beetle breeds is a big factor in keeping down the disease.

"The corn on my contour strips was by far the most even stand and best crop I had in 1961," remarked Sibley County farmer Roger Korelis to Edgar Dragemuller, SCS technician at Gaylord. Roger further stated that while contour farming is a lot different than tilling straight fields, the increase in yields and the decrease in erosion really makes it worthwhile.

"Irrigation made the corn during the dry spell last summer," says Gary Anderson, who farms 320 acres of sandy land near Princeton. Accustomed to 50-bushel yields Anderson put together his own sprinkler system, irrigated 25 acres, and harvested 90 bushels-per-acre from the irrigated land. Mille Lacs County Agent Clayton Grabow says Anderson plans to install a portable boom system, irrigate 60 acres and shoot for 100 bushels-per-acre yields in 1962.

The first set of parallel terraces in the Douglas Soil and Water Conservation District were installed last year by William Jenson, Urness Township, with the help of SCS technicians Bob Amborn and Cliff Emmert. Jenson told Amborn that he became sol on terraces while combining grain in the South. He said terraced fields always had much better crops than the nonterraced fields. As a result of his experiences, he is planning to build more terraces.

"It took a year to get used to the idea of not working the ground more; now I wouldn't consider any other way." That's what Darrell Heesch, cooperator in the Pipestone Soil and Water Conservation District says of growing corn with minimum tillage. Pipestone County Agent Kennth R. Rose says Heesch plows, plants, uses his rotary hoe once and cultivates once. Through minimum tillage he saves three trips over the field, cuts costs and minimizes soil compaction. In 1961 Heesch put in 140 acres of corn by wheel track planting.

"Now that I have plenty of stock water I have added a new loafing barn and my herd can take advantage of pasture that was formerly wasted. Since my cows have access to water at all times they are producing two cans of milk per day above their previous average," says Alvin Scheel, a cooperator with the Benton Soil and Water Conservation District. Scheel has built two stock watering pits and is planning a third. Leonard Connelly, SCS technician at Foley, helped draw up the farm plan Scheel has used since March 1959. Scheel, who has a combination beef-dairy operation, has planted 80 rods of field windbreaks and is using two different crop rotations.

"Diversion terraces constructed on my farm last summer have proved a wise investment," says Glen Thymian, Big Stone County SCD farmer. "Seeps and springs which saturated my fields down the slopes have been controlled by the terraces and a waterway. These practices have enabled me to adopt a rotation to fit the land." The work was laid out with the help of SCS technicians at Ortonville.

Daily water use in the United States totalled about 40 billion gallons per day in 1900. Reliable estimates indicate that by 1980 we'll be using 494 billion gallons per day. That doesn't include Alaska and Hawaii.

March Departs On Lamb-Like Note

Big Change Noted from —35 Degrees on March 1

March made its departure in lamb-like fashion Saturday, fulfilling the predictions of those who said it would be a month coming in "like a lion" and going out "like a lamb." High temperature Saturday was 31 degrees with a low of 22 degrees Saturday night.

Those who shiver in the thought of cold weather will recall that March 1 had a high of 7 degrees and a low of -35, just two degrees above the season's record of -37 recorded February 28. A trace of precipitation was recorded on Thursday, the third successive day of traceable moisture.

Forecasts call for occasional cloudiness today and tonight with little temperature change today and not quite so cold tonight. Light rain or snow is predicted for tomorrow. High temperatures today should range from 32 to 42 degrees with low readings tonight of 20 to 28.

High and low temperatures during the past several days include 34 and 25 on Thursday, 33 and 22 on Friday, 31 and 22 on Saturday, 32 and 22 on Sunday and a low reading last night of 8 degrees.

Annual Meeting of Scout District Set for Thursday

Election of officers for the coming year will take place at the annual meeting of the Pen-Ro-Shell District of the Boy Scouts of America to be held Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in the Rex Cafe. Hartley Peterson of Holt is district chairman.

Also to be discussed at the meeting will be district attendance at the annual meeting of the Lake Agassiz Council April 8, further plans for the spring camporee at Agassiz Wildlife Refuge and possibility of a spring roadside cleanup on a district and community basis.

Social Security Tax Was Raised January 1

On January 1, 1962, a new social security tax rate went into effect for nine out of ten working people.

For employed people the 1962 rate is 3⅛ per cent for employee and employer, a total increase of one-fourth of 1 per cent. For self-employed people, the new rate is 4.7 per cent, an increase of three-sixteenths of 1 per cent. The maximum taxable earnings remain $4,800 during the tax year in earnings, net income from slef-employment, or a combination of both.

In line with its policy of setting a schedule of social security tax rates sufficient to meet the cost of all present and future insurance benefits, the Congress provided for the increase to finance four significant program changes effective with the 1961 amendments signed June. These changes—

1. Enable men to apply for reduced old-age insurance benefits at 62.

2. Increase by about 10 per cent monthly benefits due 62-year-old or older widows getting benefits on the accounts of their husbands, dependent widowers, and dependent parents.

3. Raised the minimum old-age benefit payable to a 65-year-old or older retired worker or to a sole survivor of a deceased worker from $33 to $40 a month, with corresponding increases for dependents and other survivors of workers due less than $40 a month in unreduced benefits under the old law.

4. Reduce the amount of work needed to qualify for benefits, allowing many workers, dependents, and survivors who were not eligible under previous work requirement provisions to get benefits.

70 Get Diplomas at Northwest School

Commencement Rites Are Held Friday Afternoon

Seventy seniors from fourteen counties in the Red River Valley received diplomas from Northwest school of Agriculture, Crookston, Friday, March 30, at commencement exercises in Kiehle auditorium.

Herman Natwick, Ada, farmer and agricultural leader from Norman County, delivered the Commencement address.

The two seniors named as the outstanding citizens of the 1962 graduating class were Georgia Ovsak of Euclid, senior girl, and Rodger Swanson of Arvilla, North Dakota, senior boy. They were presented Citizenship Award pins; and their names will be engraved on the A. M. Pilkey Citizenship plaque which is on display in the school's library.

An award for outstanding accomplishment in music and English was provided by the Northwest School Parents' Association. By vote of a faculty committee, this award was presented to Rodger Swanson.

Choral music by the mixed chorus was under the direction of T. W. Thorson, head of the music department.

Soo Plans to End Glenwood-Duluth Passenger Train

Unless objectors appear in the meantime, the Soo Line Railway can drop the tri-weekly passenger and express service between Glenwood, Minn. and Duluth-Superior on April 22.

That was the decision Thursday by the Minnesota Railroad and Warehouse Commission in the wake of hearings that developed the trains averaged less than one passenger per trip during 1960-61.

The trains consist usually of one diesel unit pulling a combination passenger-express car, freight cars and a caboose.

2 Traffic Mishaps Reported in City

Hubcaps Stolen Sunday Night from Car in City

Two traffic mishaps were noted in the city during the past several days, each involving two vehicles and both having minor property damage. Theft of four hubcaps was also reported to the police department early today.

At 8:35 a. m. Thursday, a pickup driven by Fred A. Timm of rt. 5, Thief River Falls, was traveling west on Second street when struck on the right rear fender by a car driven by John A. Johnson, city, and traveling south on LaBree av. N. About $20 damage was done to the pickup and $40 to the Johnson car. No tags were issued.

At 3:25 p. m. Saturday, a car driven east on Third street by David L. Kalinoski, rt. 3, attempted to pass a taxi driven by Harold G. Chapman, city, when the latter started a left turn near the intersection of Third street and Mussey avenue. About $63 damage was done to the Kalinoski car from the resulting collision and an estimated $15 damage was done to the taxi. Chapman was tagged for making an improper turn.

Dave Sundquist reported the theft of four hubcaps from his 1959 Rambler this morning. The theft occurred sometime Sunday night.

Behind her is Mrs Douglas Weber, assistant operator. Alfred Johnson holds the phone he has used for many years and which was made in Sweden while Andy Bakke, lineman for the company for 33 years, looks over his shoulder. Agricuture Dept. Asks 20 Pct. Slash in Potato Acreage

Department Recommends Total of 96,800 Acres for Minnesota Growers

Acreage-marketing guides issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture have recommended that growers reduce acreages of summer and fall potatoes. According to a report received last week by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee, the department is recommending that acreage of early-summer potatoes be cut by 4 per cent from last year, acreage of late-summer potatoes be cut 6 per cent, and acreage planted to fall-crop potatoes be reduced 14 per cent from last year.

For fall potatoes grown in Minnesota, USDA has recommended a total of 96,800 acres for 1962. This is 20 per cent less than the 1961 acreage planted to potatoes.

At average yields, the recommended 1,168,800 acres of summer or fall potatoes would produce a total of 218.3 million hundredweight which would be 14 per cent smaller than the near-record 1961 crop but only slightly below the 1960 tonnage.

For the entire 1962 crop of potatoes, USDA's recommended guides total 1,341,850 acres, which is 12 per cent less than the 1961 plantings. At average yields, this acreage would produce a crop of 250 million hundredweight—a sixth smaller than last year's surplus crop, but 2 per cent larger than last year's guide.

Former Warren Resident to Be Guest at Affair Sponsored by C. of C.

Warren area residents and district bar members will honor Oscar R. Knutson, chief justice of the Minnesota supreme court, at a testimonial dinner at Our Savior's Lutheran church in Warren on Saturday, April 7, at 6:30 p. m.

The testimonial dinner is being arranged by the Warren Chamber of Commerce in recognition of the high honor accorded the former Warren resident through his appointment as the chief of Minnesota's highest court. The appointment was made by Governor Elmer L. Andersen following the retirement of Judge Roger Dell in January.

Justice Knutson, who served as the first attorney for PKM Electric Cooperative while it was being organized, will be honored by that organization also during the testimonial dinner, said Robert A. Graham, manager.

Principal speaker for the dinner meeting will be District Judge J. H. Sylvestre of Crookston who has long been a friend of the new chief justice. Numerous other members of the district bar will also speak briefly during the program.

Moorhead College Student Kills Self

John D. Urness, Mahnomen Hangs Himself Saturday

A 19-year-old Moorhead State College freshman was found hanged in his jail cell at Moorhead early Saturday.

Police said John Douglas Urness, Mahnomen, apparently looped one end of his shirt to a steam pipe and tied the other around his neck.

Urness had been jailed on a drunk charge about 10 p. m. Fri-Friday. Night Capt. Oscar Mouldren found his body while checking the jail's seven cells about 1:30 a. m. A previous check was made at midnight, Chief L. H. Bielfeldt said.

Clay County Coroner Dr. John R. Holten scheduled a hearing into the death for Monday night.

Urness, a former all-state football player at Mahnomen High School, transferred to Moorhead State College from the University of Indiana last November. He was married and had one daughter

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Getting Closer

A prophecy that is a cinch to be fulfilled one of these days is to predict that a local bowler will roll a 300-pin game. The boys are getting closer all the time.

In last week's comment on the Elaine's 1058-pin record-breaking single game team score, emphasis should have been given to anchorman Jesse DuChamp's 267-pin score. Jess, bowling on alleys five and six, had nine strikes in a row. On his first ball in the tenth frame, he left the 10-pin standing. And when he failed to pick this spare, his game total was left at 267.

And a couple of weeks ago, in a bowling match at Detroit Lakes, Carl Onkka rolled a 279-pin game. Carl opened with a strike, then had a spare, and then laid in nine strikes in a row, and concluded with a nine-pin hit to score a 279.

Should mention, too, that Red Thyren received his second-place prize money check from the handicap singles tournament at Detroit Lakes. I erred in stating that Red's gutter-ball in the final frame was to cost Red thirty-five dollars. The cost was thirty dollars, for that was the difference between the first and second place awards.

Royals Ousted

The Fort Frances Royals junior hockey team, who played here several weeks ago, were taken out of Canada's Memorial Cup playdowns by the Port Arthur North Stars, losing the best-of-seven series, four games to two.

Playing a stellar role for the Royals in their losing cause was Keith Christiansen. Christiansen, an all-state tournament choice with the International Falls Broncos in the recent Minnesota high school hockey tourney, was the high scorer in the Royals vs. North Stars series.

The North Stars are now engaged in a best-of-seven series with the Brandon Wheat Kings, and are trailing two games to zero. The Wheat Kings are rated as one of Canada's top-ranked junior club.

A Tragic End

That was a tragic news item that was carried in Sunday's paper, revealing that Doug Urness, the former Mahnomen high school all-round athlete, had been found dead in a jail cell in Moorhead.

Urness, a couple of season's ago, was named as a member of the Minnesota high school all-state football squad. He attended Indiana University last year, and was rated highly as a varsity prospect. A couple of weeks ago he cancelled out of Indiana and enrolled at Moorhead State College.

Dr. John Holten, the Clay county coroner, stated that Urness's death was self-inflicted, by hanging, and added that he would recommend further investigation by county authorities, with emphasis being placed on the source of the intoxicants Urness had consumed.

Sprint Sports

Fifteen lettermen have been in the group of thirty-odd candidates who have reported to Prowler track coaches Rod Max and Quent Jones. The squad has been handicapped greatly by the inclement weather that has prevailed, and it is doubtful if the Prowlers will be in very good condition by the time the first meet is run. And this will be on April 14th, when the locals participate in the annual Sioux Indoor meet at Grand Forks.

And the Prowler baseball hopefuls, under coaches Ralph Skay and Jack Junker, have been indulging in limbering-up exercisses in the Armory. The Prowler baseball team will play a sixteen-game schedule this season, with the opening game being slated for Wednesday, April 25, against the Red Lake Falls Eagles at Red Lake Falls. On this Prowler schedule are two of the teams that have been installed as Region Eight title favorites, Lake Bronson and Ada. Lake Bronson will play here on April 30 in an 8:00 P. M. game; and the Prowlers will meet the Ada Vikings at Ada on May 16, at 8:00 p. m.

Bipartisan Drive Is Launched to Promote Amendment Number 2

Launching of a statewide bipartisan "citizens crusade" on behalf of constitutional Amendment No. 2 was announced today by Dr. Wm. Mayo, Rochester, and Mrs. Charles Hymes, Minneapolis, co-chairmen of the newly organized Minnesota Citizens Committee for Amendment No. 2.

The amendment, one of three which will appear on the ballot at the November 6th general election, would remove the state's $250,000 debt limit which was written into the consitution more than 100 years ago and which the Minnesota Supreme Court has termed "archaic".

A Supreme Court ruling in April, 1960, in effect called a halt to any further state construction for which bond issues might be necessary until the constitution was appropriately amended to make such indebtedness legal. As a result, even the most urgent building projects authorized by the 1961 Legislature have had to be set aside.

Speaking at a special meeting at the Minnesota Press Club in Minneapolis, at which leaders of both political parties were present, Dr. Mayo declared that "there is nothing more important to the citizens of Minnesota than that they be informed about Amendment No. 2 and the dependence of the state upon its passage."

He termed the limitation of state debt to conditions which prevailed 100 years ago "ridiculous", and stated that "Just as with a patient there is no cash limitation as concerns his welfare, so it is with the health of our state, where commitments and plans cannot wait until 1965".

Gov. Elmer L. Anderson, who together with Lt. Gov. Karl L. Rolvaag is honorary co-chairmen of the committee, was forced at the last minute to cancel his attendance at the meeting. He designated Val Bjornson, Minnesota State Auditor, to read a statement on his behalf.

In it the Governor pointed out that Amendment No. 2: "by providing for financing of state buildings through a 60 per cent favorable vote in both houses of the legislature, guarantees adequate protection as to spending levels established."

Rolvaag expressed the view that "of the three amendments to be voted on, Amendment No. 2 is of "gravest concern and would answer the most immediate pressing need."

Mrs. Hymes, who has long been prominent in Minnesota educational affairs and who was recently named to the National Citizens Committee for Public Schools by Abraham Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, was equally emphatic: "unless this amendment is passed not a brick, nor a stick, nor stone can be added to any state education institution for expansion, remodeling, or rehabilitation of buildings", she declared.

Most Minnesota voters will find thre three proposed constitutional amendments appearing on a pink ballot in the November election. (Amendment No. 1 provides for broadening the base of investment of the state's permanent trust funds, and Amendment No. 3 calls for lengthening the legislative session to 120 days.)

Other officers of the Citizens Committee for Amendment No. 2, in addition to Dr. Mayo and Mrs. Hymes, are Alan H. Moore, Miss Florence Lehmann, and John S. Pillsbury, Jr., all of Minneapolis, Treasurer, Secretary and Chairman of the Finance Committee, respectively.

Wives Can Help Mates Avoid Heart Disease

Heart disease is a disease mainly of men, men who are often at the height of their careers, ready to reap the harvest of years of effort.

Heart disease, says the Minnesota State Medical Association, is most common between the ages of 45 and 75, but recently an increase has been noticed in younger men, even those in their late 20's.

A wife, says the Association, can play an important part in helping her husband avoid a heart attack by offering him a few simple suggestions:

If he's more than 10 pounds overweight, urge him to reduce before it's too late. Carrying extra weight around will make his heart work much harder. See if you can't encourage him to develop a taste for low-calorie foods.

Remind him that he can't work or play like he did when he was a kid. He should exercise moderately—which doesn't include 36 holes of golf when he's not used to it.

Help him to avoid fatty foods. Fat may help clog his arteries and cause a heart attack or stroke.

Tell him to take it easy. Urge him not to blow his top if his favorite team loses the crucial game, or his son rumples a car fender. Help him keep his blood pressure down before it gets him down.

Watch his cigarette smoking. If he's smoking too much, tell him so. Get him to switch to a pipe, if necessary.

Heart disease "runs in the family." If his family has a history of heart disease, urge him to see a doctor regularly for a thorough heart checkup.

Governor Calls Parley on Youth Employment

In an effort to pool private initiative and the resources of state government in the continuing drive for more jobs, Gov. Elmer L. Andersen today called a statewide conference on youth employment and training for April 23-24 at the Leamington Hotel, Minneapolis.

"All Minnesotans are invited to attend," said the governor. "It is just as fitting for all adult Minnesotans to come to this 'youth conference' as it is for the young people themselves. This is an effort to mobilize more employ-everyoen to prolvd emore employment opportunities for youth."

Anderson said the parley will focus on three objectives:

"FIRST, to encourage young people to stay in school and secure as much training as possible to meet the rising technological demands of the future.

"SECOND, to find more summertime jobs for young people to enable them to continue their education. The task here is to lead them to profitable, satisfying, short term employment. These young people will not be competing in the labor market with working men and heads of families who are seeking full-time jobs.

"THIRD, to find full-time jobs in Minnesota for young people."

Chairman of the two-day conference is Robert W. Johnson, General Chairman of the Governor's Advisory Council on Children and Youth, sponsoring agency for the parley.

Employers, clergymen, governmental officials, educators, newspaper editors, civic groups and service clubs—"in short, all those who are interested in the well-being of their communities"—should attend the Conference, said the Governor.

He said the need for the parley is underscored by the fact that the youth population is rising in Minnesota, "coupled with fast-developing economics trends such as automation and the demand for new job skills."

He added: "By 1970 there will be 124,750 more Minnesotans in the 14 to 20 age group than there were in 1960. It illustrates the challenge to be faced by this conference and all of us: We must keep these young people in school as long as possible in order to equip them for the demands of the future—and we must provide them with satisfying employment during the summer to enable them to attain their educational goals."

A Community "Must"

Good citizens of the community have responded generously to the appeal for financial support for the home-for-the-aged program sponsored by the Valley Home Society. It now appears that the old Central Hotel and its woefully inadequate facilities will be replaced by a modern structure of which we will all have reason to be proud. The Society has been assured of federal assistance in the financing of the project, providing that it can prove to the government that the community has measured up to its responsibilities.

The proof will have to be in the form of cash, and the date for checking on this proof is Friday, April 6. This means that pledges will have to be converted into cash in a short time and the directors of the Society are forced to ask those who have signed the pledges to make a special effort to meet this obligation on short notice.

We are satisfied that this is a project that is very much needed and measures up from every standpoint as the kind of a project that should have enthusiastic community support. The sponsoring organization is non-sectarian and the home will be non-sectarian, a requirement in qualifying for federal financial assistance.

The old frame structure that has served us well, must go, but it cannot go until it is replaced, and we will never have a better opportunity to replace it at so favorable a local cost.

The directors of the Society are run-of-the-mill citizens like the rest of us, who have given liberally of their time in bringing this project so close to a successful conclusion. They have done their part and it now is up to the rest of us to make our contributions. This project is a community "must." And April 6th is the deadline.

Taxing Electric Power

One difficult question we are going to hear more about right along is the conflict between public and private power. There is talk of developing an integrated power network that would cover the entire nation, and such a grid no doubt would lower power costs substanially. But in such a national network could private power survive in competition with public power? Probably not, unless a uniform system of taxation on all power groups were adopted.

Taxes on any industry must necessarily be passed along to consumers. The private power companies now serve as agents to collect taxes from their customers for all kinds of public operations, national, state and local. Cooperatives, such as the Rural Electric organizations, are also taxed but not as heavily as are private companies. To the extent that they are taxed their customers must also pay, but their customers are not taxed as much as the customers of the private companies. And muncipal operations, such as we have here in Thief River Falls, pay no taxes, and their customers do not pay as much toward the support of the national, state and other local governments as do the customers of the cooperatives or the private companies.

We are moving in the direction of one big government power monopoly, and the idea does not appeal to us.

Monopoly is almost a necessity for the efficient distribution of power at the local level, and bigness undoubtedly has advantages in efficient production and distribution. But there can be too much bigness too, both in private and public operations, and in this field copetition in some form should be encouraged.

Uniform taxation for private, cooperative and municipal operations appears to a "must" if the private operations are to survive, because they cannot compete with operations that not only are not taxed as much as they are but in too many instances are actually subsidized by the tax contributions of others.

It is going to develop into an interesting argument.

No Steel Strike

It is encouraging to know that there will be no strike in the steel industry this year. A wage contract has been approved by both management and labor, close to the line that was recommended by President Kennedy. Wages will remain at their present level but there will be fringe benefits that will cost the industry ten cents an hour.

Under the circumstances this contract probably is about all that could be hoped for. It removes the danger of any substantial price increase. Labor has recognized the fact that high wages can result in unemployment, and that unemployment within the steel industry has resulted directly from the wage boosts of recent years.

Unforunately the new contract offers no relief for the old burden that will continue to depress the industry. A few years back our country sold abroad three times as much steel as it imported. For the last three years our imports have exceeded our exports, and that is not a healthy condition.

But now that President Kennedy and this important segment of organized labor have recognized the danger of pricing ourselves out of world markets, it is to be hoped that the administration will be consistent with this policy in dealing with other wage problems. Across-the-board wage increases for public employees can be just as detrimental to our economy as wage boosts within private industry. The President can be very helpful in keeping our labor costs from spiralling again by opposing vigorously the across-the-board waye boost that has been suggested for federal employees in this election year.

Debt Limits

Three proposed amendments to the state Constitution will be submitted to the voters in this year's general election. No. 2 on the list would remove the present $250,000 limit on state indebtness.

That $250,000 limit is, of course, ridiculous. But it had not been an obstacle to unlimited state borrowing until the Supreme Court ruled that it is a valid legal limitation and should be observed.

We have no objection to removing the old barrier, but we are not satisfied that there should be no barrier at all. And if the second proposal is approved then, as we understand it, there will be no limit.

It may be argued, with some justification, that debt limitations have shortcomings. We like the debt limits Congress imposes upon itself mainly because they make Congress look ridiculous each time the limit is upped. And the best thing that could happen to our country would a realization by the members of Congress that our economy is being threatened by their shameful disregard of sound fiscal policies.

A constitutional limitation is a more serious consideration. But we still like the limitations as we move into another era of public spending that may force us into an unstoppable inflation.

Minnesota will not suffer if the second proposed amendment is rejected and further consideration be given to the possibility of adopting, two years later, a limit that would be realistic.

Ruark on Manners

Robert Ruark, writing from London, tells us in his interesting syndicated column that the English are much more polite than Americans. "Common politeness between most people is the rule," he says, "and after any extended stay in most American cities of any size, it always strikes refreshingly." He observes:

> "One of the enduring charms of London is still the leisurely conduct of commerce, in which the buyer actually is made to feel welcome; further, that he is doing the sellor a favor. From chemist to green grocer, from news vendor to butcher, the cheerful voice on the end of the phone seems happy to hear you, even if the order is trivial."

Our lack of politeness has been a gradual development, he thinks. It wasn't always that way by his recollection, saying:

> "I don't know what happened to good manners in America. We used to have them. We were never extremely servile in an olde worlde sense, perhaps, but at least we didn't bark when I was a boy. I was taught politness as a child — it was impressed on my backside with a stick or a sudden banishment from the table—and quite a lot of it has stuck."

The reference to the "stick" and "banishment from the table" indicated quite clearly that he received his training in manners as a boy, at home. That, no doubt, is where they still should be taught. The schools have an obligation too but parents must assume the major responsibility.

Why They Litter

(San Mateo, Calif. Times)

Once upon a time those who did things society disapproved were regarded as wicked, ornery or slovenly. Now it's the fashion to blame the faults of the individual on his childhood, his enviroment—on anything except himself.

A good example is a new theory offered by a sociologist to explain why people disfigure city streets, highways and the countryside with litter. As the sociologist explains it, it's all because of the increasing complexity of modern society, in which the individual "often feels lost and powerless" and loses his sense of social responsibility.

This theory is questionable. It may explain why some are untidy, but not why others are neat. It overlooks the fact that long before society got so complex people were careless about how they got rid of trash.

The primitive village of today, untouched by civilization's complexities, is no model of tidiness, and the caves of the cavemen must have been worse.

April is especially welcome this year. January has been a very long month.

Interesting Opinions

The Asian fighting man is at least equally brave (as the white), usally more careless of death, less encumbered by mental doubts, less troubled by humanitarian sentiment, and not so moved by slaughter and mutilation around him. He is, by background and living standards, better fitted to endure hardship uncomplainingly, to demand less in the way of subsistence or comfort, and to look after himself when thrown on his own resources.

The American Foundation for the Blind, which acts as a national clearing house for agencies serving the visually handicapped, advises that half of all blindness is caused by severe cases of cataract.

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

As I write, the spring break-up, as we call it, is here.

Road limits are being posted on highways throughout the state. Red flags mark many rough spots where motorists must proceed with caution. Many communities in our state become isolated as trucks cannot get in, and railroads no longer include stops on the schedule. All this has become intolerable and is no longer necessary.

Years ago Minnesota took a hold of a tough road problem and decided to "get Minnesota out of the mud" and launched a bold forward looking highway program. I believe we are in a similar situation now and need drastic action.

There is a great deal of highway work going on—a full amount within the limit of present funds and resources. Yet we are not progressing as fast as we should. I propose that the Legislature grant the highway department authority to use the bonding power that the people have already voted in a highway constitutional amendment. I believe this authority should be for $60 million, not over $20 million to be used in any one year. I believe the action should be taken at the first opportunity.

The main purpose would be to speed up work on our trunk highways, to restore full apportionment to the counties so their work can be hurried along. In addition, however, the letting of these additional contracts would provide employment for a number of men over the next three years, and would be a Minnesota version of the Kennedy public works proposal. Finally, with so much of our highway work concrete, it would provide additional payroll in our Minnesota concrete plant and wire mesh steel plant.

It is not necessary to have all the spring road trouble that we do. If highways are built to proper load limits to begin with, much of the difficulty can be eliminated.

I believe that in this, and in other parts of state governmental activity we need to take a fresh look at progress and schedule programs that will accomplish what the times demand.

Several years ago the Legislature submitted an amendment to the people calling for a highway bonding limit of $150 million. It was approved. Some borrowings have been made over the years and retired. The current balance is $44 million. The legislature can authorize the department to use an additional amount at this time. What do you think? Wouldn't it be a good time to catch up on our highway program—when the needs are so great—and the additional jobs would be so welcome to Minnesota workers?

Personal Liability Insurance Explained

(Second in a series supplied by the Insurance Information Institute)

A man's home is his castle—but what happens if a loose board in the drawbridge causes a visitor to fall into the moat? Granted, few of us own homes with moats, but there are plenty of other chances for injury around the average home. And if you can be held to be negligent in an injury to a visitor, you may be liable for damages.

Personal liability coverage, basically a combination of liability insurance covering injuries on the insured's property and those arising from his and his family's personal acts, is now available to the average person.

This protection is available thru comprehensive personal liability insurance—either in a separate policy or as included in a homeowners policy.

Usually this type of coverage protects you against claims arising out of bodily injury or porperty damage to others for which you can be held responsible.

This could include such situations as the postman falling over your son's toy on the sidewalk, accidentally shooting a companion while hunting, hitting someone with a golf ball, your dog biting a passerby, a trash fire getting out of control and burning the neighbor's fence or garage, your son throwing a ball through a neighbor's window and other similar acts.

In short, payments may be made —depending on the policy— whether the injury occurs on your premises, on the golf course, on the street, or wherever the acident happens. The insurance covers not only you, but your spouse, relatives and wards if members of your household.

The bodily injury provision protects you against claims charging you or your family with negligence. But a medical payments provision pays for medical attention to persons injured on your property or by you even if the accident is not your fault. Higher limits of coverage may be obtained.

For more detailed information concerning personal liability coverage, the Insurance Information Institute suggests that you see your local independent insurance agent.

Opportunities for Farm Youth Change

'U' of M. Man Points out Agri-business Openings

One result of the application of science and technology to agriculture is that a young man in rural Minnesota today has far less opportunity to start farming than did his father, the head of the University of Minnesota department of Agricultural economics said Saturday at St. Cloud.

Speaking at the fourth Governor's conference on agriculture and country life, Sherwood O. Berg said that because farms are growing larger and capitalization greater, it is becoming more and more difficult for young farmers to find a suitable farm and secure operating credit. "Today only one of five or six rural young men can expect to find a place in farming," Berg stated.

But the bright side of the picture is often overlooked, the economist said. "The shift of many operations once performed on the farm to industry has fostered the concept of agribusiness—agriculture and related business. It is Minnesota's biggest industry. As a result, rural youth now have opportunities for brilliant careers in agribusiness undreamed of 20 years ago.

"They have a natural background; an understanding of rural institutions and an understanding of farm operations and problems. If they couple this background with professional training at the college level, they can meet the personnel requirements and needs in agribusiness better than any other known group," Berg said.

Federal Reserve Bank Says Business Was Hit by Snow and Cold Weather

Mixed economic trends were noted in the Ninth district's economic activities during the first quarter of the year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis reported in its current Monthly Review.

Department store and retail sales were consistently slow, and outside construction activity and farmers' marketings were off because of the extreme cold and heavy snows that disrupted traffic during January and February, the bank said.

Employment, however, remained relatively stable, gaining 9.3 per cent in Minnesota in the durables manufacturing sector from a year earlier. The largest jump in Minnesota employment in February, according to the bank, was in the which gained 29 per cent from last year. Much of the increase was due to new defense contract payrolls.

The bank put total employment in Minneapolis in mid-February at 270,150, 16 per cent up from a year ago, while unemployment was down 35 per cent. From mid-January to mid-March the number of jobless dropped 1,400 in the Twin Cities whereas it usually shows a seasonal uptrend.

District personal income, which had been moving up at a good rate in late 1961, slowed down to a more moderate pace in January and February.

The liquidity position of the district's weekly reporting city banks at mid-march was better than it was a year earlier, the bank reported. Total loans had increased by about 3 per cent and total deposits were up 6 per cent. The loan and deposit gains at the country banks were up 3 and 4 per cent respectively.

School for Game Wardens Held at Bemidji Recently

Highlight of the annual game warden school held in Bemidji late in March was a panel which dramatized the probable effects of a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision on law enforcement activities.

The panel, composed of retired District Court Judge Arthur A. Stewart, attorney Phillip J. Klein and assistant attorney general Linus J. Hammond, showed game wardens how the recent decision relating to the unreasonable search and seizure provision in the constitution will affect their operations.

The three men have traveled throughout the state conducting the panel for law enforcement agencies at all levels of government.

Other topics discussed at the school included latest developments in wildlife management practices and conservation in general.

Overflow Ice Poses Difficulties on Alaska Cross-Country Travel

CHAPTER FIVE

March 10, 1960

This was to be our bad day, and we sensed the fact almost as soon as we had left the Blackburn cabin and got back on the Yukon. We started the engines in 3 below zero temperature.

From the start we had to fight head winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour velocity, and the temperature remained at about zero all through the day.

The high winds caused extreme drifting, and the blowing snow tended to clog the carburetors and running parts of the vehicles. We were able to keep the engines and sleds running, though, and met with only a short delay from this cause.

But we had the misfortune of having our Trailblazer (the smaller, 7-horsepower machine) run afoul of overflow ice, which has always been the bane of Arctic trail travel.

The motor sled went into a foot of concealed water before we realized its presence, and then the propulsion mechanism promptly froze tight. It took us a good two hours to chip off the ice and get the driving chains in operation once more. While we three men chipped ice, Bessie prepared hot coffee to warm us.

Overflow ice, which is covered with water, is caused by heavy snow weighting down the ice sheet and forcing stream bed water to seep up through cracks in the ice and at the perimeter where the ice sheet presses against the stream bank. A cover of snow hid the foot or more of water that lay on the ice.

The combination of this delay and the troubles we had with high winds and poor snow limited the distance traveled today to an estimated 10 miles.

My distance measuring device, which was mounted on one of the motor sleds, failed today because of the ice and sand that had clogged its mechanism. This was a disappointing development because I had counted on keeping an accurate check of the mileage we are covering.

We set up our camp on the river's deep covering of snow, locating the tents close to the cut bank of the river to gain shelter from the wind. We built a good fire between the tent entrances and the cut bank, and by this means were able to take advantage of a certain amount of heat that was reflected from the bank.

Again, Bessie cheerfully prepared a very satisfying hot dinner on the portable gasoline stove. She had to wear her snow shoes to avoid sinking hip deep in the snow that covers the river.

Bessie is playing a very important part in making this trip a success and; best of all, she is enjoying it as much as any one of us. The hot meals she prepares for us make all the difference in maintaining our perspective and a bright outlook no matter what difficulties we might be having.

It is now 10 p. m. and the winds are still very strong. It has been blowing so hard that it was difficult to set up the tents and kindle a proper fire.

We decided this afternoon that we must leave all weight possible behind at this stop. Before we leave tomorrow we will go over all our gear and supplies and abandon whatever articles we believe will not be absolutely necessary to the sucess of the trip. We hope we have made the right selections in picking out the things that are to be left behind.

The snow here at our camp site is all of four feet deep, and it is amazing to all of us that the Sno-Travelers will pull our big loads across theis type of snow. Without the cargo sleds that are hitched behind the two Rangers we could make very good time.

All of us are in very high spirits despite the variety of day-to-day problems we have had. Sometimes one wonders how it happens that we are here making our way thru this vast wilderness. Most of the time we have been out here we have given little thought to the problems and cares of business back home, and in this respect it is the sort of respite one gets from a vacation.

There is no sign of human life anywhere here. We are thankful that we have the shelter of good tents and warm sleeping bags, also that we have serviceable engines and snow sleds to carry us to our journey's end.

'It's Fun to Fly' Is Slogan for 1962

Aeronautics Department Reveals State Promotion

Everyone in Minnesota will know it's fun to fly by the end of 1962 if the Minnesota state department of aeronautics has its way. "It's fun to fly," will be the theme of each of the department's promotional activities during 1962, according to Dale MacIver, commissioner of aeronautics.

Stamps and stickers on envelopes and letterheads will proclaim, "It's fun to fly—try it!" The monthly calendar of fly-in events issued by the department will bear the heading, "It's fun to fly come see us!"

Seven thousand copies of the state map of public airports bear the slogan, "It's fun to fly in Minnesota the omni state." These are free for the asking at the department office at St. Paul Downtown Airport, St. Paul, Minnesota, according to Dale MacIver, state commissioner of Aeronautics.

Each fall the department has a large display at the Minnesota State Fair in St. Paul. Over a million visitors attend the fair. The 1962 aviation exhibit will have the slogan, "It's fun to fly and safe, too!"

of Rhyme & Reason

BY MARY LUNDIN

YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU, but there is very little you can do on this earth without it. Money is a strange creature. If you save it, you're a miser. If you spend it, you're irresponsible. If you borrow it, you're a liability. If you lend it, you're a slave-driver. If you need it, you don't have it. If you have it, you don't need it.

No matter how much you talk about anything, money suddenly becomes a very integral part of the conversation. It is no different when you discuss education—and the building program which is presently being contemplated for the Thief River Falls school system.

This is a marvelous age—if an expensive one—in which we are presently living. Things which once were luxuries have become necessities. Electrical appliances are innumerable. Prices on goods and services have sky-rocketed. More services are demanded by the public. Roads have never been better. The automotive field offers a multitude of accessories to induce buyers to purchase their particular line. People are demanding the best of everything and, whether they know it or not, they are paying for it.

Why is it then, that everyone expects taxes to remain constant? How can people expect something for nothing or at least at bargain basement rates? If a line must be drawn, where should that line be? Since the economic structure of this country is built on an educated populace, I can't believe the line should be drawn across ample education facilites.

There is no question, and no one contends that there is, that the proposed school facilities in Thief River Falls will cost money. They will cost a lot of money. Taxes will increase—and granted, they are high now. But why penalize education in favor of other things which are far less important?

For Thief River Falls residents the additonal mill levy for the new school construction would be about $8.63 per $100 presently paid in taxes. That's a healthy increase. It is, however, a secure investment in the future of our community and nation.

Farmers know that when they have a good hay crop that more than fills the storage area, some of the hay must be stacked outside where it is at the mercy of the elements. A considerable amount of this hay spoils or makes unsuitable feed. Right now the "crop" of students fills the "storage area". Projected enrollment indicates that some of the "crop" will have to be "stored outside" if more facilities are not provided. How much "spoilage this would cause cannot be determined, but there would be some.

A favorable vote on the bond issue should not have to be "sold" to the public. A reasonable people should know that building is a necessity. They should give the proposal enthusiastic support. They should be willing to invest in the area's future. Shouldn't they?

This week's poem is in the form of several which have been published in other papers and were clipped by a reader of this column who thought they were worth sharing with other readers. Because of length they are in paragraph form.

Grandmother, on a winter's day, milked the cows and fed them hay, slopped the hogs, saddled the mule, and got the children off to school. . . Did the washing, dried the fruit, pressed her husband's Sunday Suit. . . Swept the parlor, made the bed, baked a dozen loaves of bread. . . Split some firewood, lugged it in, enough to fill the kitchen bin. . .

Cleaned the lamps and put in oil, stewed some apples she thought might spoil. . . Churned the butter, baked a cake, then exclaimed, "For mercy's sake, the calves have got out of the pen." Went out out and chased them in again. . . Gathered the eggs and locked the stable, back to the house and set the table. . . Cooked a supper that was delicious and afterward washed all the dishes. . . Fed the cat and sprinkled the clothes, mended a basketful of hose. Opened the organ and began to play, "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Day."

Then someone added, "She died at the age of forty-one; all pooped out but her work was done."

The modern-day "grandma" came in for criticism in the following sequel:

Grandmother, on a winter's day, shut off the alarm and got out of the 'hay'. . . Turned up the thermostat and then she said, 'that bowling last night almost knocked me dead' . . . She let out the dog and read the news, and was enlightened by Dear Abby's views. . . She started the washer, dusted the floors, disposed of the garbage and avoided the chores. . . Baked a pie of frozen fruit, drip-dried her husband's Sunday suit . . . She vacuumed the parlor and shut the door, to hide the clothes on the bedroom floor. . .

She colored some 'ole', baked a 'mix', then she exclaimed, 'Am I in a fix!'. . . I'm due at the beauty shop at eight, then a coffee hour, I can't be late . . . The women's church meeting starts at two, they need more members, I'll pick up a few. . . So out she went for the rest of the day, for civic duties and leisurely play. . . Back home and thawed a dinner delicious, and let the washer do the dishes. . . 'Times have changed', we heard her say, as she turned on TV and watched, 'Queen for a Day'.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Laura Duerst

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Last Wednesday, as the Pennington County homemakers council met to plan next year's program, I noted one subject that we wanted to discuss in a lesson but failed to receive a majority of votes. This will be the topic in my column today.

There are about 50 different size cans on the market today. Not all products are canned in each of these listed but frequently a product is available in cans of several sizes. At the current price, which size is the most economical for your family?

I am listing the 10 most popular sizes of cans found on the market today.

Container Industry Term	Net Weight	Measure In Cups	Products commonly Found
5 ounce	6 oz.	¾	frozen fruit juices
8 ounce buffet	8 oz.	1	vegetables and fruits
No. 1 picnic	9½-13 oz.	1½	soups, meat and fish
12 oz. vacuum	12 oz.	1¾	vacuum packed corn
No. 300	14-16 oz.	2	prk and beans, cranberry sauce, etc.
No. 303	16-17 oz.	2	fruits, veg., meat
No. 2	18 fluid ox 20 oz.	2¼-2½	veg., fruit; eg. pineapple juices
No. 2½	29-30 oz.	3½	tomatoes, kraut, pumpkin
No. 3 cylinder	46 fluid oz. -52 oz.	5¾	whole chicken, chow mein
No. 10	6½-6 ¾ lb.	12-13	fruits and veg. for restaurant use.

The net weights of various foods in the same size can will vary with the density of the product. The weights cited are for foods of average density.

How can you help prevent the white clothes in the home laundry from turning yellow or tattle-tale gray?

Florence Ehrenkrance, professor of household equipment at the University of Minnesota, says the remedies often are warmer wash water, the correct amount of detergent but not too much, good rinsing and occasional use of chlorine bleach for fabrics that can take such bleach.

For maximum soil removal from colorfast fabrics, water temperature should be a minimum of 140 degrees F for fabrics that can take 140 degrees F.

Manager Chamber of Commerce

Friday night will find Thief River Falls stores open for the first time in 1962. They will remain open on Friday nights until next January 1. This is a policy that is established by the retail trade committee of our Chamber of Commerce here in Thief River Falls. Night openings are largely a service provided for the public by merchants.

For many places Friday nights are not very profitable and sometimes are not profitable at all. The same holds true for Saturday afternoons, which have been slowing down for retail business gradually all over the area including Thief River Falls. The hours are maintained, however, because it is a convenience service that is necessary to satisfy the needs of a certain percentage of our consuming public.

The reason that I mention these things is that business works two ways; it is not only rewarding to management, but it is also an economic and service necessity for every citizen in this area.

Therefore, along with the appreciation our community extends to you, the consuming public, for your business past, present, and future, I should also like to say that we hope you appreciate the fact that you have a progressive, growing and complete shopping center where you can do your business in a personal manner.

Personal benefits will be realized by each of us as we Shop and Trade Where Bargains Are Made—Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota—Thief River Falls.

Summer Resort Help Is Available Thru Job Offices

Commissioner Starkey Urges Operators to File Requests at Early Date

"It is not too early for resort owners and tourist camp operators to begin placing orders for the personnel needs they expect to have this spring and summer," said Frank Starkey, commissioner of the department of employment security.

The 33 local offices of the state employment service are cataloging the skills of hundreds of college and high school youth of the state who are interested in resort and related summer jobs. Many are skilled along the lines of work needed and many have had good experience in the field. Others are eager to learn the business.

Starkey pointed out that resorters who place orders early will have the best chance of getting the kind of help they need, although he emphasized that this type of referral service is carried out all summer long, wherever there is a demand.

The service is available throughout the state, and most of the applicants will consider any area. Those registered include waitresses, bus boys, cook helpers, cabin girls, dock hands, and hostesses; a good supply of experienced cooks and maintenance people in the middle age-group are also registered, he said.

Selective Service Regulations Revised

Certain amendments to the Selective Service regulations, recently issued by the President, were explained today by Lt. Colonel Murley A. Reep, state director of selective service for Minnesota.

One of the amendments, by a presidential executive order, creates a new Selective Service classification. The new classification, identified as Class "I-Y", is applied to all registrants who are found not qualified by the armed forces for military service under current physical, mental and moral standards, but who are considered to be qualified to serve in time of emergency, Colonel Reep said. Previously such men were placed in Class IV-F. Only men not qualified for any military service will remain, or be placed hereafter, in Class IV-F, the State Director added.

Current standards of physical, mental, and moral acceptability are higher than those which the armed forces would use in an emergency, the state director said.

The new classification permits the ready identification day by day of men who are considered to be qualified and available in an emergency, and thus facilitates the mobilization of manpower rapidly in case of need.

The state director estimated that a great number of the registrants of Minnesota currently being found not qualified for service by the armed forces would be eligible for the new classification.

One other major amendment in Selective Service regulations provides for the accelerated induction of Ready Reservists who enlist in the so-called six-month Reserve program before age 26, upon certification by the Reserve component of unsatisfactory participation. This legislation, Public Law 87-378, adopted by the Congress and approved October 4, 1961, authorizes the summary induction of any man who enlisted in the so-called six month Reserve program under age 26, and after October 4, 1961, and who thereafter fails to participate satisfactorily in Reserve training. Prior to passage of the law, only men who enlisted in these programs under age 18½ were liable to be certified for accelerated induction.

Local boards of Selective Service act simply as agents to deliver such unsatisfactory reservists for induction, the state director explained. Determination of unsatisfactory participation and certification of the reservist for induction are functions of the armed forces, he added. When such reservists are inducted, they are inducted into the branch of the armed forces, of which their Reserve component is a part.

Prior to approval of Public Law 87-378 and the amendments to the Selective Service regulations, men who entered the six-month Reserve program between the ages of 18½ and 26, and thereafter failed to participate satisfactorily, to their deferment as members of the Reserve. They were inducted only if acceptable and available, and when reached in their normal turn, determined by date of birth.

REHEARSALS are given serious consideration by members of the Lincoln high school band, particularly when contest and concert time draws near. There was a time, not many years ago, when playing a musical instrument was mostly considered an activity for girls by the student body. Gradually the boys have come to realize that there is something like pride and meeting a challenge which makes mastering an instrument worthwhile. As evidenced by the above photo taken at rehearsal Tuesday, boys now comprise a large number of the band members.

Music Hath Charms . . .

LHS Band Prepares for Concert April 10

by Marvin Lundin

When John Moum presents his Lincoln high school band students in concert for the public at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening, odds are that the public will see an orderly group of boys and girls and hear something at least loud in the style of music. It would appear so from watching a rehearsal early this week.

The students will be orderly because their parents will be sitting in the audience with all eyes fastened sternly, if proudly, on their music-minded offspring. And the music will be loud because that's the way youngsters seem to play the best.

There are about 225 youngsters in grades five through 12 who are in one band or another in the local school system. The senior band has 82 members; the junior band has about 90 members; and the elementary band comprised of fifth and sixth graders has about 50 more youngsters involved.

John Moum, who began directing the junior high school band eight years ago when it had 35 members, now heads the instrumental music program at the school. James Solsten takes care of the orchestra, which borrows some band members and has about 60 musicians in its concerts. About 25 students in fifth and sixth grades are receiving orchestra training.

Boys Take Interest

Several years ago the local high school had few boys in the band. Most members of the masculine gender apparently believed that blowing through a horn was something less than fitting for a growing boy. Today, fortunately, that mistaken conception has been removed and nearly half of the present band is composed of boys. And they like what they're learning.

Competition in band work is evident in several phases. There is self discipline required to learn to play an instrument and improve that ability. There is an opportunity to play better than somebody else and gain a coveted "first chair" position in a particular section. There is the possibility of recognition through solo work. And there is a feeling of satisfaction in being part of a group.

Lions Told of School Building Project and Vote Endorsement

Marshall Hankerson, superintendent of schools, accompanied by Lloyd Howick, president of the Thief River Falls board of education, made a detailed presentation at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday of the projected construction of a new junior high school and grade school.

Local voters will decide the issue as to whether or not to proceed with the work at a special school district election Monday, April 23, on the question of issuing $1,595,000 in bonds to finance the project.

As reasons for the proposed expansion of facilities, Mr. Hankerson pointed out that enrollment in the schools has increased by 700 during the past decade and is rising steadily. He also stated that the form Washington school is structurally unsound and a fire hazard, and that the school district is now paying $19,000 a year for rented facilities. The only solution, he stated, is to build.

Approval of the bond issue, Mr. Hankerson said, would mean an increase in the school district mill levy of 23.7 mills, which is equivalent to $8 for each $100 in taxes now paid, based on a bond retirement period of 28 years.

He showed sketches of the proposed buildings, and commented that the plans call for no frills, such as drapes or large windows. He added that the architects estimate approximately $200,000 savings would result thru constructing the two buildings adjoining each other, thus avoiding provision of duplicate facilities, such as cafeterias and libraries.

Following the discussion, the Lions club went on record as endorsing the building project.

Special Awards Will Be Given at Banquet Sponsored by Jaycees

PTA Units Sponsor Annual Pre-school Roundup April 14

All Who Expect to Enter Kindergarten Next Fall Asked to Plan to Attend

Parents are reminded of the pre-school roundup which will be held Saturday, April 14, at the Washington school gymnasium from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. under the sponsorship of the local PTA groups.

All children who are five years old on or before September 1, 1962, and who will be entering kindergarten in the fall are invited to attend. All rural kindergarteners and children who will begin school for the first time this fall must attend the roundup.

Invitations have been mailed out but new residents together with rural residents and others in the community who may not receive an invitation are urged to attend the roundup anyway.

Children unable to attend or those not receiving invitations are asked to call Mrs. Merle Lindberg at MU 1-1536 or Mrs. Margaret Race at MU 1-1336.

The child's birth certificate must be presented at the roundup if possible. This can be obtained at the clerk of court's office in the county where the child was born. A hospital birth certificate will not be accepted.

It has been requested that parents come to the roundup prepared to give information as to when their children have had their shots, and also other health information.

Rhoda Drotts, who attends nursing school in Chicago, Ill., spent two weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Drotts.

Call for Bids on Highlanding Road Blacktop

Board Also Plans More Work on No. 3 West of St. Hilaire

The Pennington county board at its April session Tuesday instructed County Engineer Joseph Seidel to call for bids on two road projects in the county as soon as possible. A definite date was not set Tuesday.

One project calls for bituminous surfacing of the Highlanding road extending from Trunk Highway No. 1 to the River Valley road. The other calls for widening and grading the western section of State Aid Road 3 to the west county line, preliminary to surfacing, probably in 1963. The highway extends west of St. Hilaire.

The board also gave its approval to the application of the Thief River Golf club to the state for a bottle club license made possible under a law enacted by the state legislature at its 1961 session. The county fee was fixed at $50.

The board voted to renew its contract with the Northwest Mental Health Center at Crookston, the county's share of the cost for the current fiscal year being estimated at about $5,500. Norman Peterson of this city was reappointed to serve as the county's representative on the board for another four-year term.

The sum of $2,701.94 was appropriated to the capital improvement fund of the Oakland Park Nursing Home. For the annual observance of Memorial Day May 30, $100 was voted to the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and $25 to the Goodridge Community club.

Miss Aquacade Is Minnesota Finalist

MISS THIEF RIVER

Re-tabulation of balloting by the judges in the District Miss Minnesota pageant held March 24 at Moorhead has revealed that Miss Susanne Pitblado, Roseau, representing the Thief River Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce as Miss Aquacade, was one of the winners of the district event. She had been selected as one of four finalists but was not announced as one of the two winners at the pageant.

A letter from John Wicker, state chairman of the Miss Minnesota program, to Miss Pitblado, advised her of the error early this week. The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Pitblado of Roseau, Susanne won the Miss Aquacade title in competition with seven other contestants at the annual Jaycees Acquacade in August of last year. She is a junior in elementary education at the University of Minnesota.

As a result of the error correction, Miss Pitblado has been instructed to appear at the District 2 pageant April 14 in North St. Paul to accept her winner's trophy on-stage. She will be one of the district finalists competing in the Miss Minnesota finals to be held at Rochester on June 2.

A copy of the letter sent to Miss Pitblado was received yesterday by the local Jaycee queen committee. Details as to how the error occurred were contained in the letter and are as follows:

Letter Explains Error

"In checking on Sunday, March 25th, the scoring system used in balloting for the four finalists after the questions had been asked, I found that I had failed to inform the judge's chairman that numbers used in computing the final ballot should be changed. The balloting we use is the official Miss America system.

"However, we are the only state in the United States using the district pageant system. It is because

Citizen's Group Endorses School Building Program

Unanimous endorsement of the building program for School District 564 in Thief River Falls was given by the local citizens' committee at a meeting held Tuesday evening at the school. Approximately 30 persons attended the session which was called to discuss methods of gaining publicity for the forthcoming bond election on April 23.

The Citizen's committee was appointed by the board of education two years ago when preliminary plans for new school construction were undertaken. The group has been informed at several meetings as to the current school situation and what is being done to remedy the crowded conditions which exist.

Board members attending the meeting Tuesday announced that more concentrated effort would be placed on providing information on the need for new construction and answering questions at group meetings in the community. It was also announced that brochures containing sketches of the proposed construction and statistics indicating the need for such building will be sent out in the near future to district voters.

Voters in the district will ballot on April 23 on the question of issuing $1,595,000 in bonds for the construction of a new junior high school and elementary school and improvement of school facilities. Groups who would like to extend an invitation to have the subject reviewed at a meeting may contact any member of the school board, Les Ihle, chairman of the citizen's committee, or Supt. M. R. Hankerson at MU 1-2924.

Ruth Johnson is Bride of Kenneth Sanders Mar. 3

Before an altar graced with baskets of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums and lighted candles, Miss Ruth Ann Johnson became the bride of Kenneth Sanders at the First Lutheran church of Goodridge on Saturday, March 3. Reverend Leland Steen officiated at the 2 p. m. double ring ceremony in the presence of 250 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Johnson of Goodridge and the groom is the son of Mrs. Ethel Sanders, also of Goodridge.

Mrs. Earl Peterson of Goodridge provided the traditional nuptial music and also accompanied Miss Charleen Nordby of Grygla as she sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a three-tiered floor length gown of white net over taffeta with an overskirt of net trimmed in chantilly lace. Cascading tiers of net and lace accented the back of the skirt while the bodice featured a scalloped sabrina neckline trimmed in sequins and pearls and long sleeves which came to a point over the wrist. Her waist length veil of tulle and chantilly lace fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a lavender orchid with white stephanotis on a white Bible. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift from the groom. The traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed and blue" was carried out.

Lila Johnson, sister of the bride, of Goodridge was maid of honor with Delores Jones, friend of the bride, and Marlys Johnson, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. They wore dresses of pink taffeta with short sleeves and boat necklines that were made by the groom's mother. Their matching headbands were of pink tulle and they wore white gloves and single strand pearl necklaces, a gift of the bride.

Flower girl was Genial Sunsdahl, niece of the bride, who wore a pink taffeta dress and headband similar to that of the bridesmaids and carried a basket of pink roses and small white carnations.

Attending the groom as bestman was Richard Sanders, brother of the groom, of Goodridge with Glen Johnson, brother of the bride, of Biwabik and Jimmy Myrin, cousin of the groom, of Minneapolis as groomsmen. Charles Johnson, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer and carried the rings on a pink taffeta pillow trimmed in pink tulle. Serving as ushers were Dale Svendsgaard and Dayle Kainz, friends of the groom, while Gary Johnson, brother of the bride, was candle lighter. The gentlemen of the bridal party wore white dinner jackets and black trousers with dark pink boutonnieres. They all received cuff links, gifts of the groom.

Mrs. Johnson chose for her daughter's wedding a two-piece blue suit with white accessories and Mrs. Sanders wore a blue wool dress with white accessories. They wore matching corsages of pink feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception given by the bride's parents and catered by Mrs. Johnson's circle was held in the Goodridge school gym, which carried out the pink and white color scheme. A four-tiered wedding cake decorated in pink and white and topped with a miniature bride and groom was baked and decorated by Mrs. Oscar W. Johnson of Thief River Falls, aunt of the bride. Sandra Sanders, sister of the groom, was seated at the gift table and Lois Johnson and Mrs. Orvin Sunsdahl, sisters of the bride, were at the punch bowl. They were all given corsages, gifts of the bride. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Elmer Johnson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Art Stenseth, aunt of the groom. Miss Myrtle Myrin, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Orvis Olson, aunt of the bride, poured. Waitresses were Harriet Jorgenson, Mrs. Jack Ulrich, Mrs. LeRoy Johnson, and Mrs. Stanley Panek Jr., friends of the bride. They were all given matching aprons, gifts of the bride. Serving at the gift table were Lana Cartier, Carole Myrin, Brenda Olson, and Joanne Johnson who were also given corsages, gifts of the bride.

The bride chose a brown two-piece wool suit with gold and brown accessories for her traveling outfit. Following a wedding trip to Texas the couple are making their home on a farm near Goodridge.

Mrs. Sanders is a 1961 graduate of Goodridge high school and was employed as a sales clerk at Elaine's. The groom was graduated from the A. C. in Crookston in 1955 and operates a farm near Goodridge.

Out of town guests were from Amery, Wisconsin, Minneapolis, Red Lake Falls, Biwabik, Grand Rapids, Thief River Falls, Benson, Hancock and Bemidji.

Joanne Wedul is Vice President of District BPW

Marion Olson of Crookston was re-elected president of District 1 Business and Professional Women's Club at the semi-annual meeting held at the Hotel Markham in Bemidji Sunday, March 25.

Joanne Wedul of this city was chosen as vice president and June Shaver of Crookston was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Belva Saugstad of Crookston, state emblem chairman, served as installing officer for the ceremony that followed the election.

Mrs. June Dahlgren of Bemidji opened the meeting and introduced the District 1 president, Marion Olson, who presided at the business session. She introduced the presidents of the three participating clubs, Mrs. Ruth Wilson of Thief River Falls, Mary Lou Jorgenson of Crookston and Mrs. Dahlgren, and each president reported on the activities of her club for the past year.

Gudvig Norseth of Crookston was the speaker of the afternoon presenting "Do's and Dont's on State Conventions". Miss Norseth is past president of the Crookston club, past state treasurer and served on the state rules committee. She gave suggestions for the forthcoming convention to be held in Bemidji, May 17 through 20.

Attendance at "65th Precinct" Again Hits 1,000

Capacity Crowd Packs LHS Auditorium Monday for Second Performance

Another estimated 1,000 persons filled the Lincoln high school auditorium Monday evening for the repeat performance of the Washington Parent-Teacher association "65th Precinct" home talent variety show. The Monday night crowd brought the total attendance to the 2,000 mark and boosted the PTA treasury by about $400.

Many out-of-town people were in the audience and responded with enthusiasm to the vocal, instrumental and comedy acts presented. Written and directed by Mrs. William (Velma) Holmes, the production had previously been staged before a capacity crowd on March 19.

"Many people have asked why we didn't charge more for admission," Mrs. Holmes told the Times following the presentation. "We felt that the show was something which everyone should be able to see, bring the kids, grandpa and grandma, aunts and uncles, and enjoy themselves together." Admission charge was 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

Mrs. Holmes was presented with a necklace by cast members following the final production, and guest participants were presented with novelty gifts. Participating in the program other than Washington PTA members were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clinton, Mrs. Loren Adolphson, Malcolm Magnuson, Randal Noper, Al Shaff, Wendell Ortloff and Marvin Lundin.

"I have had requests to loan the script for the production to groups in Minneapolis, Grand Forks and Lancaster," Mrs. Holmes said. She urged all persons who have tickets and money from the advance sale to turn in the proceeds to her immediately so that a final accounting can be completed.

Success of the production at its second showing to a packed house was attributed by the director to the work done by the cast on individual acts, publicity through area news media and encouraging reports from persons who attended the initial showing.

In Case You've Wondered . . .

March of 1962 Had More Cold and Snow than 1961

Considerable difference between March of 1962 and March of 1961 may be seen in a comparison of weather for the two months from records on file at the Times office. Mean average temperature during March of 1962 was 8.24 degrees colder than the same month in 1961. This year's period was also considerably damper than a year ago.

High temperatures in March this year averaged 31.58 degrees as compared with 39.65 degrees in 1961. Lows for the same period respectively were 13.90 and 22.32 degrees. Average temperature for the month was 22.74 degrees in 1962 and 30.98 degrees a year ago.

Indicative of the colder overall period this year was the —35 low reading which opened the month and proved to be the second coldest mark of the winter season. Two other —15 readings and lows of —2 and —3 at mid-month added to the cold. March of 1961 had no sub-zero reading with the coldest temperature noted being 8 degrees on March 12.

At no time during March of 1962 have a low reading above zero while March last year had five days when the low mercury eclipsed the magic "32". Seventeen days in 1962's March edition had readings above the freezing point as compared with 27 days in 1961. High temperature for March this year was 42 degrees March 27 and the low was —35 March 1, a variation of 77 degrees. Last year the high was 63 degrees March 25 and the low was 8 degrees March 12, a variation of 55 degrees.

More Precipitation

Total precipitation in March of this year was 7 inches of snow with the greatest amounts being 3 inches on March 4 and 2½ inches on March 8. Traceable or greater amounts were recorded on 11 days. In March of 1961 8 days had traceable or greater amounts of precipitation with a total of 1.8 inches of snow.

One does not need to look far into the record to find a cold March, however, as that month in 1960 was anything but warm. High temperatures averaged 23.68 degrees and low readings averaged only 3.48 degrees. Ten days had lows below zero and only seven days had highs above freezing. Ten days also had traceable or greater amounts of snow.

April Holds Promise

But April is now upon us and this month holds promise for better weather. Last year April high temperatures averaged 45.67 degrees and the average daily temperature was 35.3 degrees. High reading was 66 degrees and the ice left the river at 11:51 April 20.

Daily statistics for March of 1962 include the following:

Miss Aquacade Gains State Miss Minnesota Finals

we select more than one girl in our District pageants that makes it mandatory that we change the numbers used on the final ballot to eliminate the possibility that the majority of judges cannot be over-ruled by the minority.

Mistake Noted March 25

"Although I caught the error on Sunday, March 25th, I had to explain to the Miss Minnesota committee at their meeting of March 31st how the error occurred. From the moment the error was recognized, there has been no doubt as to your future in the Miss Minnesota program. The program is run entirely for the benefit of the young women participating and no other facet of the program takes precedence over this fact."

It was not stated in the letter whether Miss Pitblado will replace one of the winners named at the district pageant or if three finalists will advance from this district to Miss Minnesota competition.

Rocksbury Leads In County Fair Membership Sale

Rocksbury township continues to lead the pack in sales of membership in the Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., according to a report issued this morning by Silas Hanson, general chairman of the membership campaign.

Fifty-three memberships have been sold in Rocksbury alone with about 150 memberships turned in at the central office. A number of other sales have been made but many volunteers conducting the sale have not yet turned in the amounts which they have collected, Hanson said.

"We are satisfied that there is enough interest in the rural area to justify continuation of the fair," the chairman reported. "Volunteers who have reported so far indicate that they are meeting with favorable comment and having good success with the sale." He urged persons who have memberships to sell but who have not covered their areas or reported to do so as soon as possible since the busy spring planting season is fast approaching.

Public Opinion

Editor Times;

I have been reading a lot about conserving water and ducks. I am no engineer, but it looks to me like it would be a good place for an artificial lake near Red Lake Falls and that would be near enough for some of us old folks to go for an outing and spend a day at the lake and it would also be a large storage for water that would benefit the towns.

I can't see any benefit in storing water in mud lake. They can call it lake paradise but it will still be mud lake to me.

I cannot see why the game and fish division wants more land when the mink, weasel, skunks and foxes kill nearly all the young ducks and grouse and destroy their nests. They have thousands of acres in the Rapid River game refuge that they could dam up. The river would provide plenty of water for the ducks and if they would seed some barley and alfalfa on some of the land that the farmers used to farm they could have pletny of ducks and the deer would not starve. They could have a nice park along the river and it is a nice drive to take on a hot day.

I wish they would make use of the many acres they have and not try and grab what us farmers want to use for pasture and crops. We recleaned the ditches so as to get the land back on the tax roles and not to have them dam it up and flood us out. I like game and have a pole from my granary to a tree so the dogs cannot catch the squirrels. Now I would like to ask who pays the most taxes or gives the business places more business, the ducks or the farmers. Yours for a square deal.

Mercury Expected In 50's Today

Balmy breezes are beginning to blow with more consistency as spring makes continued advances in the area. Expected high readings of 45 to 58 degrees today will do a great deal to reduce snow accumulations in the rural areas and help dry out saturated streets and yards in the city.

Forecast predictions call for the possibility of scattered light rain or snow this evening as increasing cloudiness and colder weather will prevail. Lows tonight are expected to be in the 30's with last night's low reading being 31 degrees.

High and low temperatures respectively the past several days include 38 and 8 on Monday, 44 and 21 on Tuesday and 43 and 22 on Wednesday. No precipitation was recorded during the first five days of April.

36 Gain Certificates At Leader's Institute

Thirty-six persons who had attended all three sessions of the Institute for Organization Leadership sponsored by the education committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce were presented with certificates of achievement Tuesday evening following the final institute session.

Approximately 60 persons attended the meeting at which Marvin Campbell, district governor of Toastmasters International and president of First National Bank in Crookston, was the guest speaker. Total attendance at the three-session institute was nearly 200 persons.

At the final gathering Tuesday, Campbell reviewed the duties and functions of being a good toastmaster. He listed what to avoid in making introductions, what preparations should be made prior to a meeting, how to use or not use a microphone and what to avoid as controversial in heading a group meeting.

Arrangements for the institute series were made by Dr. O. D. Belch and Arnt Aune, co-chairmen of the project under the education committee headed by Dr. A. E. Jacobson. Coffee was served at the conclusion of the meeting Tuesday. Other institute sessions were on how to be a good chairman and fundamentals of parliamentary procedure.

Receiving certificates of achievement for attending all three institute sessions were the following:

Morris Owen, C. J. Collins, Donald M. Olson, James Carlson, Harold G. Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parnow, James Dryden, Elton Cummings, Donovan Liden, Raymond S. Bren, Lloyd Haefer, Harry H. Belch, Roland K. Larson, Art Aune and Charles Richards.

Many others attended one or two of the sessions but were unable to be in attendance at all three meetings and did not qualify for the certificates.

Red Lake Co-op. Members Adopt Four Amendments

Melin, Skala and Lind Returned as Directors; KWH Sales Climb 10%

Four amendments to the articles and by-laws of Red Lake Electric Cooperative were passed by large margins at the annual meeting of the cooperative held Wednesday at the community hall in Red Lake Falls. Guest speaker at the meeting was Melvin Ouse, president of the Minnesota Electric Cooperatives association and director on the national board.

Reelected to three-year terms as directors of the cooperative were Helmer Lind of Newfolden, Leonard Melin and Joseph Skala of Red Lake Falls. At the board reorganization following the meeting, Melin was reelected president, Lind was renamed vice presidnet and Skala was returned to the post of secretary-treasurer.

An increase of 10 per cent in KWH sales was noted by the cooperative in 1961 to total sales of 16,978,799. Number of average members per month during the year increased slightly from 3,271 in 1960 to 3,282 in 1961. Overall revenue also increased from $623,638 to $656,038 for the year just completed.

Expenses of $570,740 left the association with net margins of $85,297. Total receipts from non-operational receipts was $91,000 and at the end of the year the cooperative had assets of $2,912,425.

Since the cooperative was organized, $3,050,892 has been borrowed from the Rural Electrification Administration and $1,368,970 has been repaid in interest, principal and advance. The cooperative at the end of the year was $100,000 ahead of schedule on repayment and owed $2,541,831 to the REA

Christensen Herd Tops DHIA in March

D. Svendsgaard Second and Luvern Johnson Is Third

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington county Dairy Herd Improvement Association, this week listed the following herds as the top ten in the association for the month of March:

	Milk	Fat
Clyde Christensen	1163	47.7
Dale Svendsgaard	1300	46.8
Luvern Johnson	1163	46.4
Art Stenberg	1215	45.5
Darrow Lundeen	1356	43.1
Clarence Swanson	1155	42.6
Martin Hanson	1160	42.3
Maynard Mehrkens	1103	40.0
Earl Erickson	768	38.2
Orlando Chervestad & Son	982	37.4

The heard averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butter fat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd then the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

Cows finishing with over 500 lb. of butterfat during the 1961-62 testing year, in a 365-day or less lactation, were: Mordy Morrison herd, Cow Hazel, 365 days, 12,430 lbs. milk, 502 lb. fat; Clyde Christenson herd, Cow No. 66, 300 days, 15,270 lb. milk, 512 lb. fat.

Note: The cow records are published only after she is dried and has made a 500 or more in 365 days or less.

Moved by Lindberg seconded by Hanson that meeting adjourn to convene at 10:00 A. M., April 3, 1962. Motion carried.

GLENN TASA, Chairman
Pennington County Board

Attest:
C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio Clerk of the Board.

March 26, 1962

Pursuant to notice duly served on all interested parties the Board met in the Court Room in the Courthouse in Thief River Falls, Minn. at 2:00 P. M., March 26, 1962.

Members present: Hanson, Olson, Almquist, Lindberg and Tasa. All present. Engineer Stewart and Auditor Rodekuhr were also present.

Sixty-four persons signed the roles as interested parties present.

Meeting called to order by Chairman Tasa and asked Auditor to read the notice as it was mailed to each affected land owner along with proof of mailing.

Engineer Stewart then reviewed the Engineers report in detail, and the Chairman asked the Auditor to review briefly the assessment procedure involved in a 'Repair' of a ditch.

Attorney Charlson appeared representing the petitioners and presented three petitioners with their testimony and statement that ditch is out of repair.

The meeting was then thrown open for questions and statements from anyone opposed as well as proponents of the repair of the ditch. After a final show of hands of those present to allow the board to get an idea as to the popularity of the proposal the hearing was closed.

Moved by Almquist seconded by Olson that the project Engineer be instructed to revise his proposed estimate to include a simple repair and not include the moving of the REA lines nor the re-sloping and that the hearing be adjourned until the regular meeting of the Board to be held May 8, 1962. Motion Carried.

GLENN TASA, Chairman
Pennington County Board

Attest:
C. W. Rodekuhr, County Auditor & ex-officio Clerk of the Board.

STEPPING OUT smartly to lead the parade, majorettes for the Lincoln high school band draw attention at all public appearances of the band. Majorettes for the 1961-62 school year are pictured above and include, left to right, Muriel Molskness, Lynda Bilek, Bonne Nelson, Cindy Steen and Arlene Ekdahl. When limited finances compel an organization to do the best it can with what it has, amazing things are accomplished. The majorette outfits, which appear quite dressy on parade, are merely remodeled uniforms formerly used by cheer-leaders at the school.

PLANNING of a trip to St. Boniface, Manitoba, Canada, the largest French-speaking community in western Canada, is being done by members of the French club recently organized at Lincoln high school. The trip will be made April 27 and will include visits to a French playhouse, cathedrals, hospitals, parks and schools. Students will be accompanied by their instructor, Miss Joyce Ramserran, and Miss JoAnn Borseth, home economics instructor. To help raise money for the trip, the club will sponsor a car wash Saturday at Dick's Corner Texaco. Club members shown above, left to right, include the following: seated, Diane Haugen, Sandra Christianson and Andrea Fehr (secretary-treasurer); standing, Kathryn Myrin, Sandra Lorenson, Frank Mousley (president) and Miss Ramserran.

with a common interest, which can prove to be better than other groups of its kind in the area.

"We try to instill in the students an awareness of good music," Moum said. "Learning to play an instrument builds and develops body and mind coordination. By giving the band members a little physical contact with music, we hope to provide a background for appreciation of music."

Play Big Variety

The director is not one to let band members become stagnant by playing only one type of music. The musicians play a little bit of everything and it keeps them interested and challenges them to see if they can produce what is expected of them.

It is amazing to see and hear what the students can produce. Much of this talent will be displayed at the Tuesday concert. Since it is impossible to hold individual instruction with the number of students involved, the youngsters must learn their basic fundamentals in group classes.

Does an upper classman who is an experienced musician have to wait for younger students to catch up when a new school year starts? Well, not exactly. "We try to get the students to extend themselves to keep pace with the more experienced kids," Moum said, "and it's surprising just how much the younger ones can pick up in a short time. Musical development over the period of a year is often amazing."

Tuesday's concert will be a preliminary for the District 31 contest to be held April 13 and 14 at Crookston. If the band or its instrumental groups receive A ratings, they will advance to the state-area festival May 4 and 5 in Thief River Falls. The latter event draws about 2,500 music students from throughout northwestern Minnesota.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Final Week-end

Local bowling enthusiasts should witness some top-flight bowling this week-end when, on Saturday and Sunday, the Family Bowl's singles and doubles handicap bowling tournament will be concluded.

It is the consensus that the scores that are tops on the scoreboard at present—Andor Anderson's 664 in the singles, and the 1261 posted by Ralph Vanasek and Tom Haugild in the doubles—will not survive the cannonading of Saturday and Sunday.

A number of the city's high-average bowlers will be rolling their tournament games this week-end. The Elaine's team, the city's high-average club, will have Shorty Perkins and Stan Cockrell bowling on the 4:00 P. M. shift on Sunday. And Wally and Jesse DuChamp of Plummer will be bowling their tournament games on that shift, too.

Should mention that Raynold (Red) Thyren and partner Mel Scholin will bowl on Saturday evening, slated to begin bowling at 6:00 P. M.

One of North Dakota's "name" bowlers, Julian Brua, is scheduled to bowl in the tournament, having made reservation for the 6:30 P. M. shift on Sunday evening.

Brua, who is in his fifties, has been one of North Dakota's top bowlers for many years. He began his bowling in Fargo, and he quickly developed into one of Fargo's best. For the past several years, Julie has been bowling out of Grand Forks, and he continues to be a high-average bowler although his activities have been curtailed considerably. He is the possessor of a very fluid delivery, and if he can "read" the local lanes he may post a big total.

Good Field, Good Hit

The Prowler baseball squad, limited to warm-up drills in the Armory, appear to have the makings of a pretty fair baseball team, and may develop into a district title threat.

Of the Prowler regulars who started against Crookston Central in district tournament play last spring, only three boys—Eddie Lietzow, Jack Goulet, and Gary Anderson—have been lost by graduation. That means that coach Ralph Skay will have Gerry Erickson, Paul and Gary Klungness, John and Mike Aune, and Dick Johnson available for this season's club.

These boys should give the Prowlers a strong defensive squad, and good strength at the plate. The problem is to develop an adequate pitching staff.

Jerome (Tony) Poole, a smooth-throwing righthander, is the club's top prospect. But Tony's effectiveness will be in doubt until he is tested in action. He had the misfortune, early last winter, of fracturing his wrists during some weight-lifting exercises, and while the wrists have healed there is a question whether or not the injury has done harm to his pitching motion.

With the pitching staff lost by graduation—Anderson, Goulet and Lietzow were strong-armed righthanders last season in addition to fulfilling infield duties at first base, shortstop, and third base—coach Skay is sifting his squad thoroughly in an effort to find hurling prospects.

It's Okay

Harold Eide has placed his okay on the Twins' trade, which sent pitcher Pedro Ramos to Cleveland in return for first baseman Vic Power and relief pitcher Dick Stigman. The Twins will gain the services of the best-fielding first baseman in baseball—with the exception of the New York Mets' Gil Hodges—and in Stigman, a native of Nimrod, Minnesota, the club gains a potential starter. Ramos, of course, is a pitcher of big league caliber, and he will be of great value to Cleveland.

Now the question facing the Twins' management is where to play Harmon Killebrew. He is apparently set for left field, and in that case Jim Lemon, who has been a disappointment, will be expendable. Will have to ask Eide what the solution would be.

Fishing Curtailed in Lake Superior

Protection of Remaining Lake Trout Is Objective

The Minnesota conservation department has announced a new regulation drastically curtailing whitefish and lake trout fishing in Lake Superior, effective June 1.

The regulation applies to both commercial and sport fishing.

Wisconsin, Michigan and Ontario are enacting similar regulations in accordance with agreements made at a meeting in Milwaukee early in March.

Ravages of the sea lamprey have destroyed what was once a multi-million dollar annual lake trout harvest. The lamprey kills by attaching itself to the side of its victims and draining the blood and body juices.

Encouraging results from attempts to control this parasite have led fish researchers to the conclusion that if the remnant brood stock remaining in the lake can be preserved, there is a chance of rebuilding the lake trout population by artificial stocking and by protecting potential spawners.

Indications are that substantial progress has been made in the sea lamprey control program so that hatchery stocked lake trout are surviving in substantial numbers and are being taken in commercial nets before they have attained spawning size.

Plans Announced for Pipeline from N.D. to Clearbrook

350-mile Crude Oil Line Costing $20 Million to Be Built by Group of Firms

A $20 million, 350-mile crude-oil pipeline will be built from North Dakota's Williston Basin oil fields to Clearbrook, Minn., the Great Northern Railway announced Monday.

The 16-inch line, long hoped for as the key to North Dakota's oil marketing problems, will be built by Great Northern, Hunt Oil Co., Dallas, Tex., and several Midwest refiners, the announcement said.

Northwestern Refining Co., St. Paul Park, is one of those that will share in ownership of the line, Eugene Erickson, Northwestern vice president, said yesterday.

At Clearbrook the line will tie in with the Minnesota Pipeline, leading to the Twin Cities area, and the Lakehead Pipeline, carrying oil to Duluth-Superior and east to Michigan refineries, a Great Northern spokesman said.

Such a line would greatly improve the competitive position of North Dakota oil with that of crude from Canada by cutting shipping costs far below the 70 cents a barrel now charged for rail and truck transportation to the Twin Cities.

The line will be built by Portal Pipeline Co., which is being organized by Great Northern and Hunt Oil. Construction is expected to begin within 60 days and should be completed before next winter.

Muskrat Census Rises in Cass Co.

Dam Construction Boosts Count from 50 to 1,140

Department of conservation game managers have noted an important fringe benefit resulting from the construction of a dam in the Mud-Goose wildlife management area in Cass county.

Designed to stabilize water levels in order to make the area attractive to ducks and other waterfowl, the dam has also had the effect of encouraging a rapid build-up in the muskrat population.

At the time the dam was completed in 1958 there were 50 houses on the river. Soon the number had increased to 100, then to 358, then to 650, and finally in 1961 to 1,140 muskrat houses on the 3000 acre marsh formed by the dam.

Area game manager Clare Johnson estimated a population of at least 5,000 muskrats on the area. So abundant were the muskrats, that in addition to the regular trapping season, six local trappers were given permits to take muskrats during a special 11 day season ending Dec. 31.

Altogether 2,500 of the small furbearers were taken during the two seasons. Total value of the harvest was given as $1,333.

Regional Science Fair at Bemidji

N.W. Minnesota Event at State College April 14

Bemidji State college will be host to the Northwestern Minnesota regional high school science fair April 14, according to Dr. William G. Britton, professor of chemistry, chairman of the affair.

Dr. Britton expects hundreds of high school science students of this section of the state to be present at the fair which will feature exhibits constructed by the young scientists in high school classes.

These exhibits will be judged on the basis of their value to science and students with the top exhibits will enter them at the state high school science fair to be held at Winona State College later this spring.

A feature of this regional science fair at BSC will be tours through Sattgast Hall, the recently completed science building, where students will be shown the latest equipment for science instruction.

Dr. Harold Peters, chairman of the division of science and mathematics, will preside at a general meeting to start at 2 p. m. on the day of the fair. This meeting will feature an exhibition by Gene Anderson, BSC senior science major from East Grand Forks and the presentation of awards by Dr. Judson P. Martin, dean of instruction at BSC.

$15 worth of paints and primers are enough to beautify a car costing $2,800.

Turkey, Potatoes on April Array of Foods

April is a month of budding trees and new Easter bonnets, but it also ushers in an array of good foods, says Laura Duerst, Pennington county home agent.

Tukey leads the U. S. Department of Agriculture's parade of plentiful foods for April. Stocks are large in all weights whether you want a fryer-roaster for a small family or the traditional big bird for Easter entertaining. Turkey continues to be one of the best protein buys.

To figure the size bird you'll need allow one-half to three-fourths pound per serving for turkeys weighing 12 pounds or more; allow three-fourths to one pound per serving for lighter birds. And don't forget to plan on seconds.

The abundance of eggs means favorable prices to homemakers who are featuring eggs in Lenten meals in a variety of ways from salads to souffles. There will be plenty of eggs, too, for the youngsters for coloring for Easter and for traditional Easter egg hunts.

Potatoes will continue to provide flavorful eating at low prices. Please the family with stuffed, baked potatoes, glamorized with different flavor accents, Miss Duerst suggests, or surprise the family with a meal of potato pancakes.

Plenty of canned freestone peaches will be available in April for desserts, baked good and salads. Honey remains in good supply for delicious eating on waffles, hot biscuits and pancakes.

Since production of milk and dairy products will be nearing a seasonal peak you can enjoy the abundance of rich cheeses, sour cream, ice cream, milk and butter in many ways. Vegetable fats and oils are also plentiful for cooking and baking.

2 New Varieties of Flax Released

Limited Quantities Are Available This Season

The release of two new flax varieties, Marine-62 (C. I. 1661) and Windom (C. I. 1823), was announced Monday by W. M. Myers, head of the department of agronomy and plant genetics at the University of Minnesota.

The new varieties were developed by the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Marine-62 flax has been so named because it is a derivative of the Marine variety. Windom was named in recognition of the importance of the town of Windom, Minnesota, as a flax growing center.

Verne E. Comstock and Harlan Ford, USDA agronomists located on the St. Paul Campus of the University of Minnesota, describe the two new varieties as follows:

Marine-62 is a blue-flowered variety with small brown seeds. Averages of 128 trials in the North Central Region show the new variety to have an advantage in yield of 0.3 bushels per acre over Marine. Ninety-four comparisons have shown Marine-62 to be 0.6 per cent higher in oil content and 0.9 points lower in iodine value than Marine.

Marine-62 is similar to Marine in that it is early in maturity and thus produces relatively better yields than other varieties when sown late.

Windom produces brown seeds, and the flowers are the same shade of blue as the Redwood variety of flax. It has a high yield potential whether sown early or late. Windom's oil content is less than that of other recommended varieties, but its oil quality is excellent.

According to Carl Borgeson, University seed specialist, the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station plans a limited distribution of foundation seed of both varieties to registered growers.

"Excellence is not a single act, but a habit. The good of man is a working of the soul in the way of excellence in a complete life; for as it is not one fine day that makes a spring, so it is not one day or a short time that makes a man blessed and happy."

—Aristotle.

The Court Has Ruled

The Supreme Court has ruled that federal courts must consider legal challenges by city voters who claim that representation in their state legislatures is unfairly weighted in favor of rural voters. Announcement of this ruling was hailed as a great victory for the urban centers by most of the metropolitan press.

"This new concept of federal court authority no doubt will result in some basic changes in state and local government. The metropolitan areas will have the prevailing voice and the power of the outstate areas will diminish. Unless we adopt a new plan of apportionment by constitutional amendment, and give to the outstate areas the control of one house of the legislature, we will have a situation here in Minnesota that will be more unfair than at present.

Intelligent people of the state, both in the metropolitan and outstate areas, have admitted the inequalities of the present practices. The effort that was made to amend the Constitution in the last election failed because of the opposition of those who were not primarily interested in establishing equality but who wanted the inequalities reversed. They wanted the state to be controlled by the big cities, and that is the direction in which we are now heading.

It is in the big cities that politics is well organized. It is in the big cities that you have political bosses and corrupt political machines.

Upper New York State has maintained a pretty fair balance in the New York legislature. Now the state will be taken over by the city bosses. Eventually that condition will prevail here in Minnesota and in most other states.

Here in Minnesota we have another nine years before legislative apportionment will be a problem again. In the meantime a statewide effort should be made to secure support for a plan to select the members of our legislature as we select the members of Congress. Each state, no matter how small or how large, has two U. S. Senators, and the large states will never gain control of that body. But the House seats are apportioned according to population, and Minnesota has lost two members by this arrangement. Conceivably there will come a time when a small number of states will control the House.

The system that we use nationally has worked well and we should adopt it here in Minnesota.

Progress in South America

President Nkrumah of Ghana is in favor of large scale operations in his country by foreign interests, but he recently declared that all such enterprises will be required to invest 60 per cent of their net profits in Ghana. He also indicated that Ghana would also reserve the right to "buy" such enterprises.

President Goulart of Brazil visited Washington this week and one of the important conference subjects no doubt was the seizure of foreign owned properties in his country. Some time ago the governor of a Brazilian state seized the property of the American-controlled International Telephone & Telegraph Co. Last week the Canadian-owned Rio de Janiero telephone system was expropriated.

Americans have lost many million of dollars worth of property in Cuba. The United Fruit Company is trying to sell its extensive holdings in Central America because of the fear of seizure.

These backward countries are not creating a climate that is condusive to foreign investments, either public or private. Private capital will make its own decisions as to where it will invest but there is no justification for our government putting our dollars into areas that are not attractive to private capital. Basic in the Alliance for Progress program is development by both private and public operations.

President Goulart's visit provides an excellent opportunity for President Kennedy to inform our South American neighbors that until reasonable protection can be assured for private industry in the industrial development of their countries, our government does not feel justified in investing the dollars of the American taxpayers.

Peace in Algiers

The people of France will vote to accept the peace with Algiers that President de Gaulle has recommended, it is generally agreed. The President is asking the nation's approval of the cease-fire and also full decree powers to regulate future relations between France and Algeria. There is no party opposition to his proposals. The election will be held April 8.

For the Moslems of Algeria the fighting has ended and they feel assured that their war has been won. Not so however with the terrorist secret army organization that seeks control of Algiers by its French citizens. They are still sniping, killing French soldiers and Moslems as well. The Moslem reaction is interesting. As pointed out by the Winnipeg Tribune:

> "The Moslem population has refused to be stampeded into wholesale acts of revenge.
> "For this discipline, the FLN deserves full credit. It has demonstrated more than any other single thing the competence of the men who have been struggling for years against French rule. Now that they have made an honorable settlement they have demonstrated clearly that they do have in fact the capacity to rule themselves.
> "When Moslem men, women and children are being shot down in cold blood by European terrorists it must be difficult indeed to restrain the hotheads who would retaliate.
> "It is to be hoped that the French Army will succeed in stamping out the OAS before the control of the Moslem population breaks. Should this be done, it is likely that the future of Algeria will be in safe hands and the Moslem cause in the court of world opinion will be immensely strengthened."

Franklin's $5,000 Bequest

Ben Franklin, in his will, set aside $5,000 to be used to make loans to "young, married artificers. A skilled mechanic himself, he had a common interest with other craftsmen.

After 171 years of good management, the trustees have built this bequest up by interest and investment to the sum of $1,735,549, and this money is still being used for the general purpose Franklin had in mind.

The trustees of this fund recently asked the permission of the courts to make the money available for medical students, and permission was granted, recognizing doctors as skilled workers. We are sure Ben would go along with that decision.

Senator Humphrey has accused the defense department of wasting two billion dollars a year. We are glad to know that the Senator is now against the wasteful spending of government funds. But why this sudden interest in economy? We hope he has really changed. Take Senator Humphrey away from the spenders and our country would reduce the national debt in a hurry.

On the brighter side, we are pleased to report that the public is losing interest in fallout shelters, and some shelter-building firms have gone out of business. Wonder what the worriers are worrying about now.

Better turkey prices are predicted for this year, based on the substantial decrease in production. It is estimated that poults hatched the first three months are about 35 per cent less than the number hatched last year. All of which is good news for our area.

Asking For Labor Control

(Hoard's Dairyman)

Until recently, union electricians in New York City had a labor contract providing for a 6-hour day at $4.40 an hour and a guaranteed seventh hour at time and a half. Dissatisfied with the old contract, the union went out on strike, demanding a 20-hour week. They eventually settled for a 25-hour week at $5 per hour with a guaranteed sixth hour of overtime daily at time and a half.

This gross abuse of union bargaining power was achieved by only a 9-day walkout.

Opportunity in this democracy carries with it heavy responsibilities. The electricians have so abused their opportunity and so neglected their responsibility that the whole nation will eventually cry out for restraints and controls on such groups. This can lead to government interference and eventual control of labor-industry wage questions.

Here is a sad and sorry chapter in the history of a free people. We have only what we produce. Wage increases beyond productivity increases lead only to the eroding of our saving, a cheapening of the dollar, and the export of jobs to other nations.

It's about time the American labor movement began growing out of its adolescence. The labor movement in other lands has matured much more rapidly than here. As a result, they are interested in employment and productivity. They are taking jobs away from American labor in the world markets.

These wage chickens will come home to roost and they will be awfully thin birds.

By Small Doses

(Clara City Herald)

Some 2,000 years ago, it was Plutarch who warned: "The real destroyer of the liberties of the people is he who spreads among them bounties, donations, and benefits." And it was an old French peasant who made the following sad observation after the collapse of France in World War II, burdened with social subsidies: "My country fell because we had come to consider France as a cow to be milked and not a watchdog to be fed." But it was Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the U.S.S.R. who predicted, shortly before his 1960 visit to the United States of America: "We cannot expect the Americans to jump from capitalism to communism, but we can assist their elected leaders in giving Americans small doses of socialism, until they suddenly awake to find they have Communism."

Regional Conference on Rural Life Set for Crookston April 11th

The Governor's conference on agriculture and country life, which was re-scheduled for April 11 at the Northwest School and Experiment Station, Crookston, is ready for the new date, according to B. E. Youngquist, superintendent of the Northwest School and Experiment Station, acting for the committee in charge.

Chairmen and secretaries for the Workshop groups are reminded to meet at 9:30 a. m. sharp in the dining hall of the Northwest School for a briefing session.

At 10 a. m., in Kiehle auditorium, the official session will get under way with Governor Elmer L. Andersen as the speaker. He will be followed by T. H. Fenske of the University of Minnesota, a member of the Governor's executive committee on agriculture. After this opening session, the workshop groups will be organized.

The conference will break up for an early noon lunch and thence go on to the individual workshops. About mid-afternoon, all persons in attendance will meet as one group to hear the reports on the workshop activity. The conference will close at approximately 4 p. m.

Purpose of the conference, according to Governor Andersen, is "to explore ways of improving Minnesota's agriculture, promote our state's crops, develop new markets and take the steps necessary to improve rural life."

U.S. American Legion Plans Unity Program

National Commander Charles L. Bacon of the American Legion has announced an unusual project which is to be carried out by American Legion Posts throughout the nation on April 19. The plan calls for the ringing of community bells of all kinds for a period of four minutes beginning at 12:00 o'clock CST that Wednesday noon, as an expression of American unity.

The timing of the program commemorates the 187th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord. Commander Bacon has said, "This is not a new call to arms, but a massive, voluntary demonstration that America is already armed — armed in unity, in spirit, and in deep moral conviction."

Admiral Arleigh Burke, USN (ret) is the national chairman of the event. Many other prominent Americans have accepted appointment to the committee, including former Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and Herbert Hoover.

In addition to the national committee to provide leadership for the program, Commander Bacon has asked the commanders of the American Legion's nearly 17,000 to serve as his local representatives on the committee and to coordinate the project in their respective communities.

Meanwhile, Brigadier General Chester J. Moeglein, Minnesota ARNG, state adjutant general, thru an alert from the chief of the National Guard Bureau, has informed each commander of the Minnesota Army and Air National Guard about the project, and has requested them to furnish support as requested by the Legion's local post commanders. The occasion has special significance to the National Guard: "The Minutemen of Lexington and Concord," Moeglein said, "are considered to be the forefathers of the National Guard."

Legion post commanders are expected to solicit cooperation from their clergy, local service and patriotic organizations, and schools, as well as Guard units.

Tree Damage by Mice and Rabbits in Winter

Each year fruit and ornamental trees are damaged where they aren't protected with screen or hardware cloth. When the bark is completely removed all the way around the trunk, the part of the tree above the girdle will die. It is entirely possible for some trees that are completely girdled to leaf out and remain alive for one season, but both the top and root will die the second year unless sprouts are produced below the girdle.

Mice generally feed under the snow at the base of the trunk. If they haven't gnawed through the bark to the wood, the damaged portion may be protected from drying out by covering it with shellac, asphalt compound, or very heavy paper or burlap. Generally new bark will grow from the cambium. Mounding with soil will also offer good protection.

Rabbit damage is usually some distance above the ground or snow line. Rabbits cut off twigs and pull off bark in shreds. As long as the trunk is not completely girdled, the tree will not die.

Where you find complete girdling, you can bridge graft. Small trees under 2 inches in diameter are too small to repair by bridging, however, strong winds can easily dislodge the cions. It's best to saw off the tree just below the girdle before top growth starts in the spring. Wash or mound the stump to prevent excessive drying. Shoots of the same variety will probably grow out from the trunk above the ground or above the place where the tree had been grafted originally.

Bridge grafting of larger trees may be done from April 25 to May 15 when the bark will lift readily from the wood. Extension Bulletin 273, "Grafting Fruit Trees," explains how this is done. Copies are available from your county agricultural agent's office.

Two New Stamps To Be Issued by Postal Department

Two new commemorative postage stamps of the four-cent variety have been announced by the U. S. Postal Department. They are being issued in recognition of the 150th anniversary of Louisiana statehood and the Seattle World's Fair.

The Worlds Fair stamp features the "Space Needle" towering 550 feet above the ground and the moon rail system which will transport visitors from downtown Seattle to the fairgrounds. First day covers may be received by writing to the Postmaster, Seattle 1, Wash., and marking envelopes "First-day Covers 4 cents Seattle World's Fair Stamp." The stamp will be available at post offices April 26.

The Louisiana statehood stamp will be available at post offices May 1 and requests for first-day covers should be postmarked not later than April 25, 1962. Requests should be marked "First Day Covers 4 cents Louisiana Statehood Stamp" and sent to the Postmaster, New Orleans 12, La.

Insurance Institute Explains Car Policies

(Third in a series supplied by the Insurance Information Institute).

Responsible motorists are careful to carry automobile insurance on their cars—especially liability coverage—but it is a safe bet that many do not completely understand the protection they have.

A complete automobile policy consists of four parts: Liability coverage, comprehensive insurance, collision, and protection against uninsured motorists. Some insureds purchase only the liability insurance, others buy various combinations of the basic coverages.

Basically, liability insurance protects you when you have an accident and you are at fault. If there is some question about your liability, the insurance company will defend you in court and take care of any judgment, up to the limit set by the policy.

Generally, the more negligent a driver is held to be, the higher the claim against him will be. Judgements running into the tens of thousands of dollars are not uncommon.

This coverage also extends to other members of the family when they drive the car and any outsiders who use the car with the insured's permission. And the insured and his family are covered when they borrow another car with the owner's approval.

There are three parts to liability coverage. Bodily injury liability protects you against claims arising from injury or death to persons. Property damage liability takes care of damage to other people's property.

The medical payments provision covers anyone who is injured while entering, riding in or leaving your car. This pays the medical bills, up to the limit set in the policy, regardless of who is responsible for the accident.

Actually, medical payments coverage is not liability, since the insurance company makes payment even when the insured was not at fault in the accident.

The liability portion of a policy is usually referred to as a "10-20 and 5, or 25-50 and 5 policy" etc. This means that the company, in the first instance, will pay up to $10,000 for injury to any one person and not more than $20,000 for all injuries for all injured persons in any one accident. The third figure, which in this case is $5,000, is the maximum the company will pay for property damage from one accident.

Coverages are available up to $100,000-300,000.

Comprehensive physical damage coverage pays for loss caused by fire, lightning, flood, windstorm, glass breakage, falling objects, vandalism or malicious mischief. It also covers loss caused by theft.

Collison insurance pays for damage to your car even if the accident is your fault. Most insurance of this type is written as "deductible," whereby the insured pays for damages up to a certain amount, usually $50 or $100, and the company pays the rest.

An increasingly popular type of coverage is that of "uninsured motorist" insurance. If you are in an accident caused by someone else, but who does not carry liability insurance, you can collect for personal injury damages from your own company. It also protects you against collision with hit-and-run dirvers and drivers of stolen cars. The cost of this insurance is small.

In comprehensive and collision insurance, no amount of coverage is normally specified. The policy is instead written for "A. C. V.," meaning that the company pays the Actual Cash Value of the car at the time of a "total" loss, or whatever amount necessary to repair the car.

Insurance companies are as concerned as drivers are about the rising costs of automobile insurance. However, insurance premium rates are based on claim costs resulting from traffic accidents. The three things are causing rates to go up: The increasing number of accidents, the tendency of many court cases to result in very liberal jury awards and the higher cost of repairing the modern automobile.

Insurance spokesmen urge that the public keep two thoughts in mind that will help keep rates down:

1. Obey traffic laws and use courtesy in driving.

2. Take a realistic attitude when part of a jury, being fair, but not encouraging excessive awards.

Caution Urged on Drivers as Spring Brings out Kiddies

Chief Cummings Asks Care to Avoid Children on Bikes or Playing in the Street

"Be on guard, motorists! April weather will bring the children out of their homes and onto sidewalks and playgrounds to run, skip and play, and try out bicycles, wagons and other toys."

So warned Chief of Police Elton Cummings as he urged residents to support the child and bicycle safety theme of the Minnesota Blue print for Safety program for the month of April.

"Children have been cooped up all winter and need the fresh air and exercise and we can't want any unwary driver to be the cause of the crippling or killing of one of our local youngsters. Take it easy and use extra caution when near playgrounds and in residential areas where children can be expected to be playing," Chief Cummings said.

"It's important that all of us, whether we are drivers or not, to make a special effort to contribute toward the safety of our children. As parents we can teach them safety rules, and we also can set a good example for them to follow.

"Motorists must go out of their way to make certain that they won't endanger young walkers or bicyclists in any manner or form. Right of way rules can be relinquished by a driver if it will prevent injury to a child," he said. "After all. . .they love life, too."

Fire Warning Issued by Safety Specialist

Defective, inadequate or misused electrical equipment and wiring were the major causes of fires in Minnesota farms and homes last year, according to Glenn Prickett, extension safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

Young people — especially 4-H club members enrolled in the electric project — can do much to make their homes and farms safer by following the suggestions Prickett offers.

Check the fuses in your electrical system; they are the safety valves against fire. Using heavier fuses than are recommended or coins or metal washers can cause fires. To change a fuse, locate and disconnect the lamp or appliance responsible for blowing the fuse.

If you are uncertain which item caused the blowout, disconnect the one you think is defective or the one taking the most electricity, such as an iron, television set or power drill. If your basement floor is damp, for your own safety, stand on a dry board as you remove the blown fuse and replace it.

Fuses blow when there is too much electrical equipment on one circuit. Some examples of inadequate wiring are too few switches where you need them, octopus outlets and too many extension cords in a room. Symptoms are dimming lights or a television picture that dims or flickers when a large appliance is turned on. Another sign of poor wiring is a toaster, iron or other heating appliances that warm up slowly.

Portable electrical tools should be grounded. Be sure that each hand tool has a plug with three prongs that fits into a three-way receptacle which is connected to the grounded entrance switch. Without such a ground, if the motor develops a short circuit, you may receive a severe shock which could result in death.

An adequate electrical wiring system will help prevent serious accidents and injury. After checking your circuits a competant electrician can tell you if additional circuits are needed.

MAN IN SPACE

Countdown time . . . 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, ZERO. America's heart skipped a beat. We held our breath through hours of suspense. And finally, the rescue. Mission accomplished.

Immediate reaction: "Thank God!" This was the cry of America, the mighty prayer which rose from its heart in a spontaneous flash of gratitude. THANK GOD.

It was pride we felt, pride in our skill and our scientific knowledge. But there was something more. There was FAITH. When man travels into the unknown, he needs the hand of God.

* * * * *

A new age has begun for mankind. Many more great days of exploration are ahead. Man will need the best products of mind and hand to conquer space.

But through every accomplishment, he will continue to need faith. Always from his heart will rise a fervent prayer, knowing that Divine help must be with him.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"What is Lutheran Brotherhood anyway?"

Glad you asked...

Here's how we started. First incorporated as The Luther Union, our fraternal life insurance society was formed by nine distinguished Lutherans during a 1917 Church convention in St. Paul. After borrowing $6,000 to cover the expenses of obtaining applications, the society issued its first life insurance policies in 1918. Here's what we do. We offer a variety of life insurance and retirement plans to all Lutherans. (Purchase of a policy automatically qualifies you as a member of Lutheran Brotherhood.) We also aid the Lutheran Church through a benevolence and fraternal activities program for which $656,138 was allocated last year. Here's how we're growing. With about 1½ billion dollars of insurance in force, Lutheran Brotherhood now stands in the top 8% of all organizations operating in the life insurance field. Surplus, investment earnings and benefits paid to Society members have also risen phenomenally during the past few years. Our assets now total about 210 million dollars. Here's how the future looks. Although Lutheran Brotherhood's gains in all phases of its operation have been sizeable, the management and directors predict even greater growth. More and more Lutherans are realizing that Lutheran Brotherhood offers both low-cost security and a sound investment opportunity.

7th Dist. GOP Parley Draws 300 Delegates

Rep. Odin Langen, Governor Andersen Address Convention

Rep. Odin Langen said in Detroit Lakes Saturday that the Kennedy administration has gotten the country moving, "but in the wrong direction."

Langen spoke to some 300 delegates and alternates at the 7th Congressional District GOP convention in Detroit Lakes high school.

Representing Pennington county were Mrs. Yvonne Bredeson, county chairwoman; Peter Probasco, and Dr. David M. Brown, Goodridge.

Langen criticized the administration for "continued attempts to transfer powers to the executive branch," which in many cases "would leave Congress with nothing but a veto power."

Republicans have "a great opportunity to serve the people" this year by sweeping the elections and going on to reduce "reckless" federal spending and "the gradual erosion" of constitutional freedom, he said.

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen advised delegates that "dedicated organization" is needed to win the election. He also urged increased research into new uses for western Minnesota products, particularly potatoes and lumber.

Delegates passed resolutions favoring elimination of the state personal property tax for a sales tax; the taconite amendment; deduction of college bills from the federal income tax (a Langen bill), and a study of advanced educational facilities in northwestern Minnesota.

Andersen, Langen, State Auditor Stafford King and State Treasurer Val Bjornson were endorsed for re-election.

Middle River Girl Given UND Grant to Study Abroad

Six University of North Dakota students have received John G. Anderson grants for foreign language study this summer, according to Dr. James W. Glennen, associate professor of French and secretary of the Arneberg committee. Three of the grants are for study abroad and three are for study in the U. S. or Canada.

Receiving $1,000 each for study abroad were JoAnn Prouty, Bismarck; Keith Kimball, Bismarck and Rena Griffin, Middle River. Miss Griffin has a double major in Norwegian and occupational therapy.

Receiving $500 each for study in this country or Canada were Bonnie Schroeder, Parshall, N. D.; Phyllis Przbylski, Argyle; and Priscilla Schmidt, Huron, S. D. All three of these had earlier been awarded Arneberg cash awards for language excellence.

Final decisions on where each student will study have not yet been made. Students going abroad will study in the country of their language major.

CHAMBER BOARD APPROVES NEW SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Approval and endorsement of the bond issue for construction of a junior high school and elementary school in Thief River Falls was given unanimously when the board of directors of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce met Thursday noon. President J. B. Holter presided at the meeting.

C. L. Charlson presented the motion for approval of the project as a recommendation from the education committee headed by Dr. A. E. Jacobson. The motion called for "approving and endorsing the bond issue and building programs as recommended by the school board.

It had earlier been anticipated that a general membership meeting would be called to hear more about the program and take action at that time. At Thursday's meeting, however, the board determined that such a meeting would be unnecessary and a vote by show of hands indicated unanimous approval of the project by the board.

National Guard Inspection Held In TRF Thursday

Local Unit Has Annual Review by Inspector; More Guardsmen Needed

All phases of the National Guard unit in Thief River Falls were inspected by Fifth Army personnel at the annual federal "I. G." inspection held Wednesday at the armory in this city. Major Alan G. Cornett headed the investigating officers who included Major Jack Hunt, staff Hunt, staff assistant, and Major Kenneth Savacool, army advisor.

Numerical and verbal rating will be forthcoming from army headquarters. Action followed a presentation of the situation by Supt. M. R. Handerson.

"WHEREAS the educational facilities in Thief River Falls are currently crowded because of lack of adequate classroom space, and

"WHEREAS the board of education has deemed it advisable to construct a new junior high school and elementary school to remedy this situation, and

"WHEREAS the education of youth in the Thief River Falls community should receive primary consideration by all the residents, and

"WHEREAS we, as young men of the community, realize that a major portion of the cost of such construction will fall upon our shoulders, and

"WHEREAS a general election will be held in School District 564 on Monday, April 23, seeking approval of a $1,595,000 bond issue to finance construction of the new schools and improvement of facilities, now therefore

Anti-Wetlands Group Reelects Directors

Gunsten Skomedal of rural Thief River Falls and Neil Morrissey of Gatzke were reelected to three year terms on the board of directors when the Anti-Wetlands Improvement association met Saturday afternoon at the Grygla school gymnasium. The board will reorganize at its next meeting April 13 at the Art Norby farm east of Grygla.

Speakers on the afternoon program were state senators Donald Sinclair of Stephen and Roy Wiseth of Goodridge and state representatives Richard Fitzsimons of Argyle and Leonard Dickenson of Bemidji. All commented on the work of the association in the past and urged continuance of the organization in the future.

It was noted by the speakers at the meeting that many sportsmen's clubs would work with the anti-wetlands group if they were properly informed of the problems involved. Legislation enacted during the past several years which was considered of advantage to the association and state of Minnesota was also reviewed.

Mention was also made of numerous conferences held by the legislators with the state conservation department in regard to wetland acquisition. The legislators stated they would continue to lend their assistance in future negotiations.

Adopt Resolutions

Three resolutions were adopted by the approximately 100 persons in attendance without a dissenting vote being cast. The first requested the removal of beaver from drainage ditches and the second asked the state legislature to leave authority with the county board to decide if any wetland projects should be established in a county.

The third resolution, considered by the group to be a retaliation

African Articles Featured During Library Week Here

Ellertson Collection on Display at Carnegie Public Library in TRF

National Library Week is being marked at Carnegie Public Library in Thief River Falls this week by an exhibit of wood carvings and handwork done by the Zulu tribe from South Africa. The pieces shown are part of a collection sent to the Trinity Lutheran church by Carroll Ellerton, the missionary it supports in the African field.

The carvings are excellent examples of the natives' ability to portray the essential character of familiar animals in a stylized manner. The Zulus are one of the many tribes of the powerful Bantu people who resisted the northward push of the Dutch settlers in Africa early in the last century.

They live in the southeast coastal area of the continent surrounding South Africa's second largest port of Durban. They are primarily an agricultural people. Their chief crop is corn grown on the rolling semi-arid hills and their herds of cattle are their most prized possessions. They are an intelligent, handsome people, with a rich tradition of primitive culture which includes not only sculpture and music but legend as well. The carvings in the exhibit illustrate their technique of stark stylization, and a polished craftmanship as well.

This exhibit is especially appropriate with Africa holding the spotlight in world politics. Since the

by Eleanor Olson

My next door neighbor is in the throes of spring house cleaning and has been for the last two weeks. Happily my own winter inertia is holding, because once the fever strikes there is no abatement until it has run its course.

One project leads to another. Cleaning closets makes more storage room seem very necessary, the new coat of paint makes the curtains look faded, and the davenport needs a new slipcover after the wear and tear of the children playing inside most of the winter.

But if your budget book looks like mine and the money is not easy to find for the additions and changes that seem necessary, you are as glad as I am to be able to list the technical shelves at the Library as a valuable resource. Being able to make draperies, curtains and slipcovers yourself more than doubles the buying power of the money you have available. Proper guidance can mean the difference between success and a fiasco.

Looking through the shelves, I was pleased to find several books which would be invaluable to a novice who wanted to tackle slipcovering for the first time. While a few of the books seem relatively old and some of the fabrics used in the illustrations are now outdated and unattractive to us in 1962, the basic techniques involved are as sound and unchanged as the day the books came off the press.

"Practical Slipcover Making" by John W. Stephenson explains procedures step by step and estimates needed fabric yardages for nearly every conceivable type of chair or davenport, a big help to a beginner. "Easy-to-Make Slipcovers" by Herbert Bast expands still further on the problem of estimating yardage, and goes on to illustrate how to lay out pieces on the fabric to increase your cutting advantage. He also includes an excellent short chapter on selecting fabrics. This too is helpful to a beginner.

My own experience has been that a full-bodied drapery sailcloth makes the most successful slipcover in the hands of an amateur. It is not too heavy for the average home sewing machine to handle, it stretches or shrinks very little and seldom requires constant adjusting to make it look neat. However you get just about what you pay for. Other lighter weight fabrics can prove moderately successful as well.

Recently I slipcovered two chairs in a denim weight fabric, and while they require much more straightening and wrinkle more, I have the coordinating color effect the room needed badly for less than ten dollars. I am not disappointed because I didn't expect perfection from a compromise material.

The close-up photos in Herbert Bast's book are excellent helps in planning and fitting slipcovers. "Sewing for the Home" by Mary Brooks Pickens (1941) deals skillfully with the basic construction techniques of drapery and curtain making. How to measure your windows, how to form various types of pleats, how to install linings are thoroughly explained. Miss Pickens covers not only removable slipcovers, but those that are put on semi-permanently as well.

I personally don't recommend the latter since it is such a task to remove them for laundering. Still on certain types of chairs this is necessary. (The trick of laundering is to put the slipcover back on the piece of furniture when it is still slightly damp. By adjusting it carefully the only pressing necessary is on the flounce with just a bit of touching up here and there.) Miss Pickens also includes sections on dust ruffles and spreads in her book if renovating a bedroom is your immediate problem.

Butter Cookie Event Is Canceled for 1962

St. Paul city health officials, expressing concern over current cases of infectious hepatitis, asked the Minnesota dairy industry committee Thursday, April 5, to call off its 10th annual Northwest butter cookie contest.

MDIC Manager Lew Conlon cancelled the contest immediately. He asked homemakers planning to enter this year's contest to withhold their entries.

The contest was to have opened today. Cookies entered in the contest each year have been distributed to crippled children and shut-in patients at various institutions as an Easter treat.

"We deeply regret having to cancel the contest which has come to mean a great deal to a great number of persons over the years," Conlon said. "However, we will comply fully with the officials who are responsible for this request. We are sure they are acting in good faith and according to their best judgment in their roles as guardians of the public's health."

Conlon said he did not know why the request to cancel the contest wasn't made earlier. The contest was announced March 28. Conlon said he received the letter from the city's chief health officer, Dr. R. B. J. Schoch, Thursday morning.

"MDIC and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' & Managers' Association have sponsored this event nine times and it never was questioned prior to this time," Conlon said.

Thousands of homemakers have entered batches of their favorite butter cookies in the contest each year.

"We've had scores of letters and calls each year from homemakers who indicated they didn't care about the prizes as much as the opportunity to do something for the crippled children and other patients who received the cookies," Conlon said. "It would be both pointless and wasteful, of course, to hold the contest if we cannot distribute the cookies."

The letter, signed by Dr. Schoch and H. E. Erickson, chief of the dairy and food division for the city of St. Paul's department of public safety, said in part:

". . . We have been plagued by infectious hepatitis during the past two years. During the past six months, the health departments of the Twin Cities have been discouraging various 'pot luck' suppers and other mass feeding of food prepared in homes.

"We believe that you can understand should we have an outbreak of hepatitis or some other food-borne diseases in these hospitals, it would be most difficult to trace its origin; therefore, we feel from a public health point of view, it would not be desirable to conduct such a contest."

Patriots' Day Will Be Noted in U.S. April 19

The American Legion-sponsored dramatization of dynamic conviction in Americanism, the "Bells Across the Nation" program, is meeting enthusiastic nationwide acceptance, according to E. A. Blackmore, Indianapolis, Ind., national adjutant of the American Legion.

Blackmore announces that governors of three states have issued proclamations designating Patriot's Day, April 19, as "Bells Across the Nation Day." In other states, governors, National Guard, Adjutants General, and other public officials have notified the Legion that cooperation is forthcoming in the project.

Charles L. Bacon, Legion National Commander, earlier announced detailed plans for this inspiring program of bell ringing to proclaim the message of individual liberty, just as the famous Liberty Bell proclaimed freedom throughout the land on the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

Church bells, chimes, carillons, and school bells will ring out in unison for a period of four minutes beginning at 12:00 noon CST, on Thursday, April 19, the anniversary of the Battles of Lexington and Concord, as an expression of national unity and renewed faith in our Country.

In a letter to Adjutants General of all states, Major General D. W. McGowan, Chief, National Guard Bureau, Washington, D. C., has stated, "Inasmuch as Patriot's Day is a tribute to the Minutemen of Lexington and Concord the predecessors of today's National Guard—and as this program itself is a most worthwhile effort, I strongly urge all states to offer all possible assistance to The American Legion in this project."

As a result of the letter from the National Guard Bureau, Brigadier General Chester J. Moeglein, the Adjutant General, Minnesota ARNG, has offered cooperation from his office and has directed each commander of Minnesota Air and Army National Guard units to cooperate with and support local promotion of the patriotic observance when requested.

Jaycees Endorse School Bond Plan At Meet Thursday

orous remarks. "Since I last spoke to you on February 15, there have been 38 births at the local hospital—one more classroom." He noted that in the last 10 years there have been 700 more students added to the enrollment of local schools and that only a small portion of this number is a result of consolidation. The growth has been fairly steady at 75 to 135 students per year, he said.

"The problem is simple," the superintendent stated. "We have too many youngsters for the amount of space we have to put them in. I shouldn't have to be here selling this to you—you should be coming to me and saying, 'Hankerson, why don't you get busy and build that school?'."

The price of being "practical" was also stated in the talk. Since the school district is presently spending about $19,000 annually on rental space, construction of new buildings would eliminate about $15,000 of that cost per year. On the 28 years planned for bond retirement, $15,000 annually would amount to $420,000 toward new construction. If additional rental would be required during that time, which it assuredly would be, the figure would be much larger than that.

First Things First

"First things have to come first. The bond repayment the first year would be about $117,000. How much will that cost us? With 2,700 students in the school system and a 180-day year, that amounts to about 25 cents per student per day. Most kids have that much to spend for candy when they have to go uptown during noon hour. We don't have room to keep them in the school where they should be," Hankerson said.

African Display at Library for Library Week

early 1930's when the first Africans went abroad for higher education, the native populations have pushed rapidly forward to throw off the domination of colonial rule which has guided their every activity in the last two centuries. As the two leading ideologies of the world maneuver to bring these emerging nations into their spheres of influence, this exhibit provides an opportunity to see examples of the primitive cultures which will influence all our lives in the second half of this century.

Coordinated with this exhibit will be many of the library's new books on contemporary Africa and the history of events that shaped the "dark continent" and which are affecting our more civilized world today. Among these are "Stanley's Way" by Thomas Sterling, "The Heart of the Hunter" by Laurens van der Post, "The New Face of Africa" by John Hughes, "Africa, Angry Young Giant" by Smith Hepstone, "The New Leaders of Africa" by Rolf Italiaander and "The White Nile" by Alan Moorehead. Also among the recommended books are several stirring novels with Africa as a background.

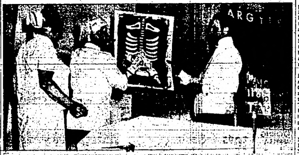
CUT-UPS is what these members of the Newfolden Lions club were Saturday night at the Lions Love Laughter night held in the Newfolden school auditorium. Sawing the defenseless woman in half is Hypo the Magician (Edsel Bernstrom) as he is assisted by (left to right) Stu Sethre, Milford Rokke and Sheldon Elseth.



"DR. BEN CASEY" checks an x-ray before beginning surgery on an unknown patient at the Lions Love Laughter night at Newfolden Saturday. The skit was presented by the Argyle Lions club in order to regain its gong and gavel which mysteriously disappeared after a visit from the Newfolden club earlier this year. After an assortment of nuts, bolts and fish was removed from the anonymous patient, a silver spoon was extracted and the patient was thereby assumed to be Alton Carlson, Newfolden banker.

Newfolden Lions Fill Auditorium at Laughter Night

Nearly 550 Attend 3rd Annual Show; Argyle Lions Give Guest Skit

Nearly 550 persons jammed the Newfolden high school auditorium Saturday evening for the third annual Lions Love Laughter night presented by the Newfolden Lions club. "The Worst TV Shows of the Week" was the theme for the variety show which included sidesplitting satire on currently popular television productions.

One of the highlights of the production was the "Dr. Ben Casey" act presented by a guest cast from the Argyle Lions club. The Argyle group presented the skit to regain its gong and gavel which had mysteriously disappeared earlier this year following a visit by members of the Newfolden club.

John P. Halvorson, superintendent of the Newfolden school and president of the Newfolden Lions, portrayed Ed Solomon as master of ceremonies. The portly Halvorson noted that he had been selected for the position because he was the only member of the club large enough to cover the crack in the curtain made necessary to allow stage hands to set the stage without being in full view of the audience.

Opening and closing the show was a "Sing Along with Smitch Miller" presentation led by Dennes Borman with the enti cast acting as a chorus. Several numbers were also played by the "Fife, Jug and Bottle Band" which included Borman, Curtis Tonneson, Lester Elseth, Sheldon Elseth, Ed Mounger and Halvorson.

Frank Kahoutek and his cigar box guitar rendered a pantomime number and the Argyle Lions club unveiled their "Dr. Casey" skit. Un unknown patient was the subject of an operation which included removal of an assortment of bolts, nuts and a fish from his stomach. The "Patient" was identified as Alton Carlson, Newfolden banker, when a silver spoon was finally extracted by the bogus Dr. Casey.

Edsel Bernstrom served as Hypo the Magician-and-was assisted by Ed Mounger and Milford Rokke as Miss Insomnia and Miss Anesthesia. Comprising the "Password" act were Wayne Ulferts, Orville Elseth Harvey Stokke, Ray Tunheim and Louis Sagstuen. Aso presented were a pair of short acts titled "The Fat Rifleman" and "Yours for a Song".

President Halvorson returned the gong and gavel to the Argyle club following the appearance of the "King of Diamonds," Frank Kahoutek presented a second pantomime and the show closed with Art Rud recalling "Those Wonderful Years" which highlighted events of the past in Newfolden.

Curtis Tonneson and Sheldon Elseth, who served as announcers, provided between-acts entertainment by presenting satirical commercials. They began with a plea for customers for the Newfolden Sanitation Department, the club's garbage collection service, and continued by ribbing local business places, both real and imaginary.

Stu Sethre, stage hand, appeared on camera more than any other character as he constantly rearranged the stage and took care of necessary clean-up jobs. Waldemar Eckhardt was in charge of ticket sales for the event.

A letter to the Times this morning from Tonneson, who served as publicity chairman for the event, thanked the persons who attended, Argyle, Thief River Falls and Goodridge clubs for assistance in their communities and news media for publicizing the event.

An Inch of Snow Again Blankets Area Landscape

Snow again blanketed the Times area landscape Sunday morning as a result of the heavy white flakes which fell to an accumulation of one inch late Saturday night and early Sunday morning. According to records maintained by North Central Airlines personnel, the inch of snow contained .22 inch of moisture.

Temperatures are expected to rise to 28 to 38 degrees today and clear most roads in the area which were made slippery by the slushy snowfall. Low temperatures will be 15 to 25 degrees tonight with possible snow and rain predicted again for tomorrow.

High and low temperatures the past several days included 49 and 31 Thursday, 47 and 20 Friday, 45 and 19 Saturday, 41 and 25 Sunday and a low temperature of 13 degrees was noted last night. Thursday's high of 49 degrees was the highest temperature of April and of this spring season.

National Library Week Is Observed Here April 8-14

"Read—and Watch Your World Grow" Is Theme for Annual Observance

Thief River Falls residents will join millions of their fellow Americans in well over 5,000 communities in all 50 states in observance of National Library Week April 8-14. This will be the fifth culminating observance of the year-round program, designed to encourage lifetime reading habits and create wider use and support of libraries of all kinds.

With the theme, "Read — And Watch Your World Grow!", Library Week provides special opportunities to emphasize the personal rewards in reading and increase interest in developing the reading resources that serve the community. In 1962, the program will continue to stress the need for more school libraries and will alert young people to the wide range of opportunities for careers in the library profession.

Impact of the national week in past years can be measured in impressive gains in reading of all kinds, in increased library circulation and registration figures and an upsurge of citizen support for expansion of library services. Many activities initiated through the impetus of Library Week have helped identify libraries as vital agencies of education and to link reading with lifetime learning.

Sixty national organizations actively participate in NLW, which is sponsored by the National Book Committee, Inc., a non-profit citizens' group, in cooperation with the American Library Association. The program for "a better-read, better-informed America" has also had the full cooperation of newspapers, magazines and the broadcasting industry.

Special assistance is given to NLW by the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the Magazine Publishers Association. The program is also approved as a public service by the Advertising Council.

Paul Hamilton Home Destroyed in Hurricane

One of the unfortunate families to be caught in the Florida hurricane Saturday, March 31, was that of Lt. and Mrs. Paul Hamilton and their two children of Milton, Fla. The family was in the kitchen having breakfast when it began to grow dark outside. Lt. Hamilton said they had better turn on the television to get the weather forecast, when the storm struck, lifting the roof off the kitchen.

The Hamiltons then protected themselves as best they could by staying close to one of the living room walls while they watched the rest of their home being completely destroyed. None of them was harmed during the disaster and they are already making plans to have their home rebuilt.

Lt. Hamilton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Hamilton and is an instructor in the Navy air force at Milton. Mrs. Hamilton, the former Lois Udstrand, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson of this city.

City Puts Water Turbines To Work

Both water turbines were put to work Saturday at the municipal power plant, Morris Owen, superintendent, reports. This is the first time since the spring of 1961 that there has been enough water to turn both of them. The flow was down slightly this morning because of the freeze but Owen is satisfied that both turbines will be in production for a long time.

4 Scholarships Open in College of Agriculture

According to County Agent Paul Steimaschuk the poultry department of the University of Minnesota has four scholarships available for freshmen entering the University next fall.

Each scholarship carries an award of $300, which is sufficient to cover tuition and fees for one year in the college of agriculture. In addition, part-time employment is usually available in the poultry department for students majoring in this field.

In selecting the scholarship winners, applicants will be judged on the basis of their high school scholastic records, vocational interest and leadership qualities. Interested graduating seniors should contact the county agent for further details.

The staff of the University's Poultry department emphasizes that there are many fine employment opportunities in the field of poultry and related areas. A number of these cannot be filled because qualified University graduates are unavailable.

Grand Forks Man Wins Bowling Singles Title

One hundred and fifty-six bowlers participated in the Family Bowl's singles and double handicap bowling tournament that was concluded here on Sunday night.

In the singles competition, Lynn Skyberg of Grand Forks, a slender hook-ball bowler, rolled into first place with an aggregate of 683 pins. Skyberg, bowling on the 4:00 together games of 157-237-212, and with a handicap of 77 pins, earned first place. Harold Johnson, also of Grand Forks, bowling on the 6:30 p. m. shift on Saturday, moved into the runner-up position with an aggregate of 670 pins. Johnson, carrying a handicap of 42 pins, rolled games of 198-244-186, for his second place 670-pin total. Andor Anderson of Kelliher, the leader after the first week-end of bowling, was dropped down into third place as a result of the scores posted by Skyberg and Johnson. Anderson had an aggregate of 664.

In the doubles competition, the 1261 score posted by Tom Hauglid and Ralph Vonasek of Hallock a week ago, held up under the bowling this past week-end. Joe Rerick and Harold Johnson, of Grand Forks, took over runner-up honors when they bowled a 1257-pin total on Saturday evening. Rerick, with a handicap of 42 pins, had games of 211-204-174, for a 631; while Johnson, also with a 42-pin handicap, scored games of 171-222-191, for a 626 total. The Fosston duo of Lyle Roue and Al Frethem earned third place with a 1253 total. Frethem, with a 60-pin handicap, scored games of 210-217-212, for a huge 699-pin total. Roue, carrying a 60-pin handicap, had scores of 172-182-140, for a 554-pin total.

Grand Forks' Harold Johnson took over first place in the all-events, having a 1296-pin total on his 626-pin score in the doubles and a 670-pin score in the singles. Al Frethem, whose 699-pin score psted in the doubles was the tournament's high total, added a 583-pin score in the single to compile a 1282. This total tied the score posted by Hallock's Ralph Vonasek a week ago, and earned Frethem a share in the runner-up prize.

Grygla Farmer Praises Value of Stockwater Pit

Basil Stavenes States Pit Saves Labor and Builds Milk Production

Testimony as to the value of stock water pits has been received by the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation district. Basil Stavenes, who farms in Beltrami county near Grygla, stated that "My stockwater pit saves me a lot of labor and increases milk production."

Until the summer of 1961, Stavenes did not have any water supply for his cattle in the pasture across the road from his farm, reports Robert Kloubec, work unit conservationist for the district. With a pit in his pasture, it is now just a matter of opening the gates twice a day for him to water his livestock.

In fact, Stavenes reports he is so pleased with the pit that he plans to construct another in a separate pasture in 1962. A total of 24 pits were constructed in the Marshall-Beltrami district in 1961, bringing the total in use to 34. Ten pits were dug when the program was started in 1960.

Kloubec reports that more than 24 pits will be constructed in the district during 1962, proving the acceptance with which the program has met since it began. Federal cost-sharing up to 80 per cent of the construction cost is available and details may be received by contacting the Soil Conservation Service.

Stavenes is a cooperator in the Marshall-Beltrami district. Technical assistance in laying out the pit was provided by Ralph E. Rundell and Gordon E. Jelle, soil conservation aids with the soil conservation service.

TRAPPING of beaver this spring has been successful for Dale Dunning, 210 St. Paul av. S., although the animal pictured above is the only one he has caught so far this season. The beaver tipped the scales at 72 pounds and measured about 44 inches from tip of nose to tip of tail. Dunning, who teaches social studies and geography at Lincoln Junior high school, gets a great deal of enjoyment from his trapline which he faithfully tends early each morning. He caught the above animal about 3½ miles north of town along the Thief River. Dunning says he caught the same animal a year ago in the same area since it left a toe in the trap and had one missing when caught again Thursday.

Foreign Students to Work in State

Forty Young People to Arrive During Spring

Forty students from foreign counties are beginning nine months of work in Minnesota this spring before enrolling as adult special students in the Technical Certificate Program of the University of Minnesota College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics.

The students will work on farms or in related occupations in the state until it is time to enroll for the winter quarter of 1963.

Three young men from Finland will work in florist and nursery establishments in the Twin Cities area. The rest of the students—25 men and one woman from West Germany, six men from Denmark, two men from The Netherlands and three men from Norway will be assigned to work on farms in Minnesota.

These students are in the United States on a State Department-approved program. The program is sponsored jointly by agricultural agencies in the respective countries and the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics at the University.

While these students are learning about farm life in the state and studying at the University of Minnesota, they are under the direction of Keith N. McFarland, director of resident instruction on the University's St. Paul Campus, and Ralph E. Miller, as associate professor on the St. Paul Campus, who is their adviser.

The students come to the campus for orientation before leaving for their spring and summer employment assignments.

Pennington DFL Plans Thursday for Conventions

Alfred M. Johnson was named chairman of the membership and finance committee and Mrs. Gladys Joringdal was named publicity chairman when the executive board of the Pennington county Democratic Farmer-Labor party met Thursday evening at the court house meeting room. Chairman Cy Carpenter presided at the meeting.

Plans were made for the district DFL convention to be held April 28 and 29 at Detroit Lakes and the state convention to be held May 27, 28 and 29 at Duluth. The legislative committee, headed by Carpenter, will continue in its present form until after the district convention.

Business and social problems of the city and county were discussed, including ways and means of qualifying the county for rural area development and talk on the school bond issue. Any person tswho wish to have items discussed at the next executive committee meeting are asked to call any of the board members. The next meeting will be held following the district convention.

RRV Farm Bureau to Study Support of Winter Shows

Farm Bureau officers of the Red River Valley area met April 4 in Erskine to consider long range support to the Red River Valley Winter Shows building program.

As a result of the meeting, plans were made for a committee to take under study proposals for Farm Bureau support and prepare recommendations for members of the Farm Bureau to consider at county meetings this fall.

B. E. Youngquist, president of the Winter Shows board of managers, outlined the needs of the building program.

100,000 square feet will be added to the present arena of 54,000 sq. feet and the livestock barn of 11,000 square feet. Mr. Youngquist urged that support must be broadened to include the majority of the farmers of the area who could organize their support to develop the needed capital over a five year period.

One plan suggested that Farm Bureau members invest $1.00 per year per member for the next five years.

Theodore Peet, Wolverton, Farm Bureau representative on the Winter Shows board of managers, presided at the meeting.

Social Security Man Here Tuesday

End of the Trail

The senior hockey Winnipeg Maroons came to the end of the trail in their quest of the Allan Cup on Wednesday night when, before a standing-room-only crowd of 9,200 fans, they dropped a 6-3 decision to the Saskatoon Quakers. The win, which was the fourth as against two losses for Saskatoon, gave the Quakers the best-of-seven series. The Saskatoon squad will now enter the western Canada senior finals against the Trail Smokeaters.

The Maroons, who had been rated as a favorite to win Canada's senior hockey title, will have to try again next year. But in next season's play they will be without the services of veteran Bill Juzda. Following Wednesday night's game Juzda announced that he was "calling it a day".

The veteran defenseman (who was perhaps the top "name" player to perform in the States-Dominion league when he played with the Thieves) has put in twenty-four years of hockey, and he is nearing his forty-second birthday.

Bill was a rookie of eighteen when he first moved up into the professional ranks. He played with the Toronto Mapleleafs and the New York Rangers during his National hockey league career, and was rated as one of the league's sturdiest body-checkers. Juzda's professional career was interrupted by four years of service with the RCAF.

And speaking of Saskatoon, that's the home town of former Prowler Eddie Lietzow. Eddie lived there until the 1940's, when the Lietzows moved here. And he has a number of relatives in the Quaker city. In fact one of Eddie's cousins, Don Campbell, is a member of the Saskatoon club, being the team's number one goalie. Campbell did not see action in the series against Winnipeg as he was sidelined by an ankle injury.

Thanks to Gordon and Ray

Nicky Carlson, as spokesman for the members of the Sportsman's Store golf squad, wishes to take this opportunity to thank Gordon and Ray Johnson for the golf shirts the squad hopes to get this season.

There has been a rumor given circulation that Gordon was planning on giving Nicky, and Bob, and Gene some cast-off softball shirts. The boys are deserving of a set of golf shirts, nothing fancy, but something a cut above a sweat shirt, and with adequate identification.

A Hue and Cry

Following the brutal beating administered to Benny (Kid) Paret by Emile Griffith in the televised welterweight championship match the other week, and the subsequent death of Paret, there has been considerable criticism voiced against the lack of supervision of the sport of boxing. And this criticism is merited.

The apologists for boxing state that there are fewer fatalities in this sport than in a number of other sports, such as football, etc. This statement is undoubtedly true, but injury in any other form of athletics is accidental.

Fist-fighting is the only sport where the object is to knock an opponent senseless. Boxing has endured through these many years because of its appeal to man's basest instincts. And it is perhaps too tough ever to be abolished, for it has been outlawed a number of times but it continues to survive.

But what made the Paret vs. Griffith bout so pointedly brutal was that it was televised into countless of homes. And there must have been thousands of impressionable youngsters who watched the final barrage of blows hammered into a helpless Paret. These youngsters will long remember this fatal bout, like a horror movie. Is it worth the while to send such bouts into the homes of American citizens?

TRF Trap Club to Expand Club House

Votes Enlargement of Building Thursday Night

Directors of the Thief River Falls Trap Club decided Thursday night to enlarge the club house immediately and hope to have it ready for the opening of the season in May. A plan submitted by Stanley Ranum, which will double the size of the present facilities, was approved.

All of the added space will be in the form of a porch which will be enclosed by screen and glass. The present portion will be rearranged for office, storage and lunch counter needs.

The annual banquet for league members will be held Thursday evening, April 26 and Tony Dorn was named chairman of the banquet committee.

The meeting was held at the Wilson Bros. plant, Stan Wilson, president, presiding.

The first mechanical clock, regulated by shifting weights, was made in Paris in the 14th century by Hendrik de Vick. It still runs today at the Palais de Justice in the French capital, according to Collier's Encyclopedia.

Retriever Club Will Organize Thursday Night

Hunters who want to get more use out of their dogs through better training are reminded of the organizational meeting of the local retriever's club Thursday at 8 p. m. in the basement of the Thief River Falls municipal auditorium.

Election of officers, discussion of an official name for the organization and a few tips on dog training will be highlights of the meeting. Membership in the group is $5 per year and sportsmen from throughout the area are invited to become members and gain the benefit of group assistance.

At a meeting held several weeks ago to determine the amount of interest in forming such a club, attendance was greater than expected and enthusiasm was high.

Ben Nelson Completes 26 Years at Newfolden School

Custodian Started In 1936 After Being Bus Driver Seven Years

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

When Bernhard (Ben) Nelson retires at the end of June this year, it will be after 26 years of service as custodian of the Newfolden community school. In fact, it is possible to go a step further in describing his service by stating that be began driving a school bus in 1929.

Vernon Swan, who will become the new head custodian when Ben begins his retirement, began his training under Ben on April 2. Swan is a lifelong resident of the Newfolden community, farming and working at various times for Elmer C. Johnson construction company in Warren, Ed Wright Construction company and Grand Forks Air Base.

"During the time Ben has been custodian, the school has never had to be closed because of a breakdown of furnaces or other equipment needed to operate the school," stated John P. Halvorson, superintendent of schools. "His record speaks for itself and I am certain that hundreds of Newfolden alumni will always remember Ben's cheery disposition and willingness to help in any way at all times."

Born on a farm east of Newfolden, Ben began his school bus driving in 1929, using a horse-drawn covered sleigh with blankets and footwarmers to keep the children warm. A one-way trip on his route totaled nine miles and the first students were picked up at 7 a. m.

Ben recalls one youngster who hid in the weeds when the sleigh stopped to pick up his brother.

The unhappy youngster was carried aboard the bus by the dutiful driver and compelled to continue his education. Ben watched the boy go on through high school and later Harvey Stokke became his boss as a member of the Newfolden school board.

It was 1936 when custodial duties became Ben's chief interest and he began each day by steaming up the boiler with poplar cordwood. He was paid "top wages of $55 a month". When a new addition of classrooms and gymnasium was added in 1940, more cordwood was required for heat. "It kept me busy carrying in three cords of wood a day and carrying out ashes," he remembers.

Clarence Gustafson of Viking was hired as an assistant janitor in 1942 as well as serving as bus driver for Viking students attending high school in Newfolden. Work was also made easier when Ben assisted A. J. Borry of Thief River Falls install a new coal stoker in 1944.

Ben Recalls Events

In Ben's own words he remembers the following events about the school which has been his source of pride for the many years he has served as its keeper:

1951—"A new bus garage was built and the old garage rebuilt for 7th and 8th grade classrooms. A 10-acre playground was bought, which added more outside work. In later years the garage was rebuilt as an industrial arts shop with oil furnace and another oil furnace was installed in the 10-stall bus garage and storage room.

1953—"A new addition was added to the north side, including first to sixth grade classrooms, cafeteria and home economics room and a modern heating system with a coal stoker furnace. Besides being overseer of the new building during the summer, my wife Hazel and I sanded and refinished all the wood floors in the building, including the gym.

1954—"Hazel was hired to assist me with custodial duties in the new addition after school hours at starting wages of $30 a month. I was usually at the school at 5 o'clock in the morning and with school activity, community and county extension meetings I was often there until late hours at night."

Serves as Mayor

Ben must also be described as an active citizen. He served nine years on the village council and the past year was elected mayor of Newfolden. A member of the village fire department since it was organized, he also has assisted with Boy Scouts and as a 4-H club leader in past years.

In his retirement he looks forward to more time for his favorite sport of fishing. And what about Hazel? Is she an angling enthusiast, too? "He better not go unless he takes me along. I could live in a boat," she said. And they deserve the chance to follow their angling inclinations.

RETIREMENT is anxiously being anticipated by Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard (Ben) Nelson of Newfolden. Ben has served as custodian at the Newfolden community school since 1936 and his wife Hazel has been a salaried assistant for the past eight years. An active community citizen, Ben was elected mayor of Newfolden last year and had served for nine years on the village council. They both look forward to a lively retirement with fishing as the foremost activity.

Social Security Taxes up Sharply in Past 12 Years

Minnesota Taxpayers Association Predicts More Boosts in Rates

Federal social security taxes now take five times as much from an employee's paycheck as they did 23 years ago, and further increases are coming, according to Harold T. Miller, Research Director of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association.

"In 1939 the most an employee had to pay was $2.50 a month," Miller said. "This year it's $12.50, and by 1968 the monthly deduction will climb to $18.50. Employers, of course, match the amount deducted with an equal tax payment.

"The federal social security tax has been increased eight times in the last 12 years. The combined contribution now amounts to 6¼ per cent of salary or wages up to $4,800 a year, and by 1968 will amount to 9¼ per cent. The social security tax is additional to regular federal income taxes, which now average around $31 a month for a married man with two children and a $4,800 income.

"Since 1919 the maximum cost of social security taxes to both individuals and employers has climbed about 15 times faster than the cost of living, which itself is up about 25 per cent."

Mr. Miller's statements were made in response to inquiries from Association members concerning proposals before Congress to add medical care provisions to the social security program.

"Federal administration estimates are that it would be necessary to increase the payroll deduction by another ¼ of 1 per cent and to expend the taxable wage base from $4,800 to $5,200 per person," Miller said. "By 1968, including the three rate increases already scheduled, this would raise the maximum payroll deduction for social security to an annual $253.50 per employee, and the employer's contribution to a like amount.

"Opponents of these proposals challenge the estimates, and forecast the need for much greater increases in the tax rate."

Beware of Peddlers of Seed Grain Is Inspector's Warning

Farmers in Minnesota are again warned of ordering or purchasing seed from itinerant seed peddlers. Ed Moren, weed and seed inspector for Pennington and Red Lake counties, states that information has been received from reliable sources that seed peddlers are again preying on Minnesota farmers in spite of convictions obtained against certain seed peddlers during the late years under the Minnesota seed law, the federal seed act and the postal laws.

The seed division of the Minnesota department of agriculture, dairy and food desires any information regarding activities of these seed peddlers. Immediate action will be taken to investigate their activities and prompt action will be brought against illegitimate operators or peddlers.

Farmers are urged to buy their seed from their local dealers and seedsmen. These seeds are all checked by inspectors from the state department for compliance with the Minnesota seed laws, so the farmer is assured of quality seed. Then, too, the local dealers or seedsmen can furnish farmers the same kind and varieties of seed offered by these peddlers for more reasonable prices. They are also assured of delivery of their seed before planting season. Attention is also called to the fact that seed offered for sale at auctions must be properly tested and labeled.

Moren states that a farmer who sells seed which he has produced himself is not required to obtain a permit or use sales tags, but he must label seed sold as to purity, germination, etc.

A violation of the above provision under the Seed Law is considered a misdemeanor, which provides for a fine up to $100 or 60 days in jail for the first violation, or not less than $50 nor more than $500, or imprisonment for not more than 6 months for the second violation.

Youth Conference to Hear Authority

Governor's Parley Slated In Minneapolis Apr. 23-24

A nationally known jurist and authority on the problems of youth will keynote Governor Elmer L. Andersen's conference on youth employment and training, to be held April 23-24 at the Leamington Hotel, Minneapolis.

Judge Mary Conway Kohler, author of a series of articles on youth in the March, 1962 Saturday Evening Post has announced that she will participate in the statewide parley. She addresses the opening session, at 9:30 a. m. Monday, April 23, in the Hall of States at the Leamington.

The mother of three children, Judge Kohler retired from the San Francisco Juvenile Court in 1953 after 15 years on the bench. Now a resident of New York, she serves a number of organizations including the Ford Foundation and the National Committee on the Employment of Youth.

The Governor said today that he is "extremely gratified that Judge Kohler will come to Minnesota for this major conference."

Purpose of the conference is to accomplish three objectives: to encourage young people to stay in school and secure as much training as possible; to find more summertime jobs for young people to enable them to continue their education; and to find full-time jobs in Minnesota for young people.

In a letter to Governor Andersen, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has praised "the combined efforts of the various departments and organizations in your state" which, the cabinet officer said, work to provide "broader and more efficient service to youth."

One is daily annoyed by some little corner that needs clearing up and when by accident one at last is stirred to do the needful, one wonders that one should have stood the annoyance so long when such a little effort would have done away with it. Moral: When in doubt, do it.

There Always Are Two Sides

There are two sides to every question, and the question as to whether the proposed school expansion program should be approved by the voters is not an exception. There are two sides to this question too, and, on a matter so important, the public should hear both sides. As a matter of public service, therefore, we will set forth a few of the reasons why we believe it would be in the public interest if this proposal were rejected at this time.

The proposal, as presented, calls for another school district obligation of $1,560,000, which is about all the legal debt limit the district will allow. But, as we understand it, there will be other new debt obligations if we follow the plan that is recommended. To build beyond the area of this city that is already developed would involve the cost of new streets, new walks, and sewer and water extensions by the city and charged to the school district.

Then there would be the additional cost of staffing the added facilities. At least 24 new classrooms would be built; eight of the present classrooms would be junked, leaving a net increase in the number of classrooms at at least 16. You do not add 16 classrooms without adding substantially to operating costs.

There is a reasonable doubt as to the need for so many additional classrooms at this time. Growth figures do not justify such a large increase. In order to better understand our growth problem we probably should consider the needs of the vocational school separately from the needs of the elementary and secondary grades. For instance it has been said that in the past ten years our enrollment has increased about 700, which is true. But a substantial part of this 700 figure has been in the Area Vocational School.

As we check the figures in the annual school reports, the enrollment in the elementary and secondary schools have increased by about 400. And what have we done as a school district to provide for this increase? In that ten-year period we have added many classrooms along with the gymnasium—at least 20 additional classrooms by our reckoning. Supplementing this, we have provided room for two classes in the Armory, and 22 classes should provide for 660 pupils. The other rooms that have been rented for the elementary school, as we understand it, are for special classes for the retarded, and the number of the retarded, fortunately is not large. So we have provided classroom facilities for an additional 660 pupils when the increase has been just slightly more than 400. That doesn't sound to us like a sudden emergency.

And so, we say, there is a reasonable doubt as to the need for so many additional classrooms at this time.

And there is a reasonable doubt as to the need for junking the old Washington. It cannot properly be called a fire trap for there is no heating plant in the building — there is nothing to explode. Some construction men, whose opinions we respect, are of the opinion that for comparatively little cost whatever infirmities it has accumulated in its old age can be corrected and give the old structure more years of useful life. All poor people want new and stylish overcoats too, but there are times when we have to make the old overcoat last a few more seasons.

We are told that the district is paying $19,000 a year for rented quarters, and we assume that the figure is correct. Most of this is being paid for rooms for vocational school classes. That is why we think the problem of need should be divided in seeking for a solution and the needs of the vocational school be considered as a separate problem. $19,000 is a lot of money. But is that $19,000 a valid excuse for hasty action? Does that $19,000 justify a bond issue of $1,560,000?

We think not. The annual interest on a bond issue in that amount would be in the neighborhood of $60,000. Each year that a bond issue in that amount is delayed saves us at least $40,000.

And there are reasonable doubts as to whether sprawling one-story buildings are more economical than two-story buildings. Builders, whose opinions we respect, tell us that two-story buildings cost less to build and less to heat. We think this problems merits more consideration before me take final action.

These are a few of the things that disturb us as we consider the impact on our community of another hefty tax increase. We favor a top-level, practical system of public education for our community. The vocational school has justified all of its costs. We believe a junior college should be given serious consideratioin, and that before any bond issue is approved the citizens of the district should be informed on the possibilities, and the costs, of such an expansion of our school system so that, if approved, it can be provided for.

And finally, for the time being, we favor a delay in the adoption of any school expansion program because of the possibility that the federal government will do what we hope it will not do. This is an election year. The administration in Washington is beating the drums for any kind of a federal aid program that will indicate to the pressure groups that it is sympathetic. The President has also indicated a need for special vocational training for the unemployed and that may result in extra grants for new, and the expansion of old, vocational schools.

Summing it all up, we have nothing to loose by waiting. There is no local emergency that requires fire-alarm action. No essential education service is suffering at the present time. In the past we have provided adequately for uor urgent needs. There now are no urgent needs for added school facilities that require emergency action.

Let 's slow down to a gallop and have a sensible second look at all of these problems.

Let's Be Practical

During the calendar year 1960 the United States and Canada, Western Europe and Japan, contributed eight billion dollars in gifts and cash benefits of various kinds to underdeveloped countries. That total probably was increased in 1961. Meanwhile in 1960 the Soviet Union's contribution for similar purposes added up to 178 million.

These figures did not come out of the Times statistical department on the seventh floor. For us they are just hearsay, but they serve our purpose. The free world countries are putting much more money and effort into their assistance programs for the underdeveloped countries than are the Communists. Our concern at this time is not as to whether we are spending too much or the Communists are not spending enough.

What bothers us is the suspicion that the Soviet Union is getting a much bigger return for what they spend, in terms of what they are seeking to buy. While we are motivated by fine ideals in our sacrifices, we are satisfied that the Communists have been guided by the more practical approach. They are the shrewd Shylocks. Too often we have been the well-meaning, gullible do-gooders.

This criticism is not directed at the present administration as being responsible for this benevolent but unrealistic approach to world problems. The program we fear is going to fail was well established by President Kennedy's predecessors, and predecessors is plural. The thing that discourages us at this stage is the fear that the present administration is making this altruistic program even less realistic and practical.

We are tossing out the billions without enough concern about what we get for the dollars we spend. Let's take a lesson from the Communists.

Great Possibilities

The University of Minnesota is experimenting with closed-circuit class room television. One instructor lectured to 215 students seated in three classrooms. The professor gave his performance in a studio located in a near-by building.

Reactions were both favorable and unfavorable, according to David Mazie, reporting in the Minneapolis Tribune. A large majority of the faculty members agreed that classroom television would be effective in transmitting both concepts and ideas, and facts and information.

According to Burton Paulu, director of the radio and television broadcasting department, by next fall students in three to five more classes will be getting their instruction over TV. "It won't be long," he said, "before courses are televised to the St. Paul and new west bank campuses and eventually, perhaps, to the University branches at Duluth and Morris."

Among faculty members who are opposed to this form of instruction the fear of teachers losing their jobs seemed to be the main objection. On this point E. W. Ziebarth, head of the faculty-administration committee, said. "No responsible person would let televsion be misused this way. The object is not to cut down the need for additional teachers but to make the instruction situation more efficient."

We think Mr. Ziebarth was talking through his hat and should be required to stand in the corner for an hour. We think most responsible people would agree that the object would properly be to make instruction both better and less costly. Machines have lowered costs in many other fields to the benefit of all mankind. It would be wonderful if machines could lower the cost of education and make it available to more people.

Or is it now the main purpose of our school system to provide employment for teachers?

Anyhow, it's an interesting development, this television we mean, and it no doubt has great possibilities.

Interesting Opinions

"The fear that we are harboring a fatal disease is very common. Many people delay going to the doctor, unable to face the moment when he may—or may not—confirm their fears. This delay is in itself a self-destructive act as we know a chronic state of fear can harm the body."

—Dr. Arnold A. Hutschnecker

Borrowed Nonsense . .

A Hollywood producer, reading a script of a movie laid in early England, became greatly concerned over the frequent appearance in the dialogue of the good old expressions, "Yes sire," and "No, sire."

Summoning the author, the head man demanded: "This story was supposed to happen a long time ago, wasn't it?"

"Yes," the writer quavered.

"Then," said the producer, "why do you use all this modern slang, 'Yes, siree; No, siree'?"

"I suppose this new pen is a surprise?" the clerk asked.

"It certainly is," the customer answered. "It's for my son who just started college. He's expecting a convertible."

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

A Salute to the Farmer

Recently I received a statement from Mrs. George A. Burns of Milan that I felt you would enjoy reading Here it is:

I don't know about the rest of you farmers, but I am getting fed up with the way we are blamed for doing a good job. Every time we pick up a paper or a magazine, hear a radio or TV broadcast, we are told that the farmers are creating a terrible problem for the country. I think it is time for us farmers to start telling our country how lucky it is that we are doing a good job.

It is ridiculous that we have allowed our wonderful talent for producing food to be turned into a criminal act. We farmers actually have guilt complexes because we are superior artists in our profession. Instead, we should be proud of it. The whole country should be proud of it. We have increased our productivity many times more than any other business in this country in the last ten years. And it is productivity that creates wealth and progress. I think the country should set up statues in every town honoring the farmers!

Can you think of anything better in this world than a thick, juicy steak and flaky potatoes, hot buttered rolls and apple pie? And how would you like it if you couldn't get a meal like that? Now I don't care whether the statue is a farmer mounted on a tractor or a steer with a baked potato on its back, but I think it is time that this country starts appreciating its good fortune in having talented farmers instead of cutting them to bits with sharp words.

Agriculture used to be called the backbone of this country, but in recent years, it has slipped south a little! Of course, we farmers have been sitting back on our tractors and letting ourselves be pelted from all sides instead of telling our story. And I mean our real story, not the distorted one that makes popular reading. Our wonderful astronauts are honored for their great courage and bravery. And if you don't think it takes bravery to be a farmer these days, you aren't a farmer.

We farmers have earned the right to hold our heads high and tell our attackers to go eat a big steak. These same attackers never stop to wonder, out loud or in print, what would happen to the price of food if we farmers weren't efficient.

If I sound as though I think our farmers are practically Einsteins, it's because I think they are. If you don't agree, take a look at the Russian farmers. Russia, with her supposed superiority in scientific advancements, isn't in the same league with us when it comes to farming. I say that our farmers aren't a problem; they're a blessing.

I know how much hard work, mental and physical, it takes to be a good farmer these days, and I am proud to be a farmer. So, to all the farmers in this country, I salute you.

To all of which I say, "Amen."

SO WHAT ELSE IS NEW? It has often been stated that there is nothing new on this earth. And I suppose, if a person prefers to be absolutely basic, that is a true statement. Nothing is new in itself but the discovery of something which has been here all the time is new. There is news in statements on current events by prominent citizens. For instance, read this statement which was published in the recent edition of the Minnesota School Board Journal:

"The poorer citizens have captured the Government and have voted the property of the rich into the coffers of the state for redistribution among the voters.

"Politicians have strained their ingenuity to discover new sources of public revenue. They have doubled the indirect taxes, such as customs due on imports and exports. They have continued the extraordinary taxes of war time into peace time. They have broadened perilously the field of the income tax as well as the property tax.

"One of our wisest says, 'When I was a boy, wealth was regarded as secure and admirable—but now a man has to defend himself against being rich as if it were the worst of crimes.'

"Athletics has become professionalized: young citizens who once thronged the playgrounds or the gymnasiums now exert themselves vicariously by witnessing professional exhibitions;

"Philosophy has struggled to fnid in civic loyalty or in a national ethic some substitute for the divine commandments and the surveillance of God."

Words of wisdom in a changing world, aren't they? Don't they strike at the very heart of many of the nation's problems today? Who made the statements? President Kennedy? Governor Andersen? Helen Keller? Not quite. The statements were made by a gentleman named Socrates at Athens, Greece, in 363 B. C. Small world, isn't it?

Speaking of government, how about this sign on a door in a Washington government building: "4156, General Services Administration, Region 2, Public Building Service, Building Management Division, Utility Room, Custodial." Pretty fancy name for a broom closet.

"It's my memory, Doc," the patient complained. "I can't seem to remember things any more. I keep forgetting things. I'm becoming absent minded. Can't you help me?" "Just how long has this been going on?" the doctor asked. "How long has what been going on?" was the reply?

Hope that individuals are as sincere in their thinking about the forthcoming school bond issue as local organizations seem to be. Several groups have already given unanimous approval to the issuing of $1,595,000 in bonds for construction of a new elementary school and junior high school. Many people are still not familiar with the issue.

Brochures will be coming out soon which should help to further explain the crowded conditions which exist and the need for new construction as well as what type of new construction is proposed and what it will include. The need is here now. Bond selling conditions are generally favorable. Prices of construction material and labor are steadily increasing. THE TIME IS NOW. If you have questions, secure a school board member, administrator or member of the local citizen's committee to speak to your group. The answers are available.

Don't forget the Lincoln high school band concert Tuesday. The youngsters do a terrific job and deserve a packed house before which to perform.

THE HELPING HAND

You can boost your son's spirits, kind father,
You can show him he's on the right track,
If you just take the time and the bother
To give him a pat on the back.

You can show him the fondest affection,
If sentiment showing you lack,
Just point him in the right direction
And give him a pat on the back.

You help him o'er hurdles unheard of,
If you simply devlop the knack
Of stating a well-thought-out word of
Your pride and a pat on the back.

And if Junior creates a disaster
And poses a problem for you,
A pat somewhat lower and faster
Will bring about good results, too.

NUCLEAR SUB HAS SUNLESS GARDEN

Lettuce and radishes are growing hundreds of feet beneath the surface of the ocean. The undersea "garden" is a tank aboard the SS Robert E. Lee, a Polaris-firing submarine. It supplies one helping of lettuce and a few radishes each week for the 100-man crew to pep up their diet when the sub's tour of duty calls for it to remain submerged for two months at a time. The tank is filled with a chemical solution containing all Nutrients necessary for plant growth. Roots are anchored in synthetic sand which is lighter than soil. Fluorescent lamps replace the sun. Carrots were tried, the Navy reports, but proved unseaworthy.

One hundred fifty Canadian and American war amputees are trying out a anew artificial leg with a hydraulic knee mechanism which promises to give them a regular gait. For above-the-knee amputees, the new control bends the ankle as the person moves forward. The toe clears the ground and walking becomes a smooth motion.

Texas produced more than half the nation's 13 trillion cubic feet of natural gas in 1961. Louisiana ranked second.

Running a medium-sized steel plant is an expensive proposition. These figures are given by the American Iron and Steel Institute for one month's operation: electricity, $260,000; gas, $249,000; water, $45,000; telephone, $4,400; fuel oil, $64,000; steam, $55,000; compressed air, $13,000; oxygen, $60,00.

Pint-sized auto muffler has been developed with a spring valve to deaden the sound of exhaust without obstructing its passage. The stainless steel unit, half the size of ordinary mufflers, adjusts automatically as driving conditions dictate. The spring action pulses with engine pressure to open wider as RPM's increase, and close down again as the engine slows to idel.

World's largest nuclear test reactor will take three years to build at an Atomic Engergy Commission site in Idaho. The new reactor will have an operating thermal power level of 250,000 kilowatts, compared with 175,000 kilowatts for the next-largest test reactor. Congress has authorized $40 million for the work.

DUST CLOUDS ON MOON THREAT TO EXPLORERS

Blinding dust clouds kicked up by rocket exhaust could well be the greatest danger that arises as a space vehicle lands on the moon, says the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). This dust would not only obscure astronauts' vision, but it could jam radar and even the operation of the spacecraft itself, NASA adds. A perplexing problem is selection of the right landing gear for the unknown properties of lunar terrain. Should the moon have a thick layer of soft dust, the scientists say, wide treads or oversize shoes would be the answer.

How many people, all told, have lived on this earth? About 77 billion, estimates the Populaton Reference Bureau. Today's population of about three billion is approximately four per cent of the total.

New silver is produced in the world at the rate of 210,000,000 ounces a year. New commercial uses have been found for it in electronic contact points, in the framework of batteries and in especially light, strong and heat-resisting alloys. The U. S. and Canada are the chief users of silver coins. The federal government has 60,000 tons of silver stored at West Point and San Francisco, enough to make coins for the next 30 years.

Feed youngsters fewer calories per day, advise scientists of Cornell University. If protein and vitamin consumption are kept at accepted levels, the children will grow to be smaller but longer-lived adults. Average life spans of 110 years and more are envisioned.

Flight recorders would be required on many non-airline aircraft if a new Federal Aviation Agency rule is adopted. The FAA seeks improved flight recording because of its value in accident investigations and analysis of inflight accidents. All turbine-powered airline transports and those airline craft that fly above 25,000 feet must now carry the units.

Traffic accidents on the island of Bjarkoey, Norway, rose sharply in 1961 to a rate equal to 5,000 accidents per 10,000 registered vehicles, reports the National Safety Council. Here's why: The Arctic island's only car collided with its only truck at a bend in its only road!

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson

Manager Chamber of Commerce

Planning ahead is perhaps the most time consuming and meritorious activities we find ourselves involved in every day of our lives. Stop and think about what you spend most of your time doing and thinking about. It is about what comes next, tomorrow, the next day, next week, month, year or thereafter. In fact, I think most of us believe that one of our biggest jobs here on earth is to prepare for something much better ahead of us.

The same basic principle applies to the proposal that has been presented to us by our elected school officials. They have planned ahead .The elementary and junior high school construction proposals are futuristic in design. They are designed to meet the needs of our upcoming generation of young people here in Thief River Falls that we have so willingly produced.

We have an obligation to provide for these youngsters as best we can, I believe, in that mankind and the world will demand more of them in the way of skills, general knowledge, and intellectual reasoning power than has ever been demanded of man in the history of the universe. That sounds quite lofty perhaps but you think about it for awhile and I think you'll agree. It is my belief that we must attempt to provide our youngsters with the best education and educators that we possibly can.

This requires unselfish thinking on our part and a realignment of our true sense of values. If we do that, the bond issue will have little trouble on April 23rd.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce discussed this question after it had been referred to them by the Education Committee and they went on record unanimously favoring the proposal made by the Board of Education. It was pointed out during the discussion that the plan seems quite practical and sound. It was also illustrated that if we won't vote for our kids, who are we going to vote for? It is a good point.

This is an opportunity to invest a wise tax dollar locally for which we will get a good return. This is more than I can say for the money we just sent to Washington, D. C. in the form of Federal income tax. I'd just as soon spend it at home where I can watch it being used by people I have confidence in. Please keep in mind the proposal is practical and that the payment is spread over 29 years to keep the burden from being prohibitive.

The destiny of the elementary-junior high school bond issue lies in your hands. Please give the matter more than hasty consideration. It deserves your deepest and most sincere thought.

As a dedicated group of sincere individuals the potential is unlimited for us here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota, Thief River Falls.

Yard 'n Garden

The Home Fruit Planting

Two of the most popular fruits for the backyard garden are strawberries and raspberries but with the development of dwarf fruit trees it's possible also to have apple trees in small garden areas.

Dwarf fruit trees are standard varieties of apples grafted to dwarfing roots. These trees will start fruiting a year or two after planting and the fruits are usually of fine color and quality. The trees are small enough to permit a thorough job of spraying for insects and diseases and they are easier to prune and harvest than trees of regulation size.

A good summer apple is Oriole. Lakeland would be an excellent variety for fall. For winter use, try the Haralson or Connell Red.

Success with small fruits will depend on healthy disease-free plants of a good variety. Dependable varieties include Earlimore and Tumpeter, June-bearing varieities, or Red Rich and Ogallala, everbearing strawberries. The Latham raspberry is a good variety but some gardeners prefer the everbearing types like September and Durham.

June bearing strawberries are spaced 2 feet apart in rows 4 feet apart. Everbearing varieties may be placed 1 foot apart in the row. Raspberries are spaced 4 feet apart in rows 6 feet apart.

Fruits may be planted early in the spring when the frost is out of the ground and when the soil can be easily worked.

BREAKING CAMP after crawling out of a warm sleeping bag and anticipating a rugged journey ahead was one of the rigors of the Alaska cross-country trip made by Edgar Hetteen and his party. It usually required an hour or more to break camp and get all gear securely packed aboard the toboggans which were pulled behind the Sno-Travelers. As may be seen in the above photo, the snow was deep on the Yukon river. Overflow ice, caused by the weight of snow bringing water above the normal ice surface, was one of the hazards of the journey.

Wind, Sand, Ice . . .

Travel More Difficult on Hetten Alaskan Journey

CHAPTER SIX

March 11, 1960

The thermometer showed 8 below zero this morning when we set out. The head winds, which ranged between 35 and 40 miles per hour, made the going extremely difficult.

Under these conditions it was hard for the drivers to see the trail out ahead. On two occasions one or another of the rigs bogged down and got stuck, partly because of the wind's force and partly because of our inability to see far enough ahead to avoid snow traps that otherwise would have been avoided.

Because of the bad weather we made only 15 miles, approximately, during the day. To be on the safe side, we chose our camp site well before dark and erected the tents on the river in deep snow near the river bank.

To keep the wind from blowing our shelters down we spotted the heavy equipment, the motor sleds and toboggans, alongside the tents and tied the tents to the anchoring machines.

As usual, Bessie prepared two hot, nourishing meals for us during the day. Our morale lifted as soon as we had eaten, and we felt tip-top again and ready to face whatever problems tomorrow might bring on the trail.

It is very difficult to lie in a sleeping bag and write with a flashlight beside your writing hand But it must be done this way or not at all, for there is no other place that is warm enough to jot down these notes. Our fingernails ached from the steady cold, and that was a new sensation for me.

So penetrating was the cold that we slept with our fur caps on our heads. The important thing is we slept well.

Northern Co-ops 1962 Meeting Is Conducted Apr. 3

With an attendance of several hundred persons, the annual meeting of Northern Co-operatives, Inc., was held in Wadena Tuesday. During the morning session reports and other business items were on the agenda.

In his annual report Manager Roy Storvick pointed out this was the 30th anniversary year for the firm as it was in April, 1932, that it was formally incorporated as a business enterprise.

Total assets of the organization are listed at $2,018,199.04 the manager said. He stated the company has 48 pieces of motorized equipment including tractors and trailers and straight trucks. In addition there are seven oil transports and 18 Termo-King refrigeration units.

Chosen as a new member of the board was W. A. Nolte of the Fertile area. He replaces Albert Anderson of Sebeka, who had decided not to seek re-election.

Roy E. Wiseth of Goodridge is president of the co-op.

AAA Sets Midwest Parley Apr. 11-13

Auto Organization to Discuss Future Problems

Officials from AAA automobile clubs in 12 midwestern states will meet at the Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis April 11-13 for a "look ahead" at the world of motoring and travel in the next decade, seeking ways and means of making motor travel safer, more comfortable and more satisfying for the 1,650,000 members they serve.

More than 100 managers and executives from the midwest motoring organizations will probe the fields of travel, emergency service, highway safety and other facets of motoring to find out how to meet the problems which will confront motorists in the next 10 years.

"Completion of the Interstate Highway System will open a whole new vista of travel and mobility for the American motorist," said Hugh M. Craig, Minnesota AAA executive secretary and conference chairman. "At the same time, freeway travel will make bigger demands on the motorist and the organizations which serve him. This is why we are meeting here now, to look into the future at tomorrow's motoring needs and how we might best meet those needs."

Aftreth, principal of Pratt and Motley elementary schools in Minneapolis, has been elected to the office of president-elect of the Department of Elementary School Principals of the National Education association. Announcement was made at the annual national meeting of the department in Detroit, Michigan, March 24-30.

Dr. Aftreth will serve out his current term as vice-president of the D. E. S. P., taking office as president-elect in June. A year later, in June of 1963, he will take office as national president.

His local experience includes teaching at Alvarado, Minnesota, 1936-37; Robbinsdale 1937-46; guidance counselor 1946-48; Robbinsdale principal 1946-52; and Minneapolis principal since 1952.

Engineers Fighting Spring Road Breakup

State highway department, county, and municipal engineers are now in the middle of one of their worst annual headaches, the spring breakup of roads. Although this year's breakup has been described as one of the most troublesome in many years, the state trunk highway system has not suffered as badly as many urban street systems.

State highway engineers are making slow but sure progress in the elimination of this annual problem. New designs, improved methods of soils testing and analysis, and permanent, all-weather type construction are removing more segments of highway from the load restriction list each year.

Years ago, when many of today's highways were first built, little was known about soil testing. Today, as a part of the preliminary engineering process, soils are tested to determine what conditions prevail, the existence and location of clay or silt pockets, and the availability of fill material. All deficiencies noted are then corrected before construction of the road itself begins.

New Highways Are Better Constructed

Today, a bituminous-surfaced highway built to carry the maximum legal axle load of nine tons the year around, will contain a depth of about 20 inches of granular material. First comes a 12-inch subbase, usually of sand and gravel; over this is spread a 4-in layer of bituminous treated gravel; next comes a one-inch road-mixed bituminous base; and finally a 3½-inch surface of hot, plant-mixed bituminous.

The shoulders also get more attention than in earlier times. The sand-gravel subbase extends to the outer edge of the shoulders, and the 4-inch bituminous-treated gravel base is carried under most of the shoulder. The remainder is filled with a gravel base. Also, many of the shoulders on new highways are bituminous surfaced.

For those segments reconstructed with a Portland cement surface, a 3-inch sand-gravel subbase, a 3-inch aggregate base, and eight inches of Portland cement concrete surfacing are used.

Highway engineers state that many of today's breakup problems stem from the type of construction used many years ago. When the Trunk Highway System came into being in 921, few of the roads included were surfaced. As the importance of highway travel increased, the driving public demanded relief from the dust and mud of the unsurfaced highways. As a temporary expedient, many of these roads were oiled, in the same manner many residential streets are treated today. As time went on, additional thin layers were applied until they took on the appearance of bituminous highways. For most of these roads, soil testing, replacing of poor subsoils, subbase, and base were not included in the original construction.

To bring these roads up to a 9-ton capacity, the addition of new surfacing alone is not sufficient. The whole roadbed, including shoulders, must be completely reconstructed. The Department just recently adopted a new long-range plan for trunk highway construction which will ultimately eliminate the necessity for imposing springtime axle load restrictions.

In explaining the causes for this year's severe spring breakup, highway engineers place most of the blame on the weather. Early arrival of snow, followed by additional snowfall, formed an insulation layer which allowed the frost to penetrate to just a slight depth. This provided a thin, crusted surface to support the traffic. Water from the snow melt then sought entrance through cracks or through the shoulders to the underlying ground below the crust, to start its detrimental action. A moisture-saturated subgrade is the worst enemy of any road structure.

Army Engineers Study Flood Spots

St. Paul District Has 12 Projects Placed; Several in This Area

As the upper midwest area of the nation experiences another anxious period of winter breakup and flood threats, work quietly continues on a little-known activity designed to stop this yearly flood menace, according to the technical liaison branch of the Army Corps of Engineers in St. Paul.

On a large map in a room in the post office building in St. Paul, colored tabs pinpoint critical flood spots in the area. These tabs, now 12 in number, designate where the Corps presently has underway special studies and investigations to see what is possible, from an engineering and cost viewpoint, to stop this flooding.

Elsewhere in the building, civilian engineers required to do the many phases of study analysis and evaluation are seeking the answers

Cost Versus Results

"Flood control projects must result in a greater return in benefits than cost of construction," stated Col. W. B. Strandberg, district engineer for the St. Paul district of the Army Engineers. Preliminary studies and investigations will prove whether it is possible to protect certain areas from floods and whether it is worth it.

The list of studies and the corresponding tabs on the large wall map change often. Some studies prove unfeasible or uneconomical and are removed. Some are discontinued when not enough community interest or support is shown. Others pass all the tests, are designed in detail, approved by Congress and built.

Whatever the findings are in the study stage, congressional authorizations and appropriations are further steps before construction starts. This may take a number of years, Col. Strandberg said.

Introduced by James Parkins, international counselor, Mr. Fismen gave an inspirational address dealing with the benefits resulting from affiliation with the Lions organization. Lionism, he said, inculcates an appreciation of sound values, and has developed many great leaders with fixed habits of success in their chosen fields.

Gordon Relerson, president of the local club, reminded members of the tri-zone Lions meeting to be held Saturday evening, April 14, at the American Legion club here, with delegations scheduled to attend from points as distant as Winnipeg and Boissevain, Manitoba.

New Members Give Talks Monday at Rotary Meeting

Harold Storhaug, Jon Metusalem Give Talks; Peace Corps Reviewed

Classification talks by two new members, Harold Storhaug of Lampert Lumber company and Jon Metusalem, realtor, were given Monday at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club in the Elks club rooms. Darryl Smith, home on leave from the Peace Corps, spoke briefly and answered questions about the program.

Storhaug, in his auto-biography, noted that he was a 1942 graduate of Lincoln high school and drafted into the Air Force upon graduation, serving in the offenseive against Japan. He ended his tour of duty in August of 1945 and was discharged that year.

He became associated with the Lampert Lumber company at Langdon, N. D., worked for some time in California, returned to Thief River Falls and served as assistant manager of the local lumber firm for several years until named manager three years ago.

Metusalem was born in Iceland in 1921, graduating from high school there in 1937 with aspirations to go to Denmark or Sweden and attend college. With the Nazi occupation of these countries, his plans were changed, and in 1943 he came to the United States. The trip by boat from Iceland to New York took 30 days as the ship was on the alert for submarines during the voyage.

He studied agricultural economics, animal husbandry and agricultural education and taught veteran's agriculture at Goodridge beginning in 1948. He later moved to southern Minnesota but returned to this area to teach high school agriculture at Lincoln high school. Recently he relinquished the teaching profession to begin doing business at Thief River Realty.

Darryl Smith told of his experiences in Peace Corps training prior to assignment for 18 months of work in Columbia, South America. He also answered questions posed by club members as to the scope of the program, its cost and duties of Peace Corps volunteers.

Pre-school Child Roundup April 14

The annual pre-school roundup sponsored by the local PTA units will be held Saturday, April 14, at the Washington school gymnasium from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

All children who are five years old on or before Sept. 1, 1962, and who will be entering kindergarten in the fall are invited to attend. It is also emphasized that children of new residents who will be entering kindergarten or first grade this fall must call for an appointment with Mrs. Merle Lindberg at MU 1-1536 or Mrs. Margaret Race at MU 1-1336.

All rural kindergarteners and children who will begin school for the first time must attend the roundup. If a child is unable to attend, the parent should call and notify either Mrs. Lindberg or Mrs. Race.

The child's birth certificate and medical record should be brought to the roundup. The birth certificate can be obtained at the clerk of court's office in the county where the child was born. A hospital birth certificate will not be accepted. It has been requested that parents come prepared to give information as to when the child had his shots, also other health information.

At the roundup the child will be registered, a complete medical history taken, and he will be measured and weighed. He will meet a kindergarten teacher, after which lunch will be served to the child and parent.

George Stockman, director of elementary education, will be at the roundup to answer any questions which parents may have concerning the schools.

Two-day Easter School Vacation Set April 20 & 23

Easter vacation in the Thief River Falls schools, which in past years has continued for a full week, will be limited this year to two school days, Good Friday, April 20, and Monday, April 23. Richard Edlund, Lincoln senior high school principal, explained that state regulations now require 175 days of attendance instead of 172 as had been required in the past, and in addition it was necessary to make up for two days during the winter when the schools were closed because of stormy weather.

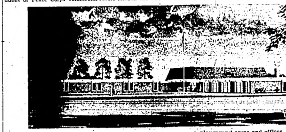
Creamery board members, operators and assistants numbering between 75 and 100 will attend a quality meeting sponsored by Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., at 1:30 p. m. April 19 at the Eagles Hall in Thief River Falls. Districts 14 and 17 of Land O'Lakes will take part in the meeting.

Ben Zachariuson, chief chemist in the Minneapolis laboratories of the cooperative, will discuss quality problems on a farm, creamery and marketing level. Marian Augustine, rural Thief River Falls, district chairman, will preside at the meeting.



ARTIST'S SKETCH of the proposed elementary and junior high school for District 564 in Thief River Falls is pictured above. The elementary portion of the building is at left with the junior high school at the right. Both schools would share a common entrance but have separate playground areas and offices. Such construction would permit use of library, cafeteria, gymnasium and central heating plant for both elementary and junior high school units. Construction would be of concrete block with brick exterior, painted inside with small window area. A floor plan of the two buildings will be published in the Monday edition of the Times.

Education Board Again Inspects "Old Washington"

Another personal look at the Old Washington school building and further discussion of the plans for the proposed new elementary and junior high school comprised the business of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening. Routine payment of bills was also made.

Inspection of the old Washington building revealed that a crack in the floor where the wall is separating from the floor has widened slightly since a previous report was received by the board. At the conclusion of the meeting, board members and Supt. M. R. Hankerson attended a combined informational meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and auxiliary where the school situation was presented to those present.

Elaine Flatgaard Wed To Loren Mathson Recently

Before an altar decorated with baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and white gladioli, Miss Elaine Flatgard became the bride of L. Loren Mathson on Saturday, March 10 at the Salem Lutheran church in Oklee. Reverend Roland A. Saethre officiated at the 8 p. m. double ring ceremony in the presence of 200 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Annie Flatgard and the groom is the son of Mr and Mrs. Louis C. Mathson, both of Oklee.

Marilyn Bakke of Oklee, friend of the bride, was organist and played "Thanks Be to Thee" as the bride entered in and also accompanied Mrs. Walter J. Pederson, sister of the groom, of Fertile, Minn. as she sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Irvin Flatgard, was attired in a floor length gown of white lace and net over satin featuring a fitted bodice, V neckline and long sleeves which came to a point over the wrist. Her fintertip veil was held in place by a crown of seed pearls.

Miss Sharon Pederson of Langdon, North Dakota was maid of honor while Mrs. Jerry Skjerven, sister of the bride, of Plummer and Mrs. Irvin Flatgard, a sister-in-law, of Oklee, were bridesmaids. They wore green sheath dresses with white overnet and white gloves and pearl earrings. Their bouquets were of yellow roses and baby carnations.

Attending the groom as best man was Richard Mathson, brother of the groom, of Oklee and Dave Nord of Pelican Rapids and Dave Hilden of Fergus Falls were groomsmen. Ushers were Ted Larson and Dave Lutes. The gentlemen wore white dinner jackets with yellow boutonnieres and dark trousers.

Mrs. Flatgard chose for her daughter's wedding a toast brown dress with black accessories while the groom's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories. They both wore corsages of red roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow roses and topped by wedding bells centering the serving table. Gwen Rensland, Wilma Stewart and Peggy Thompson were at the gift table and Ann Larson, cousin of the bride, was at the guest book.

Attending the wedding from Moorhead State college were twelve Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity brothers of the groom.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of Oklee high school and is presently attending Mayville State Teachers college at Mayville, North Dakota. The groom was graduated from Oklee high school in 1958 and attends Moorhead State college.

Out of town guests were from Fertile, Minneapolis, Thief River Falls, Bartlett, Buxton, Southam, North Dakota, Moorhead, Gary, Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls, Pelican Rapids, Eveleth, Fargo, St. Paul, Glyndon, and Langdon, North Dakota.

Most Farmers of R.R. Valley Voice Need of More Land

'U' M. Speaker Reports on Survey at Meeting in Crookston Wednesday

"When 70 per cent of the Red River Valley farmers surveyed by University of Minnesota agricultural economists said they could handle more land with their present power, machinery and labor, a continuing trend to fewer people on farms and fewer and larger farms was clearly indicated."

T. H. Fenske, associate dean of the University's Institute of Agriculture, said the survey suggests that on a considerable number of farms the existing facilities, equipment and labor are not being used to capacity.

"And, like it or not, small farms will continue to give way to larger units as farmers faced with increasing overhead costs seek full employment for their resources and labor," he stated.

Fenske spoke in Crookston Wednesday at the final Governor's rural and country life.

"The need for adjustment in their farm operations is a major problem facing farmers today," Fenske said. He cited other major problems as rising taxes, an unmet need for greater research effort in many areas—potato processing, for example—and the need for higher education for farm youth.

"But with intelligent help criticism and suggestions from groups such as this, we can and will make the changes that will bring a better agriculture and related business in the future," he stated.

The regional conferences, continuations of a statewide meeting held on the University's St. Paul Campus, have been held at Grand Rapids, Redwood Falls, Rochester and St. Cloud. Purpose is to explore ways of improving Minnesota's agriculture, promote state crops, develop new markets and take the steps necessary to improve rural life.

Engelstads Named JC Outstanding Young Farmers

Bernard Myers responded for the parents. Probasco introduced Dr. Frederick who used the word SPICE" and its individual letters to challenge FFA members to do greater things in and for agriculture. His explanation of each letter in the word and thoughts on each were as follows:

Frederick Stresses "SPICE"

S—"Speak up for agriculture. Each farmer has to be a spokesman for agriculture in order to get the story of progress and needs in agriculture to the city residents;

P—"Pride. Farmers must have a high regard for what they have to do and the way that they do it. They must be proud enough to clean up their farm yards, to have the best livestock and the best crops possible;

I—"Interest. The most important field to be cultivated by the farmer today is the field of learning. Study and learn all possible, go on to college and continue to read of new methods, attend meetings, keep pace with changes. Farming is too technical for the uneducated. There are more unskilled jobs available in the city than on the farm;

C—"Cooperation. The quality of working together is necessary as neighbors and as father and son to establish a bright future for tommorrow's agriculture;

E—"Enthusiasm. Keep an active interest in agriculture and do all that is possible to improve it. Be proud to be a farmer and tackle the job with the aim of making it the best of professions."

The banquet was sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the vocational agriculture department at Lincoln high school.

Army Engineers Survey Area for Flood Control

Northern Minnesota Studies

Among the studies presently underway are the Roseau River and Red Lake river in Minnesota and the Pembina river in North Dakota. Studies have been completed and favorable recommendations given to four projects, including the Warroad river and Bull Dog creek.

The Roseau river study is for channel improvements for 45 miles from Roseau downstream near the Canadian border and levees at three points.

The Red Lake river study calls for widening the river at Crookston, straightening it west of that city, raising and strengthening present levees and building some new levees and floodwalls, lowering a present dam, bridge, drainage and bank protection work to protect against the record 25-foot flood of 1950.

Pembina river project in North Dakota includes a cooperative study with Canada for a dam and reservoir near Walhalla, N. D., for water supply, irrigation, flood control, recreation and fish and wildlife. Estimated size of the dam is 150 feet high and one-half mile long, with reservoir 15 to 20 miles long. A possibility of two smaller dams instead of a large one is also being considered.

Warroad Project

Studies completed on the Warroad river and Bull Dog creek call for channel enlargement, straightening and clearing of 33 miles of Warroad river; Bull Dog creek and county ditches to protect against a flood 50 per cent larger than the 1947 flood in that area.

Studies awaiting funds to start include the Wild Rice river near Twin Valley. Included in the backlog of nine additional studies on the books of the Corps is a study for the Snake river in Minnesota.

The Corps of Engineers uses four main ways for flood protection—levee and floodwall to keep water away from damage points, dam to hold water in storage; diversion channel to by-pass a town; and clearing, straightening and deepening to increase a river's capacity to carry water.

Paul Stark, District Executive, in his presentation of "Camp Development", gave recommendations for camp development by the engineering service of the national council and explained the newly recommended organization of the camping and activities committee.

The ladies, who had convened in the lounge of the Student Union, had as their program musical selections by Curtis Magnuson, accompanied by Miss Janet Christianson and the Greenbriars. Glen Cunningham presented a program on "Decorating Your Home." Miss Mary Elizabeth Reeves, Dean of Women at the University, was the chairman of the meeting.

Following a smorgasbord dinner, the University of North Dakota Bards, under the direction of James T. Fudge presented musical selections.

After introducing the clerical staff of Miss Janice Alwin and Miss Darlyne Jerik, the two district executives, Edwin Bilek, Thief River Falls, and Paul Stark, Grand Forks, Philip H. Schneider, Scout Executive, presented the report of the council.

Mr. Schneider stated the council had a year of accomplishments in advancement, leadership training, attendance at camp Wabaunaquat, the fine work done by the council health and safety committee, the numerous activities and the recruitment of commissioners. At the close of his presentations Mr. Schneider recognized the service given to the council by Mr. R. C. Hadlich as its president the past two years with the presentation of a plaque.

Albert V. Hartl, president of Ottertail Power Company, Fergus Falls, in his talk, "What Scouting Does for Grown-ups" related personal experiences in scouting and how his work with boys had prepared him to lead men and plan his work as an adult. He also related that it was not what a boy did in scouting but the training he receives from the program. He urged all scouters to give more of themselves to help boys and the returns would be greater to every person.

John Booty, chairman of the Silver Beaver Committee, after reading the accomplishments of the three candidates for silver beaver recognition, asked the recipients and their wives to come to the stage. The scouters recognized as silver beaver recipients were Mr. Hillard J. Karlstad, scoutmaster of Troop No. 1, sponsored by St. Michaels church in Grand Forks; Mrs. Earl Hegstad, Grafton, member of the executive board; and Mr. Glen Kraywinkle, scoutmaster of Troop No. 40, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church of Crookston.

Floyd Christianson of Grand Forks was elected council president. Among council memers-at-large are Marshall Hankerson, N. Quentin Jones and Morris Owen of Thief River Falls. Florian Kritz is chairman of the Pen-Ro-Shall district.

Motion was made by Helm and seconded by Disse and carried that the bills be paid.

Motion was made by Olson and seconded by Burtness and carried that the report of Johnston-Sahlman Co., regarding the structural condition of Old Washington building be accepted and read into the minutes in full.

— March 7, 1962

Board of Education
Thief River Falls, Minn.
Gentlemen:

You have asked our firm to submit a report on the condition of the eight classroom Washington School, which was built in 1901.

On February 27, 1962, I made a personal inspection of the building and observed the following conditions:

Structural Defects

1 — The 2" x 12" joists under the second floor classroom, southeast corner of the building are substandard by Minnesota's Guide for Education Planning of Public Schools. They are capable of carrying safely a live load of approximately 30 lbs. per square ft. The design load required by the Guide is 50 lbs. per sq. ft. These joists are so springy that it is possible for one man to shake the walls and rattle the windows by jumping on the floor in the center of the room.

2 — The north wall from the second floor to the roof in the northeast classroom is separating from the load bearing partition in the corridor. Since the second floor joists run parallel to this north wall and cannot, therefore, adequately brace it against outward movement, this wall needs tie to the corridor to brace it. When the tie is broken as it is evidenced by the crack, the situation can become serious if the crack continues to widen.

3 — Because of wood shrinkage and the deflection of the joists, a large percentage of the finished floor planks are loose, wavy and squeaky. Some plank ends are broken, leaving holes in the floor.

Structural Conclusions

The above structural defects make this building substandard. These conditions coupled with the age of the building reduce the safety factor below that required by accepted building codes, and definitely should be corrected if further use of this building is intended.

Other Defects

1 — Windows are in bad condition. They have been maintained, but are now so old that recent maintenance costs have increased at a rapid rate. The windows should be replaced with new wood or aluminum units.

2 — Masonry walls up to the second floor level are in fair condition. Above this level and especially at masonry openings, cracks have occurred and many joints should be repointed or caulked to preserve the watertightness of the wall.

3 — The roof membrane is worn out and a new roof is badly needed.

4 — The wooden facia and soffit have rotted, gutters and downspouts are in bad repair. The facia should be removed and rebuilt and a new roof drainage system of gutters and downspouts should be installed.

5 — The non fire-resistant construction of this building is in itself hazardous, but the lack of adequate exits from the second floor is not tolerable by any fire code. If it were not for the steel fire escape from the second floor northwest classroom, the second floor should not be occupied for another day. A satisfactory inside stairway should be constructed.

6 — Mechanical and electrical systems were not investigated at this time, as inspection of the attic by flashlight revealed no exposed electrical wiring or mechanical fans.

Summary

1 — The Old Washington Building falls well below the minimum standards of the State Department of Education for new school house construction, as it is to be expected of a building now 60 years old.

2 — The structural and other defects listed could be remedied by the expenditure of approximately $83,500* thus keeping in service 6,000 net sq. ft. of academic classroom space. (750 sq. ft. in each of 8 classrooms). (Modern Classrooms are recommended today to be 900 sq. ft. net for Junior High School and 800 for Senior High).

3 — Cost of 6,000 sq. ft. net or 9,000 sq. ft. gross (including walls, corridors and stairs) will be approximately $125,000 if new construction.

4 — New construction compared to rennovated old construction can naturally be expected to perform with far less on-going maintenance.

5 — Mechanical and electrical systems which have not been inspected may be assumed to be substandard. The cost of their improvement or replacement has not been accurately estimated.

6 — On the basis of all of the above, it would be inadvisable to continue use of the Washington Building in its present condition. To attempt to remedy all of the known defects appears uneconomical.

Sincerely yours,
Johnston-Sahlman Co.
Milan A. Johnston

HAPPY? Why not? It was a big occasion for Mr. and Mrs. Verne Green of Newfolden today as they prepared to leave Thief River Falls via North Central Airlines for Minneapolis. The couple, who won the Chamber of Commerce "honeymoon trip for two" to the Minnesota Twins home opener, farms near Newfolden and is active in community affairs. Mr. and Mrs. Green are the parents of three children and the trip for two will give the couple a welcome vacation. They will stay at Hotel Dyckman, dine at the Chateau de Paris restaurant and be guests of the Minutemen Booster club at Metropolitan stadium as well as seeing the game and receiving $50 cash for spending money.

BOOMING to attract the attention of coy females in the surrounding area, this sharp-tailed grouse at the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge appears proud and defiant in the early morning fog. Jim Thompson, refuge clerk, made the photo in the early morning at one of the "booming grounds" by the refuge. The grouse has a pointed tail and V-shaped marks on the breast distinguish it from the prairie chicken which has a heavily barred breast. Sharp-tails are fairly common at the refuge.—Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife Photo by Jim Thompson.

Sharptail Grouse on Agassiz Refuge Boom

Early risers in the vicinity of Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge east of Holt are greeted at this time of year by the booming sounds of sharp-tailed grouse which accompany the mating season for the species. The booming is usually synonymous with the time the first Canada geese arrive on the marshes at the refuge.

"Booming" or "drumming" means that the grouse family has arrived at favorite spots to perform spirited dancing and fighting that accompany the mating period, reports Herb Dill, refuge manager.

Males droop the wings, elevate the tail, puff out the feathers, and with lowered head strut and run about in circles, often springing into the air. Their feet make quick stamping sounds. At intervals they expel the air in the swollen, feather-covered air sacs on the sides of their necks, producing a hollow boom which may be heard a quarter of a mile away.

Females stand by coyly appraising the energetic courtship but take no active part in it. If dancing grounds are approached carefully early in the morning, the entire performance may be witnessed.

The sharp-tailed grouse is well-named for its pointed tail and is characterized by the V-shaped marks on the breast which distinguish it from the prairie chicken which has a heavily barred breast, Dill stated. Many dances used by American Indians were copied from the antics of the birds. Sharp-tails, and ruffed grouse are fairly common at the refuge, but prairie chickens are quite rare.

Director of State Parks Will Speak To Rotary Monday

It's Time for Track

Believe it or not, and with the snow flurries that have been in evidence it's difficult to believe, but the 1962 track season will begin on Saturday. It's an indoor affair, so the boys won't be having any weather troubles as they participate in the Sioux Indoor Relays at Grand Forks.

Coach Rod Max, who has been sending his Prowler track squad through a few outdoor drills, with the boys being bundled up in several layers of warm-up suits, will enter about ten or eleven Prowler trackmen in Saturday's meet.

According to present plans, Gary Klungness will run the 60-yard dash; Paul Klungness will be entered in the 60-yard low hurdles and the broad jump; Ron Olson will run in the 440-yard dash; Karl Edstrand will be entered in the 60-yard high hurdles; Art Koglin will run the 880-yard run; Rolf Wangberg will be in the mile run; Arvid Lee has been entered in the pole vault; and Bob Benson will compete in the shot put event. And in addition the Prowlers will have a mile relay team entered.

Advance reports indicate that the Grand Forks Central Redskins will be the squad to beat for the team title. Last year the Moorhead Spuds, led by the spectacular Byron Gigler, won the team event, and it's a certainty that coach Shocky Strand's Moorhead squad will be a strong contender even though Gigler is no longer with the Spuds. Gigler is a freshman at the University of Minnesota.

One for the Book

In last week's National bowling league competition, the Joppru's Meats turned in quite a performance when they placed four of the team's members on the league's "honor roll". And the team had only four bowlers rolling that night as Bob Reopelle, the team's fifth member, was absent.

Don Joppru had a 559; Bob Pahlen rolled a 546; Dean Joppru chalked up a 552; and Dale Glass had a 513. Jerry Latta of Coast-to-Coast was the only "foreigner" to break into the "honor roll", scoring a 522.

To place the entire team—even though they had only four bowlers present—on the "honor roll" is quite a feat, and it's the first time in my memory that an accomplishment has been made at the Family Bowl lanes.

Pressure Curling

There is a $20,000.00 bonspiel under way this week in Vancouver, B. C., and the world's best curlers are competing. Thirty-two rinks, led by the world's champion Ernie Richardson rink of Regina, are in action in Vancouver's Spring Car Bonspiel.

Richardson, with the same family rink that won the Canadian and World's curling titles a short while ago, won his opening match, 15-2, in eight ends.

Hec Gervials, former World's champion, is skipping the rink of Matt Baldwin, three-time Canadian champion, and this rink won its opening match, 12-6 in ten ends. Baldwin in throwing the third rocks for this rink.

Thirty-two rinks are competing, and sixteen of these rinks will enter a special playoff leading to cars that will be awarded to the winning rink. The sixteen finalists will enter a double knockout competition leading to Saturday night's final.

The John David-Lyon rink of Winnipeg is entered in the bonspiel, but lost their opening match to the renowned Garnet Campbell rink of Avonlea, Sask.

Plan Formation Of Saddle Club in Gatzke Area

Those who wish are encouraged to ride their horses to the meeting.

Discussion will be on the advantages of having an organized group, including participation in inter-club shows, contests and activities, trail rides, camp-outs and other events. If sufficient interest is shown and attendance permits, officers will be elected at the meeting.

Persons interested in the formation of a club but unable to attend the Saturday meeting are asked to contact Mrs. Roland Klamar, Gatzke, at CYpress 4-3344.

Northrop PTA To Elect Officers

Election and installation of officers will take place when the Northrop Parent-Teacher association meets Monday at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. M. R. Hankerson, superintendent of schools, will be the guest speaker.

Musical selections will include a piano solo by Emily Hoel, an instrumental selection by Kathy Hanson, flute, and Richard Bischel, clarinet, and a piano solo by Kathy Hanson. Lunch will be serve by mothers of second grade students and all members are urged to be in attendance at the meeting.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Argyle Woman Writes of 4-H Forum in Washington

Mrs. Leo Crummy of Argyle wrote the following report on her attendance at the recent Interstate 4-H Leaders Forum in Washington D. C., which she attended as a delegate from Marshall County. Mrs. George Breznay represented Pennington county at the conference.

Service to youth through programs in citizenship, education, leadership development and international understanding were some of the topics of interest to local volunteer 4-H club leaders who attended the National Interstate 4-H Leaders Forum held at the National 4-H Club Center in Washington, D. C., March 26-30.

We arrived in Washington D. C. and were taken directly to the 4-H Center which is operated for the 4-H movement by the National 4-H Club Foundation. The imposing portico of Smith Hall is the guests' first glimpse of the Center, which is designed for youth of today in honor of pioneer leaders and 4-H members. The 124 acre campus of the Chevy Chase Junior College in suburban Washington, D. C. was purchased in February, 1951 and dedicated as the National 4-H Center. The Founder's Scroll affirmed this pledge: "Founded on faith in God and the democratic ideals of our republic and dedicated to the four fold development of rural youth, this center is established to contribute to knowledge, character, love, honor and dignity among all peoples."

The location of the center made it a convenient workshop in citizenship in our nation's capital. All around us were the nerve centers of our federal government as well as historic shrines basic to our American heritage.

One hundred 4-H club leaders from Connecticut, New York, Virginia, South Dakota and Minnesota had a wonderful opportunity to sharpen their leadership skills and focus attention on citizenship in action by meeting leaders from other states and listening to lectures by national 4-H leaders.

The program included many known speakers who spoke to us on "Understanding Boys and Girls", "Principles of Leadership", "Confidence for Leadership," "Developing 4-H Programs to meet the Needs of Boys and Girls", "Our International 4-H Interests", "The Communist Threat to Freedom" and a panel on "Challenges of Citizenship."

The program also included time for sightseeing and citizenship tours. The field trips included the Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, Arlington Cemetery and Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Lee Mansion and Smithsonian Institution. To visit the Capitol was indeed a great thrill. This one massive building with its towering dome is the physical representation of the government of the U. S. A. It was at the Capitol where we had a chance to meet with our senators and congressmen. We couldn't help but realize that history is in the making all around us as we passed through the Capitol.

The citizenship value of the visit to the U. S. D. A. was made quite clear to us and apparent by the educational program provided on this visit.

When we left for home we felt that our horizons were really broadened in 4-H and that working with young people is a constant challenge.

Marvin Firm Gets Flat Rate Service on Long Distance

Warroad Company First in This Area to Secure New Type of Equipment

Al Bacon, wire chief at the local office of N. W. Bell announces a new long distance service and a new phone that dials numbers automatically are being used by a Warroad millwork firm. Marvin Millwork started using the new items on Monday, April 2, to better serve its customers.

Both the new long distance service, called Wide Area Telephone Service or WATS, and the new phone, called a card dialer, are the first to be placed in service in northern Minnesota. Equipment was installed in the TRF office to help in providing this service.

WATS provides unlimited long distance calling within a specified area for a flat monthly rate. The card dialer, which has an automatic dialing mechanism built right into the instrument, is activated by coded plastic cards on which telephone numbers have been recorded.

Northwestern Bell said that with WATS, Marvin Millwork will pay a monthly rate for a special telephone line over which they can call any telephone within a specified area as often as they like and may talk as long as they like. Actually the millwork firm will have two WATS lines. One is for use within the state of Minnesota only and may be used on a 24-hour a day basis. The other provides up to 15 hours of calling each month on calls to any telephone in the United States outside of Minnesota, except those in Alaska and Hawaii.

The card dialer is connected to the Minnesota WATS line, so that company personnel may pick out a group of plastic cards on a certain day, insert them one by one into the card dialer, and complete calls to their dealers throughout the country. The dealers then give their orders over the phone.

Clearwater Road Jobs Bids Sought

A total of eight federal-aid secondary road improvement jobs to cost approximately $760,000 will be let during the end of April and first week in May in six counties, the Minnesota highway department announced today.

The work consists of partial grading, gravel and road-mixed bituminous base and surfacing, sand-gravel sub-base, grading and gravel surfacing on 53.3 miles and bridge construction on secondary roads.

The projects in this area include: Clearwater County, CSAH 5 — Sand-gravel sub-base, gravel base and road-mixed bituminous surfacing of seven miles between CSAH 4, .2 mile north of Clearbrook, and C. R. 62. County Auditor George D. Allen will open bids April 30 at the county courthouse in Bagley.

A subscription to the Times costs only $4.50 per year in Northwestern Minnesota.

State Cigaret Tax Held Deductible on U.S. Income Taxes

Director of Internal Revenue Cites Changes in 1961 Legislation

Many inquiries regarding the deductibility of the Minnesota state cigaret tax have been received, stated George O. Lethert, director of internal revenue in the St. Paul district. There appears to be quite a bit of confusion as to what can be deducted on the federal income tax returns. Mr. Lethert stated that the 1961 Minnesota state legislature changed the law with respect to the deductibility of state cigaret tax. Effective April 11, 1961, the law imposed the tax directly on the consumer whereas previously is was imposed on the wholesaler or importer. This means that the state tax on cigarets is deductible on the federal income tax returns from April 11.

During the same session, the state legislature also changed the rate of tax from 5.5 cents a package to 7 cents a package. The increase in rate became effective on July 1, 1961.

Mr. Lethert went on to explain that a person who smokes a package of cigarets a day would be able to deduct approximately $17 for the year. This is based on the fact that the law was changed on April 11, while the tax was increased on July 1st. This state tax is deductible for federal income tax purposes.

Mr. Lethert reminded taxpayers that the new withholding tax adopted by the state legislature on salaries, or wages and payments during the later part of the year 1961 also is a deduction for the 1961 federal income tax return. Taxpayer may deduct not only the 1961 income tax actually paid in 1961 but also the 1961 income tax withheld by employers in 1961.

New exemption? Tax refund? Bank it!
If there was a new baby at your house last year, you'll probably get an income tax refund. Why not use it to open a savings account.
Consider it a running start on a college fund for your new youngster. Or if you'd rather, a protective cushion in case you're not so lucky on next year's income tax. Either way, you'll find it's easy to get a savings program going when you have a lump sum to launch it.
So, don't cash that check and lose the money in your wallet. Instead, bring it to the bank and let's get your savings program under way.
We're here to help you get what you want

Fair Compensation

Before returning to his native land, President Joao Goulart of Brazil assured President Kennedy that there will be "fair compensation" for any "transfer" of public utility enterprises from foreign to Brazilian ownership. That report indicates that the arbitrary confiscation of American and Canadian owned utilities by the state governments of Brazil had been thoroughly discussed at the meeting of the two heads of government.

In our country we recognize the right of condemnation of private property for public purposes by governments at various levels. Whenever any unit of government does exercise its right of eminent domain the interests of the owner of the property that is taken are protected by established court procedures. "Fair Compensation" is always guaranteed. Just what is "fair" is determined by impartial appraisers or by impartial juries.

In order to encourage the investment of private capital in development projects in backward countries an effort should be made to establish international courts of justice with authority to settle disputes that will arise on this question of "fair compensation." None of us would be willing to put our dollars into a development program in an African country, the government of which might take over the property in which we had invested and make its own decisions as to what we should receive in compensation for our investment.

So maybe President Goulart's visit with President Kennedy will result in an approach to this problem that will be fair both to the investors of private capital and the countries in which those investments are made.

The investment of private capital offers much greater possibilities for development than loans and grants of our dollars by our government.

Pravda, Soviet Russia's Communist party newspaper, has come out openly for individual bonus payments and incentives to workers to speed up production. The statement followed demands by Premier Khrushchev that more pay be offered for more work, especially on farms where harvests have been lagging for three years.

Strange development this. While in our country people are being encouraged to look to the government more and more for security and advancement, and to depend less upon themselves in the management of their affairs, in Russia the individual seems to be emerging more and more as something that is important. We are moving to the left. They are moving to the right.

A nation of weak individuals cannot be strong. As the individual become less self-reliant the nation degenerates. We are afraid we are moving in the wrong direction.

Faubus Retires

Back in 1957, as the fall school term was starting in Little Rock, Arkansas, there was some danger of another armed rebellion. Governor Orval Faubus had decided to ignore both the Supreme Court ruling on desegregation in U. S. schools and a federal court order that directed local school authorities to admit Negro students to schools in Little Rock.

Faubus threatened to call out the National Guard to back up his defiance of the Federal courts but the Federal government intervened and law and order was maintained. The hotheads on both sides were restrained and the moderates prevailed.

Since that skirmish at Little Rock good progress has been made in other southern states, and the progress, generally, thanks again to the moderates, has been peaceful. Unfortunately our family troubles gave us a bad reputation thruout the world for the time being.

Now Governor Faubus is retiring as governor of Arkansas, an office he has held twelve years. Public life for him was not a happy experience. Circumstances put him in a difficult position from which, by his standards and the standards of his friends, there could be no honorable withdrawal. We bear him no ill will.

Kennedy and Free Trade

President Kennedy has been beating the drums for tariff cuts, and he has asked for power to reduce trade barriers. He has taken a firm position in favor of the common market idea, and free trade among free nations.

His recent decision to boost the tariff on two commodities, carpets and glass, therefore came as a surprise both here at home and abroad, and considerable resentment in those countries that have been selling these products to us. This contradictory action justifies a question as to his sincerity as an advocate of the common market idea.

The Winnipeg Tribune, in commenting on the situation, reminds us that "tariffs are like sin — in theory nearly everyone is against the idea. But theoretical opposition to sin has not been completely successful in its elimination or in bringing about universal virtue. Nor does verbal condemnation of tariffs always lead to their disappearance. The paths to virtue and free trade can be long and rough." And the Tribune concludes:

> "Reports from Washington indicate that the Kennedy administration is beginning to feel that it should pay more attention to the home front and place less emphasis on international affairs, including international trade. Congressmen from areas troubled by unemployment are becoming more and more restive about the effect imports and foreign competition may be having on the factories or mines in their home states.
> "It will require a great deal of stamina and conviction on the part of the President to remain firm against this kind of pressure in his program for freer trade. The same thing applies to Ottawa. The federal government will undoubtedly be bombarded with requests for protection from manufacturers who fear outside competition in today's shifting trade patterns. For the sake of the long-term prosperity of the Western world, we hope that those in authority in Ottawa, Washington and other capitals will be successful in resisting such restrictionist pressures."

Thirty-seven Paid Fines

Grand Forks police put in a busy day one day last week when they cracked down on speeders in all parts of the city. Thirty-seven paid fines for fast driving and a few contributed additional sums for various other violations that were discovered in the process. That day the Grand Forks police earned a week's pay and deserve a vote of thanks from all of us.

Maybe we could hire a few of them to come over here on their day off and put on a similar demonstration. We have drivers who should be reminded the painful way that city streets are not for speeding and mufflers were put on cars for a purpose. Their number seems to be increasing, and probably will continue to increase as long as they are not restrained.

Campaign Year Logic

President Kennedy is pushing hard to get a new farm program established. There must be reduced production to cut surpluses, he says. He also is plugging for the Garrison diversion project in North Dakota that will make Missouri river water available for the irrigation of 250,000 acres of semi-arid land. The cost of this project is estimated at $183 million. This is desirable, the President thinks, because it will make these lands more productive.

And so our great leader wants more land taken out of production because we already are producing too much and he wants to make other lands more productive so we can produce still more. Strange fellow this president of ours, but this is a campaign year, and what business is it of ours what they do with our tax dollars?

Incidentally, by our arithmetic, spending $183,000,000 to irrigate 250,000 acres of land means that they will be spending $732 an acre to make that land more productive. Does that figure?

Inflation Has Its Victims

(Detroit Lakes Tribune)

Inflation, which we apparently are experiencing, has its victims. In its current issue Readers Digest lists college students, the aged and the chronically ill as three groups which have been hit especially hard. There are others too, the reports indicate.

Despite U. S. cost-of-living figures which show an average rise of 23.1 per cent over the past decade, Oscar Schisgall writes, many essential costs have risen from 100 to 300 per cent. College tuition and board today are in many places, double what they were in the 1940's. Medical costs have gone up 47.4 per cent. The poor and aged, many of whom live in rooming houses and eat in restaurants, face similarly spiraling costs.

A pencil that cost two cents 10 years ago now costs six cents, Schisgall writes; a typewriter, which cost $130 10 years ago, was replaced this year by a new one costing well over $200.

The article, titled "Hidden Hazards of Inflation," also notes that the tax collector profits on the 23.1 per cent increase in the cost of living: the man who earned $4,000 10 years ago, must get $5,000 this year just to keep up. Yet he paid 20 per cent income taxes on his $4,000 salary and must pay 22 per cent on the higher figure, with no increase in his real income.

"Inflation," he concludes, "is a national problem, a national hazard which affects the lives and fortunes of each of us."

A bright future—for young people
Having money to spend when you need it is a key to success. Here are a few good rules to help young people save:
1. Keep your eyes on your long range goals; college, a business of your own, marriage, a home.
2. Make saving a habit. Pay yourself first by putting something aside regularly out of your allowance and earnings.
3. It does make a difference where you save. Here your money earns excellent returns and is safe . . . insured by a U. S. Government agency.

ASC Cites Chance for Farmers & Sportsmen to Work Together

Sportsmen can help farmers to carry out wildlife practices says Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall county ASC committee at Warren. He announced today that a new ruling by the Department of Agriculture now makes it possible for sportsmen and other conservationists to help farmers in establishing wildlife conservation practices on their farms.

He pointed out that the rate of federal cost-sharing for the so-called "G" practices under the Agricultural Conservation Program is approximately 50 per cent of the average cost of performing the practices. For example, if a G-1 practice, planting 5.0 acres of corn, is approved and carried out, the cost-share payment earned by the farmer is $25.00, 5.0 acres times $5.00 per acre.

Up to this time the department has ruled that if a sportsmen's club contributed a part of the cost the payment to the farmer would be proportionately reduced. This has now been changed, Mr. Johnson said. Under the new ruling the farmer will be eligible to receive the full cost-share payment earned provided the contribution to the cost of carrying out the practice by an ineligible producer such as a sportsmen's club, State wildlife agency, etc., does not exceed the Federal cost-share rate per acre.

Johnson indicated that the new ruling should prove a greater incentive to farmers and sportsmen alike for the performance of wildlife conservation practices, particularly the planting of food plots and shrubs on diverted acres under the 1962 Feed Grain and Wheat Stabilization programs and the development of shallow water areas on farmland.

"All persons interested in this new phase of ACP operations are urged to contact their county ASCS offices for details," Mr. Johnson said, suggesting also that farmers and sportsmen should get together to carry out these beneficial practices all over the State. He commented that every sportsman has some farmer friends who would be cover and food plots with the help of this new incentive. Through the cooperation of sportsmen's clubs and others interested in improving wildlife areas with the farmers, the need for distribution of feed under conditions similar to last winter are very remote, said Mr. Johnson.

Parents Urged by Doctors to Train Children to Think

Thinking Ability Doesn't Come Naturally, State Medical Assn. Points out

"Use your head. What's the matter, can't you think?"

Everyone has heard statements like this made to a child. In fact, almost every parent in a moment of exasperation has yelled at a child not to be a "dummy".

Do statements like this really accomplish what we want them to do? Do such comments encourage children to think more clearly, or do they confuse and fluster?

The ability to think, says the Minnesota State Medical association, does not come naturally. It cannot be yelled or screamed into development. Thinking is a seed that has to be planted, coaxed and encouraged.

A parent can help a child learn to think by letting him ask, talk and converse. Children's questions should be treated with respect, and their opinions should be sought. This does not mean a child should be catered to, but it is often wise to answer a question with a question—ask the child how he would answer the question he just asked—ask him what he thinks about it.

Developing a child's thinking, says the Association, takes time, patience, and understanding. It takes an awareness that no two children are the same, that they learn in different ways, that their interests are constantly changing and growing.

For a child's thinking process to flourish to its full capacity, parents have to make some contributions. Thinking doesn't come naturally. Meals on schedule and a pat on the head aren't enough. But the extra effort in helping a child grow intellectually will result in growth for both the parent and the child, and provide each with continuing and increasing pleasure.

Tree-planting in State Sets Record

State Distributed 32.5 Million Trees in 1961

Minnesota had its biggest tree planting year in history in 1961.

It was the second year in a row that the state set a new tree-planting record. In 1961 32.5 million trees were distributed to some 6,600 farmers and small woodland owners by state division of forestry nurseries.

According to William R. Miles, extension forester at the University of Minnesota, this was an increase of 63 per cent over the 19.9 million trees put out in 1960 and 138 per cent above the 13.7 million trees provided in 1959. Ten years ago, public agencies supplied about 3.3 million trees, so the 1961 planting was 10 times that of a decade earlier, says Miles.

In addition to trees provided by the state, private land owners in Minnesota obtained an estimated 2.5 to 3 million trees from commercial nurseries in 1961.

"We've made tremendous progress in recent years, but we have a long road ahead before realizing the full potential of our forest land productivity," says Miles. "Many of the tree plantings the past few years have been on lands withdrawn from agricultural production. While such plantings are excellent from any point of view, they are not helping solve the critical problem of converting unproductive forest lands to those with timber stands which will add to Minnesota's future economic wealth.

The story of the Palms

There were hundreds of trees along the Bethany Road. But no one noticed them. People were hastening over those last few miles, bound for Jerusalem to celebrate the feast.

Then the King passed by. A gentle Galilean with kind, sorrowful eyes — riding to His coronation.

People cheered and shouted Hosanna. Some laid cloaks on the dusty roadway. And then, someone discovered the trees . . . beautiful palms that had stood unnoticed. Their graceful branches became the carpet of the King!

And when men sought a name for that triumphal Sunday, they named it for the palms. It is a day for discovering the spiritual beauty God has planted along the road of life — a day to worship Our King.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

If Your Farm Burned During A Windstorm, Who Would Pay?

Many windstorm policies don't cover losses from a fire which starts as the result of a windstorm. This is one example of some of the big differences between insurance policies that look alike. I sell coverage by St. Paul Mutual — the company that gives the farmer extra protection at regular rates. Let me show you how this coverage can mean a lot to you and your family.

Fleetside pickup—most popular Chevrolet truck.

Depend on it to give you an honest day's work for a long, long time and not cost much to run or keep up. It's a Chevrolet.

Trucks aren't all alike. This Chevrolet has double-wall roof, doors and side panels. It has suspension that helps it last longer by reducing road shock. It has a non-skid wood body floor. It has as tough a tailgate as you'll find. It has an all-welded frame made of high-quality steel. Most important, it has a name everybody respects because they know it stands for quality. When you make up your mind to buy, get this one. We know you'll be happy with it.

HAVE YOU LOOKED INTO CAMPER BODIES? This is a fine way to enjoy the outdoors comfortably and at low cost. Many Chevrolet dealers are showing camper units now. Drop by and investigate this great way to make a truck do double duty. A strong Chevrolet is your best bet for work or play.

See your Chevrolet dealer for trucks that keep working and working and working and working!

Proposes Recreation Progra

Mrs. Mosbeck Cites Needs for Retarded Youngsters

Recognizing the need for recreation in the development and welfare of the mentally retarded, the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children has undertaken a project to provide recreation facilities and supervision for retarded children in this area.

"We need t heuse of building facilities, volunteers to help with the children in the recreational area and volunteers to provide transportation," states Mrs. Richard Mosbeck, St. Hilaire, chairman of the Pennington-Red Lake association.

"Meeting the needs of the mentally retarded has been the active concern of many professional and other persons since the early part of the 19th century," Mrs. Mosbeck said. "In recent years the founding of the National Association for Retarded Children, with the aim of meeting the total needs of all retarded, has developed wide interest in providing facilities and services within the framework of the community.

"At present, recreational outlets for retarded are mainly provided in the home. Most parents recognize that individual play is as important for the retarded child as for a child of normal mentality. Children who are busily occupied are happier than the child who sits and does nothing. His sole companion may be his mother, but she can teach him to share and encourage his play ideas.

Need Social Contact

"Although individual play is an important first step in the development of the retarded, this must be complimented by social contacts with other children. Where recreational facilities are not available in the community, it is an unfortunate situation, both for the child or adult and for his family.

"Mothers need a time when they can be away from all their children. This can hardly be a problem with normal youngsters, however," Mrs. Mosbeck said, "because they not only attend school for most of the day but also have friends and outside interests that take them away from home a large part of the time.

"Often the retarded child is not so fortunate, especially if he is in the trainable group—a group with an IQ below 50. He usually has few friends outside of the family and often lacks the imagination to

Wendel To Head Cancer Crusade

Kenneth Wendel, owner of the Wendel Real Estate agency in Thief River Falls, has been named chairman of the American Cancer Society's 1962 Cancer Crusade in Pennington county. Appointment was made by the Minnesota Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Wendel notes that 1962 had been designated as Cancer Progress Year by the American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute in recognition of the "remarkable progress made in the last twenty-five years against cancer in the laboratory, the hospital, the doctor's office and in the public's attitude."

The annual educational and fundraising drive will begin locally April 25. City co-chairmen are Mrs. Walter Halvorson and Mrs. Lester DeBriyn.

"Twenty-five years ago, Wendel explained, "about 160,000 persons in the United States were alive, cured of cancer. If present rates continue, there should be 1,100,000 in 1962."

The Chairman said this improvement is due to two major factors: (1) Developments in the research laboratories which have resulted in improved treatment by surgery, radiation, chemicals, and (2) Public and professional education, combined with more general use of the best methods of diagnosis, treatment and prevention, which have contributed much to saving lives today.

Over the last few years, there has been a pronounced trend toward earlier diagnosis. Earlier diagnosis means a far better chance of cure. Some believe that more can be done against cancer through education than against any other disease, Wendel added.

He appealed for a record turnout of volunteers "to make sure that the progress against cancer will not only continue but be stepped up." Volunteers are urged to call at his office at 105 Second st. E. or phone MU 1-1332.

The chairman added that "educational leaflets must be distributed to save lives now and funds must be raised if the American Cancer Society is to carry on its research, education and service programs. If we all pitch in and do our part, I am sure that we can make 1962 a real Cancer Progress Year."

April has been designated as Cancer Control Month by Congressional Resolution.

Billy Bye To Speak

Athletic Banquet Set Tuesday Night

Attendance of approximately 250 persons is expected for the 12th annual Lincoln high school athletic banquet to be held Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the basement of St. Bernard's Catholic church in this city. Main speaker at the event will be Billy Bye, business manager of the Minnesota Vikings professional football team.

Born and reared in Thief River Falls, Bye is the son of Supt. and Mrs. Morris Bye of Anoka. His father served as superintendent of the Thief River Falls school system for a number of years. Less than a year ago Supt. Bye delivered the address at the Northern Minnesota Education Association banquet held in this city.

Billy Bye attended Thief River Falls and Anoka high schools, winning letters in six sports. He played service football at Great Lakes under Paul Brown, present coach of the Cleveland Browns. He holds a masters degree in philosophy of education and he and his wife, Peggy, have three children, Julie, Jimmy and Mary.

Bye is remembered as a football great at the University of Minnesota where he was a four-year letterman. During his gridiron days he won many awards including selection as most valuable player, three years all-conference halfback and All-American mention. He scored more touchdowns in his career than any University of Minnesota player in history and was also a member of the basketball and golf squads.

After graduation he played professional football and coached at Detroit Lakes, Minnetonka and Edina. In 1951 he played for the Winnipeg Blue Bombers professional football team and later coached there. He has since coached at Detroit Lakes in 1955, Minnetonka in 1958 and Edina in 1959, and was named high school coach of the year in 1960. He was named business manager of the Vikings in 1961.

The banquet for lettermen and cheerleaders at Lincoln high school is sponsored jointly by the Rotary and Lions clubs, Chamber of Commerce and Junior Chamber of Commerce. Tickets are still available at Parkins Corner Drug and J & B Drug and Thief River Pharmacy.

Frank Shelton, director of the Canadian Association of Lions clubs, spoke on the association's project of providing glasses for use in Africa. Much support from Minnesota clubs had been received he said, with many thousands of pairs of used eyeglasses contributed. He urged continued support of the work.

Zane Grey, McIntosh, presided at the social gathering. J. M. Parkins, Thief River Falls, international counselor, and Gordon Reierson, local club president, noted that they had on hand several cartons of used eye glasses which had been collected by northern Minnesota clubs. Sandra Jensen Killed in Crash in Wisconsin

Three Other Students Also Die in Two-Car Crash Near Waterford

Sandra Jensen, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Jensen of Thief River Falls, was among four northwestern Minnesota college students killed Friday night in a two-car crash two miles west of Waterford in Racine county, Wisconsin. All were students at Valparaiso University in Indiana.

Others killed in the crash were David Hansen, 19 and Wayne Brutlag, 21, both of Crookston, and Andrew T. (Teddy) Fladeland, 19, Red Lake Falls. Seriously injured was Lois Brutlag, 18, sister of one of the victims. The students were on the way home for Easter vacation.

According to the Racine Journal-Times, the accident happened in the following manner: "Both highways 83 and 20 are one road going west out of Waterford but separate two miles from the village. Highway 83 curves to the north and highway 20 goes straight on to the west.

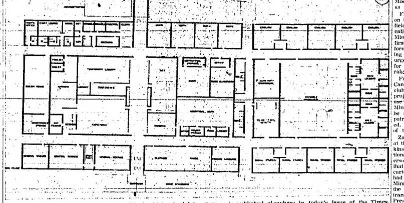
"Authorities believe the westbound Minnesota car was going to continue on highway 20 and in doing so got in the path of (James) Dabel's car rounding the curve from the north on highway 83.

"The intersection has only one arterial stop sign which would not have applied to either auto. The sign stops eastbound traffic on highway 20 approaching the intersection."

Funeral services will be held for Miss Jensen, who died from injuries received in the accident, at Burlington (Wis.) hospital, at 3 p. m. on Wednesday at St. John Lutheran church. Rev. A. C. Seltz will officiate at the services. Visitation hours will be from this evening until 1 p. m. Wednesday at the Sinding Funeral Chapel and at the church one hour prior to services. A complete obituary will be carried in the Thursday edition of the Times.

Stores Closed Friday Afternoon

Thief River Falls stores will again be closed from noon to 3 p. m. on Good Friday to permit employees to attend church services being held during the afternoon. Stores will be open until 9 p. m. Friday evening.



FLOOR PLAN of the proposed junior high school for School District 564 is shown above as outlined by the architects working on the project. Balloting on the special election which will be held Monday, April 23, will be done for the entire district at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. A floor plan of the elementary school which will be connected to the junior high school by a common entrance, is published elsewhere in today's issue of the Times. The junior high school building would include library, cafeteria, gymnasium and heating plant which would serve both the junior high and elementary school buildings. In addition to 15 general classrooms, the above building offers home economics, general science, physical education, health, industrial arts, music and office facilities as well as storage and locker space.

Newfolden FHA Presents Fashion Show Thursday

Expected attendance of about 100 persons swelled to 25 0Thursday evening when the Future Homemakers of America chapter at Newfolden high school held its annual spring style show at the school auditorium. "Easter Parade" was the general theme for the show with garments in school, church and sports categories being modeled.

Approximately 50 girls in grades nine through 12 at the school modeled the garments they had made in high school home economics classes. Also taking part in the show were a number of boys through grade 11 for whom clothing had been made by the FHA members. Younger brothers and sisters, nieces and nephews and neighborhood children of chapter members also participated.

Tribute was paid at the show to chapter mothers—women who have served as adult helpers in the FHA program during the year. Chapter mothers assist girls with their sewing projects and provide assistance in other phases of club work. Honored Thursday evening were Mrs. Joseph Tunheim, Mrs. Lawrence Lubitz and Mrs. Kenneth Moen.

The show was under the direction of Mrs. NeAlda Erickson, home economics instructor at the school for five years, and advisor for the FHA chapter.

DREAMING about Spring when the shade will be real and the casual sports outfit she modeled can be worn outdoors is Virginia Copeland, junior at Newfolden high school. She made the garments she modeled at the FHA style show.

SUNDAY should come seven days a week instead of only once when a girl has the outfit modeled by Sharon Nelson, Newfolden high school sophomore. The white 2-piece suit with jet black accessories was one of the hits of the annual spring style show "Easter Parade" staged by the school Future Homemakers of America Chapter Thursday evening.

LACE ruffles on checked pink belted dresses made a smart combination for Judy Hagen, Newfolden high school junior, and her niece Brenda Mathson of Thief River Falls at the FHA style show in Newfolden Thursday evening. About 50 girls modeled in the show.

The Library Corner

by Eleanor Olson

If you are a bit tired of fiction which deals primarily with the tragic, the sordid or twisted psyches, and yearn to read a novel that is just plain fun, the reviewers have described "A Journey of Matecumbe" by Robert Lewis Taylor in this way.

Victor Has, who reviewed it for the Chicago Tribune, says Taylor tells his story with the same imagination and relish which distinguished Mark Twain's stories about Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer. The story is of a young Civil War Veteran and his 13 year old nephew who defend a fine negro against members of the Ku Klux Klan.

Having permanently "done in" three of the Klans members they are forced to flee. The ensuing flight by flatboat, steamboat, raft and horse takes them to the Florida Keyes and is complicated by thrilling rescues and running fights with the Klansmen.

Extra cross plots develop when the nephew becomes separated from his uncle and is in the keeping of a tart-tongued beauty who is as resourceful in a feminine way on the paths of adventure as is his young uncle. To all of this add a hurricane, buried treasure, smugglers and a "sort-of" reformed pirate and two stormy love affairs.

The end result is a tale peopled with bizarre characters woven together with infinite skill to delight and entertain the reader. It is a novel that bubbles with life and enjoyment and loses nothing by sticking to the high road and keeping its feet out of the gutter.

Quite a different tale of adventure and a long journey which centers around a tropical storm is Gwyn Griffin's "Master of This Vessel." It too is peopled with a fascinating gallery of characters.

An Italian-owned ship bound for Australia with hundreds of passengers, most of them migrant laborers, plus a small number of first class passengers, is caught in a cyclone in the Indian Ocean with 150-mile winds and 70-foot waves.

The old captain has just died and the command is held by a young Italian, Serafino. He is an excellent seaman, but he is also a woefully inadequate diplomat who alienates most of his British crew and the bulk of the passengers. Yet he copes with not only the horrendous storm but with near mutiny as well. The British crew abandons the ship for lifeboats in the comparative calm of the eye of the storm.

When the battered ship hobbles into port after riding out the storm, experienced seamen consider her survival incredible. As Serafino is master of his ship at all times, Griffin is master of the art of story telling. The result is an adventure tale of the high seas of which even Joseph Conrad would have approved.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. HARRY WOOLSON

Here is an old-fashioned cookie recipe that Mrs. Woolson received from a neighbor in 1908 when she and her husband had a claim on the north branch of the Rapid River near Baudette and Clementson. They are crisp and will stay fresh a long time. This is also a good way to use your bacon fryings.

GINGER COOKIES

1 cup molasses (if molasses is real dark, use ¼ cup of syrup in place of some of molasses)
1 cup sugar
¾ cup lard or bacon fryings, and fill the rest of the cup with water
2 tsp. ginger
salt

Mix molasses, sugar, lard, water, ginger and salt in a kettle and place over fire. Let mixture come just to a boil and remove from fire. Stir in 2 tsp. soda. Let it cool enough to mix with your hands and add enough flour to roll out. Sprinkle with sugar and mark them criss-cross with the back of a fork. Cut diamond shape and bake in a quick oven.

Mrs. Harry Woolson, a widow, lives on her farm east of Thief River Falls in Silverton township. She has four daughters, Natalie, Bernice, Raea and Dorothy, who are all married with families of their own.

Mrs. Woolson's hobbies are reading, collecting recipes and poetry. She also likes to write letters and grow flowers.

216 Children Attend Pre-school Roundup Saturday, April 14th

A total of 216 children attended the annual pre-school roundup held Saturday as compared to 205 in 1961.

The roundup, held at Washington school, was sponsored by the local PTA groups under the supervision of Mrs. Merle Lindberg, chairman; Mrs. Randall Noper, and Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse.

Workers at the event included local nurses, student nurses, Girl Scouts and volunteer workers from the Knox, Northrop, Washington, and St. Bernard's P. T. A. groups.

George Stockman, elementary school director, was on hand to answer questions on building assignments. Kindergarten teachers present were Miss Ruth Mickelson, Miss Ella Fiskerbeck, Mrs. Jarvis Prichard, and Mrs. Art Bredeson.

Nurses assisting were Mesdames Jim Nepper, Randall Noper, Andy Williamson, Norman Olson, and Joe Forberg.

Girl Scouts participating were Jeanne Dryden, Mary Jane Gall, Valerie Wells, Mary Patton, Kathy Simons, Debbie Dryden, Roberta Looker, Meg Wurst, and Linda Disse.

The following workers represented the Knox PTA: Mrs. Harold Burrell, chairman, and Mesdames Myrle Carlson and Glen Krenz.

Washington PTA workers were: Mrs. Clarence Waldera, chairman, and Mesdames Herbert Swenson, John Ness, Carl Lee and James Muzzy.

The PTA workers were: Mrs. Woodrow Craik as chairman, and Mesdames Walter Leach, Ray Olson and Phil Hess.

Mrs. R. J. Dryden was chairman of the St. Bernard's PTA workers including Mesdames Jim Womack and Delwin Schob.

Publicity chairman was Mrs. Albert Lafrenz.

Food served to the parents and children was donated and served by PTA members.

Each child who attended the roundup was given an authorization slip which entitles him to a free checkup and free pre-school shots by appointment with his family doctor during the months of April, May and June.

A permit was also given to each child which will entitle him to a free eye examination by one of the local optometrists during May, June or July. This permit must be presented to the optometrist at the time of examination.

A pink dental card was issued to each child, and it is suggested that the child's teeth be examined by a dentist during the summer months. After examination, the dentist will sign the card and this should be brought to school when the child enters next fall.

Grateful for Classes

"As members of the Pennington-Red Lake association, we are most grateful for the special classes and what they mean to the educable and trainable children. However, we feel that a program of recreation must be started and continued if we are ever to meet the needs of all the retarded.

"A program of recreation can provide the retarded with the opportunity to achieve a degree of independence. It can help him to develop mentally, physically and socially. It can give him a will to live—something to which he can look forward.

"Recreation programs can also be of benefit to parents. They can give them at least a partial respite from the daily routine and they will find happiness and satisfaction in the happiness of their child," Mrs. Mosbeck stated. She quotes former President Dwight D. Eisenhower who said:

"In our society, retarded children, like those more fortunate, have full rights to the pursuit of happiness, to a chance to develop their capabilities, and to the blessings of kindness and care."

Work being done by the association and what facilities would be needed will be covered in later editions of the Times.

Offer Contracts To Raise Millet, Sunflower Seed

$4.25 per hundredweight for millet. These crops can be grown on many different soil types and don't require summer fallow or any special type of soil, the county agent said.

Sunflowers may be planted from the middle to the last part of May and millet can be planted in June. Sunflowers are usually planted with a corn planter in rows 40 inches apart. Plants should be six to eight inches apart in the row. Weed control is primarily through cultivation although some chemicals may be used also. Fertilization and other practices will be discussed at the Wednesday meeting.

White Proso millet has large seed and is used for bird and poultry feed. Red Proso seed is three to four times larger than German millet. Rate of seeding and spraying for weed control in millet will be discussed at the meeting Wednesday afternoon also.

Use Present Equipment

"The advantage of both crops is that combines, cultivators, sprayers and seeding equipment is the same as for grain corn and grass and legume crops which are already grown on the farms. Sunflower harvesting requires a special attachement on the combine which can be purchased or custom-made at the farm of the grower," Stelmaschuk said.

of Rhyme & Reason

BY MARY LUNDIN

A HOUSE DIVIDED AGAINST ITSELF cannot stand, states an old saying which has been used for generations. While it is perhaps true to some extent, diversity of opinion and the freedom to express this difference is a heritage which no person in the United States would change. And most certainly there are differences of opinion in the Thief River Falls School District with the April 23 bond election only a week away.

In a personal vein, I sincerely believe that the bond issue should be given support. The need for school extension is apparent. The good points of the plan far outweigh whatever minor points there may be which are not so desirable. And if the community is to progress toward reaching the height of its potential, defeat of the bond issue would be a proverbial "kick in the stomach" in retarding this progress.

In trying to feel the public pulse in regard to the issue, I have encountered everything from enthusiastic endorsement to absolute opposition. Most people have reasons for opposing the issue, and most of these reasons are financial. And again, there is no question that the project is a costly one which will mean sacrifice on the part of nearly everyone in the district. For some the deflation of pocketbook through an increased mill levy will be greater than others.

The strange part of the situation is this—the persons who one would normally expect to be opposed to tax increases are heartily in favor of the school construction. Opposition comes mainly from those whose taxes at present are comparatively small. Owners of business with large inventory and heavy real estate loads are endorsing the plan. Individuals for whom the tax increase would mean an additional $5 to $30 per year are the ones attacking the plan.

Again the opinion is that of individuals who, in this country of God-given freedom, have the right to make a choice. If a person is to look purely at the total cost, discounting the need and the benefits, then I suppose there is good reason for dissention. If a person looks only to the past, then there is perhaps reason for skepticism. If a person looks only at the constant spiral of prices and taxes, then there is likely reason to call a halt to spending.

But if a person looks to the present and the future, then the perspective is much different. There are many far-reaching aspects to the building program beyond the cost figure. An adequate educational system is a necessity for attracting industry. It is essential to give the sons and daughters of our community an equal start in this competitive world with those from other communities. To deny our youth of the best opportunity seems to break faith with our obligation as parents.

Could it be that the people of this area have fallen victim to stagnant thinking? Have we dropped so far into the idea that the only place we can move is backward—that we shouldn't expect to have facilities as good as other communities—that it is safer to do nothing than fear making a mistake—that we lose sight of the basic fact that actions speak louder than words?

The plan proposed is a good one. The buildings designed are sound but not frivolous. Economies to be effected by combined construction, to permit utilization of facilities which will be needed for both schools if built separately, are great. The cost is not prohibitive—only challenging.

Most appalling thing about checking the public pulse is that in many cases the heart has stopped beating. Some people didn't even know there is a bond issue forthcoming. Others apparently don't feel that $1,595,000 is an important enough issue to justify investigating the situation and having their questions answered. Many pass a hasty judgment and then are forced to defend their decision without either fact or enthusiasm. This leads to rumors, ill will and misinformation.

A division of opinion is healthy. A division of a community is not. If the issue succeeds, then let us work together to make it thoroughly successful and cooperate to the fullest extent. If it fails, then let us find out why it failed and attempt to remedy the cause. If a death is required for a rebirth, then let the death be to negative thinking about the future of the community and the re-birth to the beginning of a new era of progress.

CHAMBER L.I.F.E.

Living-Industry-Farming-Education

By Rolly Larson
Manager Chamber of Commerce

What are you for? Do you have a set of principles, some goals, or ideas that you really believe in? Are you an actor or a reactor? Are you 'fer it' or 'agin it'? You'd better ask yourself these questions and be able to substantiate your answers.

On April 23 you and I are being asked to vote 'yes' or 'no' on the proposed school bond issue. If we're going to intelligently place our "X" on the ballot we should discuss the question thoroughly first with those who can answer the questions intelligently.

I am not an expert on solving overcrowded school conditions, or on building design, or sale of bonds or on any other subject for that matter. I have, however, investigated the proposals of the school board and although I do not agree with every last detail, I do believe that the plans are sound and quite practical. I'm going to vote 'yes'.

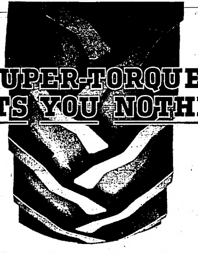
We should all vote 'yes' when we can justifiably work together To Build and To Serve the Thief River Falls area—Here in the Heart of Northwest Minnesota. What are you for?

Two Middle River FFA Boys Named State Farmers

Calvin Anderson and Wayne Larson have become the first members of the Middle River Future Farmers of America chapter to win State Farmer degrees. They were recently notified of their selection among two per cent of the FFA membership in the state. The Middle River Chapter was started in 1955.

Other awards at the FFA parents and sons banquet held last week were Calvin Anderson, chapter dairy farmer; Kenny Beito, chapter beef farmer; Wayne Larson, chapter sheep farmer; and Anderson, DeKalb leadership award. Larry Brummond is vocational agriculture instructor.

GOOD YEAR



SUPER-TORQUE COSTS YOU NOTHING

OUR PLEDGE

The Super-Torque rear tractor tire is guaranteed to have better traction longer and to wear longer than any other rear tractor tire you have ever owned, including the original tires on your tractor.

If in a full season's use from date of purchase, the Super-Torque tires do not prove to have better field traction and show less tread wear than other tires when used under the same conditions for a like period of time, your Goodyear Dealer or Goodyear Service Store upon return of the tires will refund in cash any payment made plus any allowance made for your traded-in tires.

(This guarantee excludes comparison with special purpose Rear Tractor tires.)

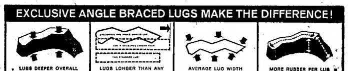
Like all other Goodyear tires, the Super-Torque is also guaranteed by Goodyear against defects in workmanship and material without limit as to time or mileage. Any Goodyear tire dealer will make allowance on a new tire based on original tread depth remaining and current "Goodyear Price."

PROVE IT TO YOURSELF

Try the Super-Torque. If it doesn't outpull and outwear any other rear tractor tire you've ever used, regardless of tractor, soil, or farming job, we'll give you your money back. Every red cent!

There isn't a better tractor tire value than Super-Torque! Field tests by more than 1,000 farmers have proved this. It digs deeper . . . pulls harder . . . wears longer than any other tractor tire. "Angle Braced" lugs are the reason — an engineering breakthrough which allows extraordinary lug length and depth. So much more length and depth that after a full year's use a Super-Torque will probably have more wear and traction left than a brand new conventional tire.

EXCLUSIVE ANGLE BRACED LUGS MAKE THE DIFFERENCE!



LUGS DEEPER OVERALL THAN ANY OTHER TIRE IN AMERICA* Sheer pulling power from a deeper, more positive soil bite.

LUGS LONGER THAN ANY OTHER TIRE IN AMERICA* Greater frontal area to grip more soil, assure greater traction longer.

AVERAGE LUG WIDTH GREATER THAN ANY OTHER TIRE IN AMERICA* More rubber on the road for longer wear, far smoother riding.

MORE RUBBER PER LUG THAN ANY OTHER TIRE IN AMERICA* This is the "working" rubber . . . and the more there is, the longer the tire delivers peak traction and wear.

* Comparison with rear tractor tires other than special-purpose tires.

...all this without lugs tearing or folding under!

Traffic Mishaps, Vandalism, Tool Theft Reported

Eight Windows at Knox School Damaged by BBs Sometime Thursday Night

Police reports from the past several days indicate two traffic accidents, vandalism, a charge of assault and theft of tools from a local service station. There were no citations issued and no injuries in either of the accidents.

The first mishap occurred Thursday at 1 p. m. when a car driven by Donald O. Flattum, city, was traveling north on Horace avenue when struck on the right side by a car driven west on Second street by Mrs. Myrtle Jablinski, city. About $180 damage was done to the Flattum car and $60 damage to the Jablinske vehicle.

The second accident occurred in the alley between Main and Knight avenues behind the Pennington county courthouse. A car driven by Paul Stelmaschuk was backing away from the west curb when it struck a car driven north in the alley by Burton Kvernevig, city. About $10 damage was done to the Stelmaschuk car and $85 to the Kvernevig auto.

It was also reported to police, and investigated by the department, that eight large window panes at Knox elementary school had been damaged by BB's on the south, west and east side of the building Thursday evening. Investigation revealed that windows on a garage at 404 Kendall av. S. had also been damaged.

LeRoy Larson, 19, city, was sentenced to 90 days in county jail with 60 days suspended on condition of good behavior when he appeared in justice court Saturday. He was charged with assault as a result of a fight Friday evening.

Theft of a 10-inch adjustable crescent wrench, two double and ratchet wrenches and a vacuum guage from Fred and Darrell's Mobil was reported last Wednesday. Two hub caps were stolen on April 12 from a car owned by Keith Boyum and were valued at $25.

Fosston Man To Head Gideon Camp During 1962 Year

Axel Taflin Elected At Meeting Held in T. R. Falls Last Week

Axel Taflin of Fosston was elected president of the Thief River Falls Camp of Gideons International at the annual meeting held last week at the Rex Cafe in this city. The dinner meeting was attended by 24 camp members and wives.

Other officers elected include John Wielguth, TRF, vice president; Anton Hall, TRF, secretary; Clifford Vigness, TRF, Vice secretary; Edwin Nystrom, Fosston, treasurer; C. Einar Johnson, Warren, chaplain; David Drotts, TRF, church assignment secretary; C. G. Peterson, Warren, Bible secretarty; Nels Holmberg, TRF, New Testament secretary; A. V. Brodin, TRF, membership secretary; and Norval Torkelson, Warren, camp reporter.

During the past year members of the local Gideons camp appeared in 158 churches in behalf of the Gideon program and received $3,915.44 in the Scripture fund for use in the distribution of Bibles and New Testaments. The quota for the local camp was $2,500. A total of 1,364 Testaments and 49 Bibles were distributed in 1961.

Anton Hall, secretary of the camp, noted that Gideons pay their own travel expense when they visit churches in behalf of the program. This year the Gideons in the United States plan to raise $200,000 among themselves for the Scripture fund. Gideon camps have now been established in 54 foreign countries and 30 per cent of all money collected for the Scripture Fund in the United States goes to foreign nations.

Delay Expected In Shipment from State Nurseries

Individuals, organizations and agencies of local government who have trees on order at state forest nurseries in Minnesota were advised today that shipping may be delayed this year due to the weather.

The Conservation Department's forest nursery chief Ray Clement said Monday that his office is receiving numerous calls from people who are wondering when they can expect their trees.

Clement explained that the trees cannot be dug until the frost is out of the ground and the unseasonably cold weather this spring is holding the frost in the seed beds.

"The earliest we have ever shipped trees is April 1st and the latest was April 30th," he said. "In an average year, we start to ship between April 15-20, but it appears now that this will be a late shipping year."

He explained that even after the frost goes out it takes a week or ten days to get digging and shipping operations into high gear. This year the three state nurseries will ship approximately 38 million trees.

Witnesses Plan Bemidji Seminar

R. H. Wetenkamp, presiding minister of the Thief River Falls congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, announced today that organizational arrangments have been completed for a three-day ministerial training seminar to be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 27-29, at the high school Auditorium in Bemidji. According to Mr. Wetenkamp 40 ministers from the Thief River Falls congregation plan to attend.

W. R. Wissman, a special representative from New York City, will serve as chairman of the event and will deliver the main talk of the assembly on Sunday afternoon, April 29, at 3 P. M. on the subject "Who Will Rule the World."

5 TRF Dairymen Attend ABS Bull Committee Meet

Five Thief River Falls men were among more than 500 dairymen from a four-state area who attended a Holstein bull committee meeting at the Edward Heuer and Sons farm at Norwood recently. The group considered the breeding value of the Heuer Holstein herd sire, Ormsby Heuers Duke.

The sire had recently received the Gold Medal award from the Holstein-Friesian association. He has 17 daughters with 19 records averaging 16,423 pounds of milk, 3.87 per cent butterfat and 636 pounds of butterfat. His 23 classified daughters average 82.3 per cent. With 143 committeemen voting, 141 voted approval of use of the bull.

With the approval of the group, the bull will be mated to over 15,000 cows within his first year in the American Breeders Service stud through the use of frozen semen. Those from Thief River Falls attending the meeting were Clyde Christensen, Don Bruggeman, Maynard Mehrkens, Marty Carrieo and Clayton Mathson. Harry Nelson of Hallock and Guy Lewis of Pelham also attended.

Voluntary Motor Vehicle Check Is Planned for May

40 Communities in State Will Conduct Programs To Inspect Car Safety

Voluntary motor vehicle inspection programs in 40 Minnesota communities will be kicked off officially on May 2, when State Highway Department employees take their cars through a safety check lane in St. Paul.

The state employee program to be held on the employee parking lot on Rondo street in St. Paul, will begin a series of safety programs which will cover the state from Ada to Wadena during May and June.

"You join the circle of safety Check Your Car — Check Your Driving — and Check Accidents," a Highway spokesman pointed out, "when you take your car through a safety check lane."

Voluntary organizations give motorists an opportunity to take advantage of a free 10-point vehicle safety check. The ten items to be safety-checked are: brakes, front and rear lights, steering, exhaust system, tires, glass, windshield wipers, rear view mirror and horn."

In the 40 voluntary programs conducted last year in Minnesota, 32,493 vehicles were given the "safety-check" inspection. Of these 5,921 were found to be defective in one or more of the ten points. The items needing most attention were rear lights, front lights, brakes and exhaust systems.

The safety check program is conducted nationally in the 32 states not requiring periodic motor vehicle inspection by law. ONE out of SIX of the more than 3,500,000 vehicles voluntarily safety-checked during 1961 were in need of correction.

In Minnesota, the voluntary safety check lane program for communities is coordinated by the Safety division of the Minnesota Highway department, in cooperation with the Minnesota Automobile dealers, the Northwest Automotive Wholesalers association and local safety, civic and service organizations, with assistance of local police departments and sheriffs' offices.

Second Session Scheduled for Pre-Natal Classes

Second series of pre-natal classes on child care will be offered to prospective parents beginning May 2 at Northwestern Hospital in Thief River Falls. Information of interest to all prospective parents, whether or not the child will be the first, will be provided at the sessions.

The first series of sessions was held in January with about 30 people registering for the classes. Registration blanks for the course are available at any of the local clinics but advance registration is not necessary for attendance at the meetings.

Persons attending need not be patients of a local physician or plan to have their child born at Northwestern hospital. Classes will be held each Wednesday through May 23 from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. in the hospital cafeteria. Coffee will be served at the close of each evening session. Any expectant parents, mothers or fathers, within driving distance of the city are invited to attend.

Princess Kay to Offer Treats at Gillette Hospital

Crippled children at the Gillette State Hospital here will get their pre-Easter treat from Princess Kay of the Milky Way despite cancellation of the 10th annual Northwest butter cookie contest.

The state dairy princess, Diane Kramer of Worthington, will visit the hospital Thursday, April 19, as originally scheduled.

Instead of distributing butter cookies from the contest as has been done in past years, Miss Kramer will give the youngsters ice cream treats.

"Members of the Minnesota dairy industry committee staff have decided to make the ice cream treat their personal project for the youngsters this year," according to Manager Lew Conlon.

This year's butter cookie contest was cancelled at the request of St. Paul city health officials who expressed concern over the possible spread of infectious hepatitus, a virus that can be carried by food.

Knox PTA Will Elect Officers In City Tonight

Election of officers following a report from the nominating committee and nominations from the floor will be the principal item of business when the Knox elementary school Parent-Teacher association meets at 8 p. m. tonight in the school gymnasium. George Stockman, director of elementary education, will be the guest speaker.

Members of the nominating committee include Norman Capistran, chairman, Mrs. Arnold Kelly and Mrs. Harland Lee. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Harold Burrell, Mrs. Glenn Krenz, Mrs. Francis Hamerlinck and Mrs. Ragnvald Engevik, mothers of sixth grade students.

Gov. Anderson To Give Greenbush Sheep Days Talk

Governor Elmer L. Andersen will speak at the Greenbush Sheep Days banquet on Wednesday, June 6, according to William N. Provance, Roseau county agent. The banquet, to be held at 7 p. m. in the school auditorium, will climax a full day of activities. The event is sponsored by the Minnesota Sheep Producers Association.

The morning program will include a 4-H and F. F. A. sheep and wool judging contest, a sheep fitting contest and the judging of market pens of lambs. In addition, the preliminary events of the sheep shearing contest will be run.

The afternoon informational program will feature some well-known sheep authorities and this will be followed by the finals in the senior and junior divisions of the shearing contest.

A sheep shearing school will be conducted on Monday and Tuesday, June 4 and 5, by Ed Warner at the Sheep Palace in Greenbush.

LHS Counselors Attend Bemidji Meeting Friday

Orall B. Johnson and John Ziegler, respective junior and senior high school counselors at Lincoln high school, attended a meeting of area counselors held Friday in Bemidji. Organization of the Northwest Counselors Association took place at the meeting and officers were elected for the coming year.

Speakers from the state department of education included Charles Shubat, supervisor of private trade schools, and Raynold Erickson, supervisor of guidance and counseling.

Times Editor Is Judge of Missouri Newspaper Event

Judging of daily newspapers for agricultural news coverage in the Missouri Press Association newspaper contest was recently completed by Marvin Lundin, city editor of the Times. Referral to the Times for a judge was made to the Missouri association by Ralph Keller, executive secretary of the Minnesota Newspaper association, after the Times placed first in agricultural news coverage among Minnesota newspapers in 1961.

Father of Local Man Dies at 80

George Sheffer of Goshen, Indiana, the father of Carl M. (Monte) Sheffer of this city, died Saturday following a long illness. He was in this eightieth year, and is survived by three daughters and two sons.

TWO CARS involved in the collision which claimed the lives of four northwest Minnesota youths enroute home from Valparaiso University in Indiana are inspected in the above photo by a Wisconsin highway patrolman. Among the students killed in the crash were Sandra Jensen, 19, Thief River Falls; Andrew T. (Teddy) Fladeland, 19, Red Lake Falls; David Hansen, 19, and Wayne Brutlag, 21, both of Crookston. The crash occurred about two miles west of Waterford, Wis.

Kenneth Wendel, who has been named county crusade chairman, selects a bundle of booklets which will be included in each packet which solicitors will use. Surveying the procedure are Mrs. Lester DeBriyn (left) and Mrs. Walter Halvorson, city chairmen. SCIENCE TOPICS

THE DOCTOR SAYS, 'WALK, DON'T RIDE'

Walk up stairs, urges Dr. Joseph T. Freeman of Philadelphia. He contends that bone defects occur less often in persons who climb apartment house stairs than those who live in single-story homes. Steps, Dr. Freeman says, are an ideal exercise to retain muscle tone and keep a sound bone structure. Elevators, escalators and ramps may make life easier, he says, but he doubts that they make it any helthier.

Part of the U. S. Air Force X-15, an experimental rocket plane for manned space flight, grew hot as an ingot in a steel mill when pilot Joe Walker hit a record 3,920 m. p. h., almost six times the speed of sound.

Experiment of the week—Here's a simple way to demonstrate the operation of a fire extinguisher: Drop some baking soda in a glass jar. Lower a burning candle into the jar. It will continue to burn. Now pour water into the jar and lower the candle again. The flame goes out. Reason? Water reacts with the baking soda to produce a gas, carbon dioxide, which immediately smothers the flame. Many commercial and residential extinguishers operate on this principle.

Think you lose mental ability as you age? Well, University of Washington researchers have taken pot shots at this venerable assumption. A 12-year study conducted at the school indicates that there may be no particular decline in the I. Q. of elderly persons who remain healthy and vigorous and that a drop in intelligence probably isn't part of the aging process at all.

California has more autos—7,800,000 than 43 of our states have people.

Electronic control has been applied to bacon slicing. Next time you open a package, see if the end slice is of different thickness from the others. Allbright-Nell says that final slices are guaged electronically to make the exact weight for half-pound, pound and two-pound packages. And it's automatically done in less than one-twentieth of a second.

Five thousand lives usually lost in auto accidents will be saved annually by 1973 due to the improved design of the superhighways which make up the U. S. interstate highway system, says the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. The system, which will link all major population centers, will be completed in 1972.

Ancient Romans, archeologists have discovered, liked lead. They sheathed the bottoms of their ships with it. The floors of Roman baths were lined with lead weighing 40 pounds to the square foot. A Roman coffin made of lead has been found which weighs 400 lbs. Roman ladies even used white lead as a cosmetic, a practice more likely to be carried on today by morticians than beauticians.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture

Good sugar bush harvesting is one way of converting labor into cash. Extension Foresters at the University of Minnesota say that sap flow in maples usually starts when day temperatures reach 43 degrees. Best sap runs are on warm days followed by freezing nights. Sap flow may last from 17 days to 3 or 4 weeks depending on the weather.

"My fields were getting so bad I hardly could work across them," remarked Henry Lund, cooperator with the East Polk Soil Conservation District. SCS technicians laid out seven waterways on Lund's fields to stop erosion and to carry off water safely. Next year Lund plans to put in several short terraces to hold more soil and water on his sloping fields.

First farmer in Goodhue County to grow his entire 85-acre corn crop without row cultivation or any other tillage after planting was Paul Wenzel, of Vasa township. His minimum tilled contour strips yielded 90 to 150 bushels per acre. According to Arnold F. Wiebusch, county soil conservation agent, about one-half the acreage was second and third year corn; the balance followed alfalfa-brome. Wenzel fertilized according to soil test, disced his fields once or twice, plowed 8 to 10 inches deep and planted in loose soil—not in the wheel track. Atrazine was broadcast immediately after planting at 2.6 pounds of active ingredients per acre. Wiebusch says the low 90 bushel yield was from a field a previous operator had left idle because of rock and sand outcroppings and continuous low productivity problems.

Improved management practices probably will reduce a corn grower's cost per acre by $7 to 8 within the next 10 years, say soil specialists at the University of Minnesota.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by visiting or writing the VA contact office at the Fargo VA Center.

Q—Are those who fought in the Mexican Border campaign against Villa in 1916 eligible for veterans benefits?

A—They are eligible to receive a burial flag at the time of death. Although other benefits have been proposed in Congress, no legislation for benefits has resulted.

Q—Must an eligible war orphan attend college to take advantage of the War Orphans Education Assistance act?

A—No. Vocational training and other subjects that will help toward a career are permitted. All subjects must be above the high school level, however.

Q—Can inductees and draftees entering service now secure GI life insurance?

A—No. GI insurance in any form is no longer available.

Q—What is the maximum length of pre-bed care for patients at VA hospitals?

A—This has just been increased from 7 to 14 days. The VA hopes the step will enable its hospitals to treat even more patients, without increase in number of beds or staff members.

Q—Must a $10,000 G.I. term insurance policy be converted to permanent plan type insurance all at once?

A—A veteran may convert as little as $1,000 (or more, of course) to a permanent plan while retaining the remainder as term insurance. In this way, he can stretch the conversion over several years in keeping with his own financial condition.

Q—How many veterans have thus far taken advantage of the VA home, farm or business loan program?

A—More than 6 million veterans had made such loans up to December 31, 1961.

Q—Are any survivors of the Mexican War still alive?

A—No, since this war ended in 1848, more than 110 years ago. However, there are still two widows of Mexican War veterans alive in the United States.

Q—Does the VA set standards for prosthetic devices in this country?

A—The VA has a leading role in supporting and conducting research and development of prosthetic and sensory aids, in cooperation with other Government agencies, universities, industrial organizations, and private agencies. Also, the VA is the largest single purchaser of prosthetic devices in the United States. Thus the VA exercises considerable influence on the quality of appliances and services furnished by the prosthetics industry not only to veterans but to all disabled persons. Primarily as a result of this influence, prosthetic devices have been greatly improved in the past 16 years.

Q—What educational benefits have been provided for peacetime veterans?

A—Although Congress has considered several types of educational benefits for peacetime veterans, none have passed into legislation as yet.

Q—Are peacetime disability compensation payments the same as those received by wartime veterans?

A—Peacetime disability compensation rates are paid at 80 per cent of the corresponding wartime rates.

Q—As a World War II veteran with GI term insurance, can I convert part of my $10,000 term insurance to a permanent plan?

A—You may convert as little as $1,000 or more in multiples of $500. . such as $1,500 or $2,500. . at one time.

Q—I am the widow of a World War I veteran. In January, 1960, I was told I was not eligible for VA pension because my husband did not have a compensable service-connected injury when he died. I have heard that requirement has changed. Is that true?

A—Yes. Since July 1, 1960, you are eligible for pension if your husband had 90 days of active service in World War I, and was discharged under other than dishonorable conditions.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL

Any old timers about your parts who brag of hunting in the "good old days" before they invented game wardens? If so, you might check on their veracity as well as their age because 1962 is the year that game wardens celebrate their diamond anniversary.

It was in 1887, just 75 years ago, that the legislature stopped spring duck shooting, gave moose and elk some protection and authorized the appointment of a game warden by the Governor. This warden could appoint deputies and stated, "All fines to go to the game wardens and his deputies for their time, labor and expense". The Governor was also authorized to appoint a fish warden for a two-year term with a $200 a year salary.

These fish wardens seem to have become extinct. I presume they became fat and lazy on their $200 a year salary and were overridden by the more vigorous unpaid game wardens.

The early wardens with their daring and cunning deeds have added many colorful chapters to the book which has developed into the legend of the game warden. Their methods may have been a little crude but these men laid the foundation for a modern warden service of proving that game law enforcement is essential to maintaining game to hunt and fish to catch. In this, there can be no change because where there are people there must be laws and, because people are people, ther must be men to enforce the laws.

The evolution from the first unpaid "woods sleuths" to the highly respected officer of today has been a long up-hill grind. Many of us can remember when the warden was strictly one to be avoided. Today if a warden retires there is an immediate cry from the community to replace him with all possible haste. This speaks well for the community—proving that the vast majority believe in game law enforcement. It also speaks well for the wardens who have attained stature in their communities and proved the need for their services.

I believe the demand for services of the warden stem from more than his law enforcement work, important as that is. By expanding his activities he has increased his value to the community by becoming a wildlife consultant at conservation meetings, a conductor of wildlife surveys, a source of information on game and fish matters, a means of communicating with the Conservation Department, an advisor on the development of conservation projects and working with local volunteers, a teacher or manager of firearm safety training classes.

The game warden has broadened his horizon and grown in stature because of it. This broadening of horizons will continue as the warden takes on ever-increasing duties and greater responsibility. Soon the Minnesota warden service will be assigned the important job of buying and developing public access to our lakes and, before this year ends, they, along with many other Conservation Department people and dedicated volunteers, will be embarked on making a success out of the most ambitious conservation education program for youth which we have ever undertaken.

How will they do all this and enforce the game and fish laws too? Well, I don't really know just how. It may take a few more of them. And, more important, you may have to help them more. But it is true that I don't exactly know how they will do it. I just know they will.

In the future, as in the past, they will grow with their responsibilities and you will find them an ever increasing influence for good in your community.

Wind, Snow and Ice Slow Hetteen Journey

March 12, 1960

Although we had to combat the roughest snow we have seen thus far, we covered 50 miles today. The going was so tortuous it was hard to imagine how the machines could hold together; but they did and they worked steadily all day.

Winds that reached a velocity of 60 miles an hour whipped up an almost continuous cloud of mingled snow, silt and fine sand that covered us and our machines and cut the visibility to 600 feet or less. We could not see each other's machines at times, and for that reason kept as close together as possible.

The wind-blown sand and silt, whipped up from river sand bars laid bare by the steady winds, peppered our faces and penetrated our camping gear. We were concerned that the abrasive action of the silt and sand might affect the operation of the engines.

When we came to areas of glare ice on the river, the wind was so strong it would cause our heavy rigs to drift and sometimes swing like a weather vane. The wind was so strong we could not stand up to it without support.

At several places today, we encountered rough ice and snow, with hummocks three feet high, which had been built up by wind action or stream pressure, or both. Getting across these areas required extreme care to avoid damage to the machines as they climbed across the hummocks or twisted around them.

Toward the end of the day, we were trying to reach one of the Yukon passes so we could camp beyond it. But the wind forced us to turn back and we retraced our trail for two miles to take shelter in the lea of a hill. There we set up just the pop-up tent. We were too tired to make our usual two-tent camp.

All of us slept in the small tent, crowded as it was. By using the single tent it will save valuable time in the morning when we break camp, and we will be able to get an earlier start.

This evening Bessie fixed a very good hot meal that made us feel better.

Right now it seems as though I had never done anything but drive Sno-Travelers on the Yukon.

In trying to get by the pass this afternoon, we took Rudy Billberg's small Trailblazer machine out ahead, but the wind blew us off course and we were afraid of getting lost in the blinding snow. The rest of the party was completely out of sight. We turned and came back.

So far our greatest enemy on the trip has been the high winds, and nine times out of 10 they seem to be head winds.

It is unbelievable what type of terrain these roadless machines will go over and keep on running.

Every turn we take on this giant sleeping river brings new and different things that are interesting and exciting. Even with the problems we have had we have enjoyed every moment of the trip so far.

After pitching camp this evening we could plainly see the stars in the sky and an eclipse of the moon through the continuing storm of ground drift.

Rudy Billberg, who has had a good many years of experience as an Alaskan bush pilot and knows the Yukon and its moods just about as well as any Alaskan, gave us his explanation of the shrieking north-northeast winds that have been roaring down the Yukon valley in this area.

Rudy believes that the build-up in wind velocity here is the result of a natural venturi. He explains that the wind has been in the right direction to pass right down the river valley at this point, where 1,800-foot hills hem the river on both sides, forming what amounts to a natural chute, or tube.

Billberg says he has seen this phenomenon before, and to explore the soundness of his theory he has flown several miles to either side of the river channel on occasions like this only to find that the wind was moving with much less force at a distance from the river valley.

Finance Official Speaks Friday at Vocational School

Donald R. Schmidt, executive secretary of the Minnesota consumer Finance association, Minneapolis, Friday presented a program to the business education classes of the area vocational school on the subject of "Consumer Finance". The program consisted of a showing of a 12 minute color cartoon film called "The Littlest Giant", a talk by Schmidt with blackboard illustrations, and a question and answer period.

Al Torkelson, manager of Nides Finance company, arranged for Schmidt's visit to the local school.

Retriever Club Organized Here; Ekeren Elected

Club Secures Permission To Use Glenn Jorde Farm As Dog Training Area

O. G. "Ole" Ekeren was elected first president of the Thief River Retriever Club at the official organization meeting held Thursday evening in the city auditorium in this city. Twenty-three charter members are included in the organization.

Other officers elected include John Moum as vice president and Harry Pluth as secretary-treasurer. Ekeren reminds dog owners that while club members are primarily interested in retrieving, membership is open to any dog owner wishing to give his dog obedience training.

Pluth announced that the club has received permission from Glenn Jorde to use his farm for training purposes. The farm is located about two and one-half miles north of the city along the river, about a mile north of the old golf club bridge. He stated that the location is excellent since it is only a few minutes drive from town and the farm has excellent water, marsh and soil bank land for dog training.

Dr. J. L. Erickson volunteered the use of a chicken coop on his property to house pigeons which would be used by the club. Officers were authorized to spend club funds for purchase of pigeons and materials necessary to repair the coop. Several members volunteered to spend Saturday afternoon making the needed repairs.

Using his own black labrador, Pockets, Pluth demonstrated the basic principles of training a young dog. He stressed the importance of obedience training before field work could begin. A field demonstration will be held Sunday afternoon at the Stan Gibson farm three miles east and two miles north of the city. Anyone interested is invited to watch the demonstration.

Goodridge Plans Athletic Banquet

Marv Helling, head football coach at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks, will be guest speaker at the first annual athletic banquet to be sponsored by the Goodridge Lions club at 7 p. m. Friday, April 27, in the Goodridge school gymnasium.

Banquet tickets are now on sale at $1.50 each and sports fans in the Goodridge area are urged to get their tickets early for the event. Lions club members believe that the banquet is probably one of the best ways the community can show athletes that their efforts are appreciated, reports Robert J. Towne, first vice president of the Goodridge Lions club.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Welcome, Bill

One of the city's most illustrious native sons, Billy Bye, will be making a visit to his home town on Tuesday evening. Bill will be the featured speaker at the 12th annual athletic banquet.

Bill grew up here in town, and was a stellar member of the north Arnold avenue athletic club. After moving through the grade school ranks, Washington school, Bill entered Lincoln high school and became a Prowler varsity star. In his sophomore year, Bill was a member of coach Willard Kottke's Prowler varsity football squad that compiled a four wins and two losses record. During the 1942-43 basketball season, Billy was a member of coach Glenn Hanna's squad, and this team, although posting an ordinary nine wins and nine losses record, reached the finals of the District 31 tournament. In the finals, with the score tied at 29-all, Bob Nelson of the Climax Vikings lofted a one-handed shot into the west basket on the local court to give the Vikings their first and only district cage title.

The Bye family moved to Anoka at the end of Bill's sophomore year, and Bill turned in a pair of spectacular years down there. Following service in the navy, Bill enrolled at Minnesota, and for three years was a mainstay in the Golden Gopher backfield.

Calling All Baseball Fans

The Thief River Falls baseball organization will hold a pre-season meeting at the Elks Club at 8:00 P. M. tonight, Monday.

The purpose of the meeting will be explore the possibilities—of fielding a pair of teams again this season. Last year, the Thieves played in the Norman-Polk league, and the Bums were members of the Penn-Ro-Shall league. It is reported that the Penn-Ro-Shall league will be expanded this season to include such teams as Kennedy, Stephen, Karlstad, and perhaps Middle River. Teams in the circuit last season, in addition to the Bums, were Plummer, Goodridge, Florian, Greenbush, and Badger.

Please be in attendance at this evening's meeting, fans.

It Earned a Laugh

Dale Telle, the former Grand Forks Central athlete, and later a place-kicking specialist for the North Dakota Sioux, provided the comic relief and eased the tension considerably at the Sioux Indoor Relays on Saturday afternoon.

Telle, who is an ardent and successful hunter, is a close personal friend of the veteran track-meet starter Arnie Bakke, who was starting the running events in the relays. Just as Bakke fired the pistol to start the boys off on the first heat of the mile run, Telle, from the north balcony, tossed a drake mallard duck on the track, the bird just missing the surprised Bakke.

Telle related that he had planned this "dead bird" for a long time, ever since last fall's hunting season. At that time he placed the mallard in the deep-freeze just for the purpose of proving Bakke's expert marksmanship. It surely earned a laugh.

Park Stickers To Increase to $2

Legislature Adopted Raise at Last Session

Minnesota residents and out of state visitors were reminded today the price of this year's state park vehicle sticker, required for admission to Minnesota State parks, has been increased to $2.00. In previous years state park stickers sold for $1.00.

U. W. Hella, director of state parks in the Conservation Department said the increase is the result of a bill passed by the last legislature to make funds available for expansion of the state park system.

This year the state park visitor will also have a choice of buying either the $2.00 sticker, which permits entry into any state park, or he may elect to buy a 50 cent permit which will be good for two days only at the specific park where the permit was purchased.

Additional charges for camping on a per day basis will be continued as in the past. Hella said the new rate plan follows closely that of Wisconsin, Michigan and Ontario and has been found to work out very well there.

Access Sites To Public Waters In Demand in State

There are over 1½ million fishermen and hunters using Minnesota's streams and lakes each year, pointing up the need for more access sites to these public waters, the Conservation Department said today. Surveys show additional thousands are seeking access to water for water skiing, sight-seeing or other recreational boating pursuits.

Of the more than 700 useable free access areas and several hundred undeveloped areas, the Department's game and fish division has acquired 275 sites. Other sites have been developed by the federal government, counties, villages, cities, sportsmen and local groups.

The division's program of access began in 1947 under a law setting aside certain funds from hunting and fishing license receipts. To speed up the acquisition program, the 1961 Legislature earmarked a percentage of unrefunded gas tax receipts. This new law will make about $160,000 available annually for the program.

Late Smelt Run Seen This Year

Regulations To Remain Same as Last Season

Ice conditions along Lake Superior's North Shore will probably mean an unusually late smelt run this year, according to Hjalmar Swenson, Minnesota Conservation Department fisheries supervisor.

He said when weather conditions are normal the run can be expected to start between April 15 and 20 but that this year he did not expect the fish to start moving in until sometime after April 20.

Regulations pertaining to smelt fishing remain the same as last year. Smelt may be taken with dip nets or minnow seines not more than 25 feet in length nor more than four feet in depth.

Seines may not be used in any stream except the St. Louis river nor in Lake Superior within 100 feet of the mouth of any stream except the St. Louis river. Smelt may be taken and possessed without limit and may be bought and sold at any time. They may not, however, be used for bait or possessed or transported for this purpose.

Swenson explained that the reason for limiting the size of the seine which may be used is due to the great number of people attempting to take smelt in the relatively small beach area where seines can be used effectively.

Placement Tests for Peace Corps Given Saturday

Applicants Invited To Train for 30 Projects On Three Continents

Peace Corps Placement Tests will be given Saturday, April 21, in Civil Service Commission testing centers throughout the country. One of these centers is located at the main post office in Bemidji. All tests will begin at 8:30 a. m.

This new round of tests has special significance: Applicants are now being invited to train for 30 new Peace Corps projects in Africa, Asia and Latin America. Training will begin this summer on college campuses throughout the United States.

Many who take the tests will be applicants who have sent in a Peace Corps questionnaire available at post offices since the last round of testing. Interested persons who have not yet filled out a questionnaire will also be permitted to take the tests. They will be accomodated on a "space available" basis at the testing centers.

Peace Corps opportunities abroad cover many fields teaching, nursing, engineering, plumbing, carpentry, agriculture, medicine, home economics, architecture city planning, geology and physical education. Applicants must be American citizens and at least 18 years of age. (There is no upper age limit; persons 60 and older are performing key Peace Corps jobs overseas). Married couples without dependent children may apply, providing both qualify.

At the testing centers, each person will be given his choice between two types of placement tests. One is for men and women who would like to be considered for positions as teacher. For this, a bachelor's degree is required, but you do not need to be an accredited teacher.

The other test is for everyone else who wants to serve in the Peace Corps. While some projects call for technical skills, many others require men and women without such formal or specialized training. Among these are liberal arts graduates for community development projects and people with general farming backgrounds for agricultural projects.

Cancer Society Seeks To Inform Women of Uterine Cancer Facts

Recently a young woman entered an American Cancer Society office, approached a girl at the desk, and said: "I'm one of those 23,000,000 women you wrote about recently. Can you help me?"

The girl at the desk knew the woman had seen an American Cancer Society educational ad designed to acquaint women with life-saving facts about uterine cancer. The ad, carried by magazines as a public service, said that 23,000,000 women in the United States did not know of a simple medical examination for uterine cancer that could mean the difference between life and death for them.

The woman got her information. "One of the purposes of the local 1962 Cancer Crusade is to see that every woman in Pennington county gets that information," said Kenneth Wendel, county chairman of the Cancer Crusade. "Uterine cancer in its localized stage could be almost 100 per cent curable, yet 14,000 women will die of it this year. What a tragic waste!"

Dr. George N. Papanicolaou of Cornell Medical College, New York developed the "Pap" smear which has made it possible to discover uterine cancer cells in an extremely early stage of the disease. If given routinely as part of the annual health checkup, this simple test might make cervical cancer 100 per cent curable. About 23,000 American women develop this type of cancer annually. The American Cancer Society has set doubling the number of women who receive the 'Pap' smear each year as an immediate goal.

"More women must be persuaded to have annual checkups — checkups which include pelvic examinations and the 'Pap' smear. This is a major phase of our public education program—that ad the young woman saw was part of it," Wendel said.

"But that's only half of the picture. There's also a job to be done in professional education. As more women will want to have the 'Pap' smear, we must also have more physicians and cytotechnologists trained to study cells under the microscope for the structural abnormalities that might mean cancer. Fortunately, the great majority of 'Pap' smears prove to be negative. If abnormal cells are found, the cytotechnologist turns over the slide to the pathologist who makes the final interpretation and judgment."

Wendel cited the attack on uterine cancer as an illustration of the way the American Cancer Society combines its research and educational programs to attack a specific type of cancer. Through its research program, the Society supported the work of Dr. Papanicolaou. Through its public and professional education programs, women are equipped with life-saving facts and doctors with latest information on diagnosis and treatment. It is a combination that has helped save lives. In the past generation the uterine cancer death rate has been cut in half.

"What better reason can we give people for contributing to the Cancer Crusade than that they can help save lives? It's as simple as that. To cure more, give more."

Tips on Storing Winter Garments Given by Agent

Laura Duerst Suggests Best Techniques for Sweaters, Dresses, Hats

Spring is the time to put away wool clothes and bring out the summer cottons you're anxious to wear again. To be sure that your wool clothes will be in good condition when you want them in the fall, store them carefully, suggests Miss Laura Duerst, Pennington county home agent.

To foil the moths, put all clothes away after they've been cleaned and aired. Use a moth preventive such as a spray or moth crystals and put garments in sealed container.

A mothproof garment bag is good for storing dresses because they can be hung free of wrinkles. Dresses will keep their shape in storage if you hang them on well-shaped wooden hangers and close zippers and buttons. Leave enough space between garments to let air circulate and to guard against folds and creases.

Garments that you pack in boxes should be cushioned with tissue paper to reduce wrinkles. Sealed plastic bags will help protect sweaters over the summer months. Winter hats should be stored in sealed boxes to keep them free from dust and from light that will fade them. Put crushed tissue paper in the hat to preserve its shape.

Before packing any garments, check for small tears that need to be mended and sew on any missing buttons.

Storage boxes and bags should be kept in a dry place at a moderate temperature. Often the attic is too hot over the summer and the basement is too damp. If dampness is a problem, pay special attention to storing shoes, purses and belts because leather will mildew. Put these items in boxes on a shelf.

For convenience, label storage boxes, adds Miss Duerst. Then you'll be able to find garments you may want to wear early in the fall.

Wildlife Area Is Bought in Aitkin

Minnesota Conservation Department, section of game, announced today that the Aitkin county board had approved the sale of 8,322 acres of tax forfeited land to the state.

The area will be named the Kimberly wildlife management area and will be developed for use as a public hunting ground and for other recreational purposes.

Dave Vesall, supervisor of the section of game, said the new area consists of 82 per cent marsh and bog with the remaining lands comprising isolate islands and ridges. A general engineering survey is pending to assist in the formulation of exact development plans.

Editorials . . .

"If time be of all things most precious, wasting time must be the greatest prodigality, since lost time is never found again; and what we call time enough always proves little enough. Let us then be up and doing, and doing to a purpose; so by diligence shall we do more with less perplexity."

Higher Education

A California educator points up the need for a reorganization of our system of higher education if we are to meet the problems of rapidly increasing population realistically. He urges that public colleges and universities coordinate their standards, aims and methods on a statewide basis.

This coordination would recognize different responsibilities for a state's junior colleges, state colleges and universities, and would avoid some of the costly duplication of specialized programs and make general education more widely available. The universities should concentrate on advanced undergraduate, professional and graduate education and research, according to the views of T. R. McConnell of the University of California.

In addition to providing an opportunity for a college education to many who would otherwise be financially unable to attend at all, he sees the "outstanding advantages" of junior colleges as providing students whose high school performances were not true demonstrations of their abilities with the "right to try" higher education.

Here in Minnesota there is a very great need for better coordination of state-supported schools of higher education. Instead of each school being a little kingdom unto itself they all should be directed as to purpose and function by one central authority. Only by central authority would coordination be possible.

Our system of public higher education in Minnesota is shamefully wasteful because the first objective of each of our schools is to grow larger. The emphasis is on quantity rather than on quality. Uniformly high standards and the elimination of unjustifiable duplication of "specialties" can be accomplished only by centralized direction.

Government Home Loans

Along five blocks of Parkview Street on the north edge of Wichita, Kansas, a visitor can count 58 vacant houses with small white placards in the front windows warning trespassers away from government property, according to a news roundup by the Wall Street Journal. The not-so-proud owners are the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration, "stuck after foreclosure" of the easy-payment mortgages they insured.

The Wall Street Journal survey covered many cities thruout the country in which a steadily increasing number of the homes that were mortgaged with as little as three per cent down and up to 40 years to pay, are being taken over by the government under foreclosure proceedings.

In ten counties of south Florida FHA's inventory of foreclosed homes now stands at 1,293. In the Lindenwood cooperative housing development at the fringe of New York City stand 23 four-apartment structures, mostly vacant, and the FHA is left holding the bag.

If it were not for the sad fact that it is our tax dollars that are involved in this mess, there would be much to laugh about in the administration of this program and, of course, in the program itself. Administration officials don't like to talk about it.

But Congress should act fast and put an end to the folly. The stupid loan law that was adopted only a year ago at the President's insistence, should be amended back to its original form at once. From the agency's Washington office come estimates that FHA will soon be holding 6,000 homes around Miami and Tampa, Florida. That certainly should justify prompt Congressional action.

Crime and Punishment

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, is concerned about the steady increase of crime in our country, and he is especially concerned about the big increase in youth delinquency. Nearly half of the persons arrested for burglaries and larcenies, and almost two-thirds of those arrested for auto theft, are under 18 years of age, he states.

Hoover isn't impressed with our youth conservation programs and he attributes much of our increased delinquency to coddling by the courts. He said:

> "I can see no difference between the responsibility of a 17-or-18-year-old who willfully robs, assaults or murders and that of an adult who commits the same crime. Each should be held strictly accountable for his act against society.
> "These are not juvenile delinquents. They are vicious young thugs. They should be treated accordingly."

Hoover's report for the year 1960 revealed that arrests of juveniles increased nine per cent while arrests of adults went up only one percent. Girls under 18 contributed greatly to the arrests of females and were up 14 per cent in their age group.

No one speaks with greater authority in this field than J. Edgar Hoover and his recommendations deserve serious consideration. As he has grown in exeprience he has become more thoroughly convinced that firmness in dealing with law breakers is much more effective than the soft approach. As he states it:

> "The basic purpose of the criminal law is to protect society, not the criminal."

Senator Young Speaks

Senator Stephen M. Young, an Ohio Democrat, says that last year's appropriation of $207,600,000 to survey government buildings for fallout shelters "has been an utter waste of taxpayers' money."

He said the shelter program gained impetus during "the hysteria and fear" of the Berlin crisis last year. Now that the hysteria has subsided, "we can calmly appraise the results of this hastily approved appropriation."

We are glad Senator Young has expressed himself so forthrightly and we hope he will continue his criticism of civil defense spending on the ground that it is a waste of money. Unfortunately wasteful spending is not limited to these operations.

DFL and Sales Tax

At a DFL convention in Goodhue county the sales tax question was debated but a motion to oppose a general sales tax failed to carry. The question was referred to a committee for further study.

That is an interesting development. It wouldn't have happened even at a Republican convention a few years ago. But now, surrounded as we are by sales-tax states, we will be forced by necessity to go along with the majority.

Minnesota is one of the few states that does not use this tax to produce a substantial part of its revenue needs. No state having adopted a sales tax has repealed it. In several states that have a sales tax, the voters have increased the tax by popular vote.

The Court Appointment

President Kennedy has received few favorable press comments on his appointment of Byron R. White as Justice of the Supreme Court. Here is David Lawrence's reaction to the President's choice:

> "When a vacancy occurs on the supreme court of the United States, the American people expect the president to consider carefully all lawyers with judicial experience and to select the best man to fill the post. Yet all of the judges today on the federal bench and the chief justices of the highest courts in each of the 50 states of the union were passed over by President Kennedy when he chose Byron R. White to be a justice of the supreme court of the United States.
> "This is the tragic fact that emerges as the American people are told, in effect, that it seemed most important to the president to reward a political henchman and a friend of long standing who has never sat on the bench in a federal or a state or a county or a city court.
> "Without asking the advice of members of congress or requesting the various bar associations to submit the names of prominent lawyers qualified for the post, the president—within a few days after he learned that Justice Whittaker planned to retire — made up his mind quickly to give the post to a friend who has had no judicial experience whatsoever.
> "It certainly must be discouraging to the many judges who have dedicated their lives to the law to find the principles of a merit system being ignored by President Kennedy."

Ghost Students

(Montgomery Advertiser)

So much has been said about overcrowding in the nation's colleges, it is refreshing to read a dissenting view by a man close to the subject—Dr. Fred E. Crossland, New York University director of admissions.

Writing in a professional publication, Dr. Crossland said overcrowding is a myth, a statistical phenomenon. The "crisis," he says, was created by these facts:

The typical college applicant files three or four applications to different institutions:

More than half of all applications are sent to fewer than 10 per cent of the colleges and universities.

Thus: "One high school senior may become four college applications, but eventually he can become only one college freshman. The overcrowding today is in the admissions offices, not in the freshman class."

There is enough room in the combined capacity of all American colleges to accommodate every reasonably qualified candidate for admission, he added. Only 25 to 50 of the nation's 2,000 institutions of higher learning have more qualified applicants than they can handle.

The problem of course, is to get prospective students to consider the less crowded institutions.

Some excellent ones are in this group, though they may not have the scholastic "image" or a winning football team.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

A copy of your editorial entitled "Great Possibilities" has just reached me. I was pleased to find that you expressed a thoughtful and affirmative interest in the use of new technological devices such as closed-circuit television, which we all hope may increase the efficiency of teaching. I was, however, both amused and a bit incredulous that my obviously out-of-context comment could be seriously interpreted as reflecting a desire to "provide employment for teachers". At the same time I must agree that it was an awkward statement as it appeared, and if those were my precise words I should follow your advice and stand in a corner.

My purpose was to point out that instructional efficiency, which implies among other things handling instructional problems at the lowest cost consistent with the highest standards, was the central objective in the use of closed-circuit television. This is especially true during a period of skyrocketing enrollments when a major challenge is that of finding competent and qualified, to say nothing of distinguished instructors. It would seem clearly irresponsible, during such a period, to use the medium for the purpose of eliminating qualified instructors who are so badly needed. It was encouraging to note that you concluded that the objective of instructional efficiency which you respect, would also tend to make it less costly; an assumption which appears to be inherent in any broad concept of efficiency. We share your assumption, and I venture to add the hope that responsible citizens everywhere share it with us.

May I come out of the corner now?

Sincerely yours,
E. W. Ziebarth, Dean
University of Minnesota

Editor's Note:

Thank you Dean for your good letter. Maybe I should stand in the corner.

The following editorial appeared in a recent issue of the Lincoln Log, student publication at Lincoln High School. It is being reprinted here because of its timely and far-reaching thought content.

Citizens and fellow students, taxpayers and future taxpayers undoubtedly the greatest question in the current bond issue will be the matter of payment. But let's stop and consider who actually will be paying for these proposed buildings. The bond issue which will be put before you on April 23 will last for twenty-eight years.

This not only means that you, the present taxpayer, will be faced with this responsibility, but we, the members of the senior class, who at the termination of the bond issue will be reaching the age of forty-five and forty-six; and your son or daughter in the first grade will be faced with this task. We would be pleased and proud to pay for something that would better the education of the future taxpayer.

Consider what we, the younger generation, are going to have to pay for without pleasure, as future taxpayers. We are going to be stabbed in the face with debts of your generation, the price of war, the cost of atomic and hydrogen bombs, rockets, satellites, crime waves, and we may even have to pay with our lives to defend our own freedom. Please let us have something worthwhile to work and pay for.

Many of you as voters will not vote against this bond issue because you feel it is not needed or not a good plan, but because you are afraid to take upon yourselves that little extra push and determination which will be needed to pay for a new school.

Thief River Falls is not alone in its desperate need for schools and buildings. While many of us as seniors will move on after graduation, we will still inherit the tax debt of other communities faced with similar bond issues and be proud to pay for their schools as well as ours at home.

This community will inherit other '62 graduates who will be as willing and as pleased to accept the responsibilities of paying for good and well-equipped schools if you as voters will only let them. After all our school problem isn't a local one, but a national need.

Several taxpayers are likely to feel indifferent to the future bond issue because their children are grown and won't receive any personal benefit. Neither will we as seniors receive any personal benefits but future generations to come will. Assuming responsibility here is only part of assuming responsibility nationwide. American people will be only as free and great as their schools are free and great.

The satisfaction that we as future taxpayers can have is open to all taxpayers of this community. Let us help pay for something which will benefit all—let's make an investment in the future of America!

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

The Land-Grant Act of 1862

I just came from a very fine convocation and luncheon at the University of Minnesota commemorating the 100th anniversary of the Land-Grant Act of 1862.

The measure provided for a substantial grant of land to each of the states for the purpose of establishing or designating a "Land-Grant College" which would then get the income from the land provided.

In signing the bill, Abraham Lincoln indicated there were two purposes; one was to make higher education available to all the people, and the other to put greater emphasis on "knowledge for use", which meant agricultural and vocational training.

This appropriation was the foundation for the growth of the 67 present Land-Grant colleges and universities that have become so important a part of the states in which they are found.

The University of Minnesota was designated by our Legislature as the Land-Grant College in this state, and the resources then made available have been of enormous benefit to the university and thru the university, to all our people.

The purpose of any state university has been frequently described as three-fold, that of teaching, research and public service. This was indicated by a past president of our own university, James L. Morrill, who was the main speaker at the convocation this morning.

Most of us think of our university as a teaching institution and we think of it primarily as an under-graduate teaching institution. It is a very great research center, of course, a graduate school, and also engages in enormous public service.

Research at our university has brought untold benefits to agriculture in this state through new varieties of crops, fruits and livestock, and probably more dramatically than in any other field, in medicine. It was at our own university that the new world famous heart operation was developed.

There is not a part of the economic or social life of our state that is not touched by the university through research and public service. Its outlet for public service is through the role of individual members participating in a host of committees, surveys and studies. The one that comes first to my own mind is the work of Dean Paul Grambsch, Dean of the School of Business Administration, who is serving as chairman of the Advisory Committee on Tax Reform.

It is no disservice to the other great institutions of our state to speak of the university in its central campus, St. Paul campus and other campuses and experiment stations throughout the state as the fountainhead of research and learning in our state.

The purpose of the anniversary observation was, not only to recall the growth and development of the great Land-Grant colleges over the past 100 years, but also to rededicate ourselves to their support in the future.

U of M Research Team Battles Potato Scab

University of Minnesota plant pathologists have scored an important "break-through" in the battle to control russet scab of potatoes. It is hoped that the discovery will lead to control of the disease.

After three years of research, two plant pathologists, Carl J. Eide, professor, and Monty D. Harrison, research assistant, have discovered that potato russet scab is caused by a microorganism—a filamentous bacterium called Streptomyces.

There are at least two kinds of potato scab — common scab and russet scab. Both reduce the appearance and value of tubers. Common scab has been known for many years but was not always distinguished from russet scab.

One of the important findings of the university research is that russet scab and common scab are two distinct diseases. Plant breeders and pathologists have been puzzled for years over the possible relationship between the two diseases, and now that they are known to be different, scientists can work to develop two different kinds of scab resistance in new varieties of potatoes.

The university researchers found that russet scab develops best in soils that are warmer and more moist than the conditions considered favorable for development of common scab. This knowledge will be important in interpreting field experiments, including tests for resistance and in greenhouse disease tests.

The difference in the temperature and moisture requirements for the two diseases also suggests that russet scab may become a problem in certain areas or in certain years when conditions are unfavorable for common scab.

The fact that russet scab varies from year to year in the Red River Valley emphasizes the effect of environment on the disease, the university researchers report.

Explains How to Grow Certified Red Clover

Seed recommended varieties, clip at the proper time, control harmful insects and provide enough honeybees for cross-pollination will result in good yields of red clover, states County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Certified red clover seed is still available.

These key practices in the production of certified red clover seed are cited in results of five years of experiments conducted by the University in Polk and Clearwater counties.

First of all, seed Dollard or Lakeland, the varieties of red clover recommended for Minnesota, and Pennscott, if you have made arrangments for marketing.

After applying needed fertilizers as indicated by soil tests, red clover for seed production may be planted in the spring with a companion crop such as flax, or in early July without a companion crop. The July seeding permits early summer fallow to control weeds. The companion crop (flax) and clover may be seeded in 18 to 22-inch rows and cultivated the year of the seeding.

In the University experiments, rows 18 inches apart seeded at two pounds per acre produced approximately the same as broadcast seedings at four pounds per acre in 1957, 1958, and 1959. In 1960 and 1961, 18-inch rows seeded at one or two pounds per acre produced more seed than the broadcast seeding at either the two or four-pound seeding rates.

The greater yield of rows over broadcast in 1960 is partly explained by the high yields of Lakeland in rows and by the competition of weeds in broadcast plots during the 1960 drought. Lakeland produced higher seed yields in row than in broadcast seedings and produced better in rows than Dollard.

Stelmaschuk emphasizes the importance of the fact that the lower seeding rates in rows produce consistently higher yields than the higher seeding rates in rows. The use of lower seeding rates permits planting larger acreages with the limited quantities of the stock seed available.

Two or three cultivations—one early in the season and one or two after clipping—gave effective control of weeds in the row seedings, according to the University scientists. Weeds proved to be a serious problem in broadcast seedings. Weed competition for moisture was a major factor in the lower seed yields of the broadcast plots in 1961. It was not possible to control weeds in the broadcast seedings; but weeds were effectively removed from the row seedings with a minimum of hand labor.

Seeding in rows also has the advantage of facilitating roguing to remove crop mixtures in the production of certified seed.

Clipping between June 5 and 17 was found desirable in growing red clover for seed in the Bagley-Crookston area. Weather and farm oprations will determine the exact clipping date for the individual grower. Clipping later than June 20 is not recommended because of the danger of frost before the crop is mature.

Spraying portions of each of 15 red clover fields with DDT or toxaphene during the bud stage gave an average increase in yield of 73 pounds of seed per acre in the University experiments.

Observations on pollination indicated that an average of one honeybee or bumblebee per two square yards of clover during the flowering period should result in a good seed yield. Two colonies of honeybees are recommended per acre, near or in the field.

Farmers planning to get into the certified seed business should contact the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, c-o the University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1, for isolation regulations and other requirements for growing certified seed.

Heart Councils To Meet April 27 in Minneapolis

John B. Moyer, M. D., Duluth, president of the Minnesota Heart association, announced today that active heart council members throughout the state have been invited to a heart council workshop scheduled Friday, April 27, in Minneapolis.

Some of the programs to be discussed will be stroke rehabilitation, closed chest resuscitation, Cardiac-in-Industry conferences, Heart-of-the-Home, professional education seminars, clergy seminars and low cost Rheumatic Fever Prophylaxis.

Thomas M. Seery, M. D., Austin, chairman of the Heart Council advisory committee, stated that "The need for active local heart programs by the people of Minnesota is increasing greatly, and heart councils will continue to expand their roles and facilities in the presentation of these vital programs and services to meet the needs."

The Minnesota Heart association now has 12 active heart councils, and plans to increase that number by the end of this year. Heart councils are the educational arm of the state association.

Home Accident Deaths In State Decline in 1961

407 Deaths Recorded; 40,000 People Suffer Injuries in Accidents

Minnesota had fewer deaths from Home accidents last year than in the previous three years, Glenn Prickett, extension safety specialist at the University of Minnesota, said today.

Accidents in Minnesota homes were responsible for 407 deaths in 1961 as compared to 451 for 1960, 498 for 1959 and 422 for 1958. Fourteen fewer deaths from accidents occurred in nonfarm homes in 1961 than in 1960 but the number in farm homes was only three less, reports from the Minnesota Department of Health show.

In spite of the decline in the home accident toll, the home still ranks second to the highway as the scene of accidents. In addition to the number killed at home, at least 40,000 people in the state suffered temporary or disabling accidents, Prickett said.

Falls were responsible for more than half of the accidental deaths in the home. Last year 194 Minnesotans died as a result of falls in the home, the largest number in the over-65 age group.

Fires, explosions of combustible material and burns were the number two cause of fatal home accidents in 1961. Eighty-two persons died as a result of fires, burns and explosions in home accidents in Minnesota compared to 75 in 1960.

Poisoning ranked third as a cause of home accident deaths; fire arms, fourth; suffocation, fifth.

Each year the largest number of deaths from home accidents occur among the 65 and older group, with infants and young children next. Poisonings are responsible for many of the deaths among children, whereas falls cause most of the deaths among older people.

USO Program to Be Featured During April

April is the month set aside to tell the story of a uniquely American institution, the USO, meaning the United Service Organizations, Inc. says Josiah E. Brill, USO Chairman for Minnesota.

It is the only operating tri-faith agency in the nation, representatives of the Catholic, Protestant and Jewish religions. Its mission is to serve the religious, spiritual, social, welfare, recreational and educational needs of the young men and women in our armed forces in war and peace, within and without continental United States. The USO is now in its 21st year, having been chartered February 4, 1941.

Mr. Brill said the USO operates off-base, some 200 clubs and lounges in continental U. S. and 26 overseas which are being visited by GIs at the rate of some 37,000,000 times annually! The key word is "off-base", meaning that the USO facilities are located in civilian communities nearby training centers and military bases.

USO receives no financial support from the government. Its chief support comes from contributions made through the United Funds and Community Chests, Mr. Brill said.

Dairy Industries Scholarship Is Begun at U of M

The scholarship will be awarded on the basis of academic and professional aptitude, character and financial need.

During the course, which is designed for newly-commissioned officers, Lieutenant Lunsetter received instruction in such subjects as communications, artillery transport, tactics and combined arms, gunnery and material and target acquisition.

He was graduated from Middle River high school in 1952 and received his B. S. and M. S. degrees from North Dakota State University in 1960 and 1962 respectively.

McCarthy Urges Local Action To Protect Consumers

Senator Says Agencies of Government Working In Consumer Interests

"Action is necessary at the state and local levels if the rights of consumers are to be protected adequately." Senator Eugene J. McCarthy declared in a release sent to Minnesota weekly newspapers. "Businessmen and local government officials, sustained and aided by the Federal government, can do a great deal in their own communities where bad business practices can more easily be detected than at the national level.

"As President Kennedy pointed out in a recent message on consumer protection, the federal government has demonstrated concern in this area since 1872, when the first legislation was passed to protect the consumer from frauds involving the U. S. mails.

"Many government agencies today are involved in the protection of consumer rights; the Food and Drug Administration, the Federal Aviation Agency and the Federal Trade Commission all are concerned with the safety and protection of the consumer.

"Congress also has been active in similar areas. Hearings and studies have been underway on a variety of matters involving consumer interests. There have been committee investigations into the drug industry under Senator Kefauver. Senator Hart of Michigan has been conducting an investigation into consumer packaging and labeling which have tended, in recent years, to conceal the true contents and value of products. These Congressional investigations, as well as others, will undoubtedly lead to legislation aimed to prevent these undesirable marketing practices.

"One example of successful legislation along these lines is the Automobile Information Disclosure Act of 1958. This law provides that new automobiles must clearly display the manufacturer's suggested retail price, the price of each additional accessory, and this law has worked well in protecting the automobile buyer from dishonest dealers.

"But even with improved Federal programs to protect the consumer, there remains much to be done at the local level. The activities of such business associations as the Better Business Bureaus can be increased. The local and State governments can improve their enforcement procedures and programs. They can establish additional programs for the detection of practices that are not in the best interests of the consumer"

Youth Employment Committee Meets

Members from 8-county Area Meet at Crookston

Governor Elmer L. Andersen's Northwest Committee on Youth Employment and Training held its initial meeting at the Crookston Country Club on April 11. Sponsored by the Governor's Advisory Council on Children and Youth, with the full cooperation of all state departments and commissions, the committee is composed of 14 civic, business, labor and professional leaders from an eight-county Northwest area.

Governor Andersen, in charging the committee, outlined the problem of youth in the area of youth employment and training and urged the committee to plan immediate and long range activities seeking the solution. He particularly emphasized the need for local study and action by the total community, while at the same time pointing out the responsibilities youth have in seeking and making use of available resources.

Mr. Nick K. Matthees of Moorhead, chairman of the committee, requested full cooperation of committee members in bringing forth ideas for study and action. The 14-member committee will be meeting on a regular basis to consider all aspects of the problem.

The regional committee, second of its kind to be formed in the state, is part of a statewide program aimed at providing maximum employment opportunities for youth. The group's attention was called to the Governor's Biennial Conference on Children and Youth to be held April 23-24 in Minneapolis with special emphasis on youth employment problems.

The regional committee will hold its next meeting at Thief River Falls on May 16. Among the committee members are M. R. Hankerson, Thief River Falls school superintendent; E. Stanley Roadfeldt, Badger; E. Neil Mattson, Warren; and Rev. Arthur L. Lemire, Red Lake Falls.
